COMMITTEE CONFIDENT OF EXCEEDING QUOTA.

With a quota of $163,000 set as. Mason's share of the third Victory loan campaign, a concentrated war bond sales effort is planned to start actively in this commu-September 9 and run the remainder of the

Mason has been cited as one of the outstanding cities in the county in the sale of war bonds, according to Glen Coon, local chairman of the war savings committee. County plans were completed at a Lansing meeting last Friday, at which time Mason was cited as having done the most for a city of its size in the continuous sale of war bonds, with excellent participation in all the special drives,

Emphasis will be placed on individual purchase of bonds, although bonds sold in all categories excepting the A series bonds will he totaled. Bonds will be available at the banks and postoffice store. Applications for bonds will also be taken at Kean's 5c to $1.00 store, Bonds will be sold at Schmidt's and Kean's during the day and after regular banking hours until store closing time. Schmidt's has set a quota of $200 in war bond sales for each of its 10 employees, according to Lange Schmidt. Kean's has not yet set a store quota. In view of Mason's participation in other war bond drives, the lo- NO cal quota is expected to be doubled. Coon said.

In order to make bonds as readily available as possible to individuals wishing to purchase them during the month, business men have been enlisted in the current campaign as salesmen. Bonds may be ordered from any of the al men during September: L. B. McArthur; A. B. Ball, Ball's Furniture store; D. ## MANPOWER CHECKUP

DRAFT RECLASSIFICATION TO BE HALTED.

Selective service boards have been ordered to halt all reclassification work during the last half of September and to take a complete inventory of their districts. Every file, except for men over 45, is to be re-examined and a report showing the present status of every registrant between the ages of 18 and 45 is to be made.

The inventories are to be sent to state and national selective service headquarters.

Colonel William S. Seelye, chair man of Ingham Board No. 1, said: "During the inventory period no changes are to be made in draft classifications. The clerks and board members will be busy with the inventory. Inasmuch as classifications are not to be changed during the half-month, registrants should not telephone or call in person at the office unless they have been asked to do so by employees of the board.'

Processing 8-A Men Long lines of men have been forming at the draft board office every day this week. They are married men listed as 3-A and are taking their screening tests. If the initial tests are passed, many of the men will be transferred to 1-A, regardless of whether they are pre-Pearl Harbor or post-Pearl Harbor fathers. Unless congress forces a change in the selective service regulations when the lawmakers return to Washington September 14, the induction of fathers will begin in

In the local draft district the cases of more than 1,000 fathers have already been processed.

A man who was on the alert last Friday evening discovered that a heavy arch above a window in the second story of the Ware drug store building was about to slip out of place. He notified Herbert Fox of the Fox theatre and Fox notified Leland W. Austin, fire chief. The firemen took their specially-built long ladder and secured the arch.

BY FARMERS MUTUAL

CURRENT ASSESSMENT COV-

With the costs of most other things going up, patrons of the Ingham County Mutual Fire Insurance company are agreeably surprised to find that the cost of fire insurance on their homes, their farm bulldings, tools and livestock is less by 20 per cent this year.

However, the reduction is not in cash because the fiscal year has had to be changed to conform with schedules set up by the state insurance department. The reduction this year is in added cover-age—coverage of 15 months instead of 12 as in the past, but the 20 per cent reduction is there just the same. With the changed rates the cost per $1,000 on Class B risks is dropped from $2.75 to $2.20 per $1,000. The Class C (unprotected property) rate on a 12 rationing board for larger quarmonth basis is now $3.00 instead ters and approve the lease be-

Submits Resignation

Zimmer made no comment beyond expressing his surprise. Superintendent Edwin M. Boyne said he had no statement to make and would not be drawn into any controversy. He, too, stated he was surprised over the resignation. Even the principal himself was surprised at the sudden turn in events, he said. He learned Wednesday that the superintendent had been given a raise to $4,300. Last spring the principal was given an increase of $150 to bring his salary up to $2,950. After learning of the increase given the superintendent, the principal asked for a salary of $3,200. The request was turned down.

Cites Refusals

In explaining his resignation, Principal Walcott said: "My resignation is as much a surprise to me as to anyone. Last spring I was offered a raise of $150, which made my salary $2,950. I signed my contract in the belief that teachers in the higher brackets could not expect big raises.

Farmers Attention

ARE YOU ABSOLUTELY SURE OF YOUR 1944 SEED CORN SUPPLY?

A large percentage of farmers throughout the corn belt have their corn ordered now. Prices have been announced and no one can tell how large the seed supply will be or how long it will last.

It has been the policy of the DeKalb company, that when they could not fill an order, to make substitutions of varieties and grades according to the dates on the orders.

It would be impossible for me to call on everyone who has not ordered his corn before the estimated seed supply is gone. However, I can guarantee delivery on all orders written by me before September 8. I will be at the Howlett Implement Store next Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, September 4, 6, and 7 from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. to take orders. If you prefer you may call at my home any evening except Saturday, Sunday and Wednesday.

Storm Sash Will Save Fuel

Constant cold drafts coming through windows and doors are responsible for use of fuel that could be saved. Installation of properly fitted storm sash and combination doors will eliminate these heat leaks.

Coal is Precious

Because the fuel situation is uncertain you'll want to practice coal economy this winter. Don't do it by sacrificing your family's comfort. Use batt wool insulation as one means of preventing the entrance of unnecessary cold air. And in addition to being a fuel saver, insulation will keep out heat during the summer.

WEATHER OBSERVATIONS

Farmers are jubilant over the showers and the hot weather of the past week. It has been good corn weather and every day of it means the difference between a good corn crop and a failure. If frosts hold off another two weeks there will be a fair corn crop. If the frost holds off for three weeks there will be lots of corn, most farmers say.

The Mackinac Conference

According to some of the New Deal columnists, the holding of the Republican conference at Mackinac Island is almost an act of sedition and, according to the columnists, unless the Republicans decide on a detailed post-war plan which will continue to pour out billions of dollars to Europe, Asia and Africa the Republicans will be stigmatized as reactionary County News to keep us informed isolationists.

We don't know why the Republican conference is being held, except to win the 1944 election. We don't know whether Wendell Willkie will be present or absent and we don't know He enclosed clippings of the Hunwhether the Republicans assembled will reject or accept the Wallace plan of furnishing every person in the world with a quart of milk a day whether he wants it or not.

A lot is being heard about post-war plans, yet what do while the other was an AP disthe American people know about the plans discussed at the patch. food conference in West Virginia or about the plans formulated at Quebec or the plans being worked up into agreements in Washington? The answer, of course, is nothing.

Any post-war plan for the nation, for any business firm, for any school or college, for any city or state, for any church or for any other institution is and must be hedged about by bumper plum crop, about dredging ceived two months previous when a lot of ifs and ands. Detailed plans made now for post-war operation may be entirely worthless. World conditions change from day to day. Business conditions here in the United States never have been static.

All any business man can do in peace-time or in war-time is to operate his business on a day-to-day, year-to-year basis, expanding as the market expands, developing new business, serving his old customers and attracting new ones. Few business men can say with any certainty what their production " or what their products will be in 1944, 1948 or 1951.

Neither can the politicians, whether they be Democrats, and with a sterling example of scrap metal on the farm of his fa-Republicans, Socialists or Communists, map a post-war world self-denial and self-improvement, ther, A. W. Jewett. Award is made with any degree of accuracy. A post-war plan decided today may be utterly worthless a year from today. Statesmen as well as business men know that day-to-day decisions are the ones which count; the right decisions at the right time.

There are few things static in this world. Certainly international affairs are not static. No one can or should commit may actually be the under-privthe United States to any hard and fast policy which would lieged. bind for all time or for any lengthy period of years. What will " be the policies of Great Britain in 1946, what party will be in power in Canada next year? No one knows the answers. It would be idle to draw up a program now to meet the conditions as they develop hour by hour and week by week. All of us, regardless of our political affiliations, will have be content to go along on a day-to-day basis, taking conditions as we find them. All we can hope for in any administration is for honest, straightforward, courageous handling of national and international affairs as they develop day to day. No one can prophesy today what tomorrow may bring.

The Republicans meeting at Mackinac Island will probably confer on how to win the next election. That's what the Democrats are discussing at their conferences. We are admonished that "Politicians think of the next election while than that of girls; more boy babies statesmen think of the next generation." However, to become a statesman a man must first get elected or get his friends elected.

The Mackinac conference is a move to win a Republican victory in 1944. Whether the program adopted prates of two quarts of milk on every doorstep throughout the world, a full dinner pail, two cars in every garage, a helicopter to every family, a chicken in every pot, or the ousting of Harry Hopkins, Madam Perkins and Sam Rosenbaum from the White House, the object of the conference is to map plans for the next election. There is nothing un-American in such a gathering, un-Less anyone who believes that a change in administration would be a good thing is un-American.

One More May Make Two Less

Why isn't Joe Doaks in the army? He is able to be up and around every day. He has a slight limp yet that should not keep him out.

One more Joe Doaks may mean two less men in the army, because it sometimes takes one or two well men to take care of one sick man.

Right here in Mason there have been a half-dozen men returned on medical discharges. Some, in fact most of them, wolunteered for duty. Even with more space there is need for better discipline among the clients. As it is now, the man or woman with the most active set of elbows and the most aggressiveness gets up to the counter quickly while clients who have been in the office an hour or two, patiently awaiting their turn, find the going difficult. Just ordinary good manners, barbershop manners, are needed so that people have their cases handled

Rationing is here until the end of the war, maybe longer. We can help ourselves and the rationing board employees by giving full co-operation.

A decade or so ago almost every book of prose or poetry had to have a motto or symbol to make it finished. Now we seldom have such, and if by chance one omes along with a definite theme, with perhaps a little moralizing, we are instantly suspicious. "How Green Was My Valley" was interesting enough to make most of us forget its basic theme-that goodness and cleanliness of the people was slowly covered with stealth and deceit, just as the dirt of the slag from the coal mine overlapped the valley. "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" has many of the same qualities as "How Green Was My Valley." Although the scene is far distant from Wales, there still seems a similarity in theme. Laid in the while it may not make you free, tenement district of Brooklyn, the story uses for its symbol the Tree of Heaven, which for some unknown reason seems to grow where nothing else wants to-in the midst of smoke, concrete, little earth or water, right in the heart of the city of New York. In spite of lack of nourishment spite of disease and drought, the tree grows. In similar vein, Francle Nolan, the little heroine of the story grows. She certainly has little encouragement to keep alive, She grows slowly but she does. physically, but mentally she alert to every opportunity and ready to take advantage of it. Life in the tenement district is sketched with sure touches by the author, Betty Smith, yet in spite of degrading circumstances, sometimes brutal frankness, she manages to retain for her charactens a sympathetic attitude, making each a real character with

LABOR DAY Salute

To Our War Producers

As the Nation pauses to honor war workers on Sept. 6th, we offer three cheers for the farmers in our territory who have worked so hard and patriotically this summer to produce more food for Uncle Sam and our fighting allies.

For food is just as important as bullets in maintaining today's accelerated march toward victory. All honor then to our war producers . . . in field, in factory everywhere.

Cents and sentiment do mix. Take Henry Ford of Dearborn for instance.

He is the central figure of this tale about two lumber villages in Michigan, now being revived for war work,

Here is Michigan's most astute manufacturer, a genius of mass production and the inventor of the famed Model T "tin lizzy" whose very name has been a lousehold word in American lomes for nearly two generations. Here is the doctrinaire of "more cheaper goods" the industrialist who established the $5 minimum wage in 1912, and who, until the recent advent of the U. A. W.-C. I. We became convinced of the latter distinction recently when we visited the little lumber village Pequaming, five miles north of Lanse on the Keweenaw Bay route to the Huron mountains where Ford has been spending his 1943 vacation. Thanks to Henry Ford, a few remaining families at Pequaming and Alberta are smiling. Homes are, being re-opened. Children will go to school again. And smoke will pour from the mill stacks. The historic town of L'Anse, whose site was a camp ground 200 years ago for French explorers and missionaries, has two satellite villages-Pequaming and Alberta.

Alberta is better known to travelers, for it was created by Ford in 1936 amid a heavy hardwood forest 10 miles east of L'Anse as an industrial experiment. Those you who motored in pre-war days over US-41 between Marquette and L'Anse will remember your surprise and pleasure when you turned a curve in the scenic road and beheld a picturesque, modern community-whitepainted sawmill, neat and trim cottages, a schoolhouse and firehouse, and all this with boulevard lights and fine drinking water and

Ford declined to enter the building, saying that he preferred to remember it as it was with the sound of children's voices

Oscar Olson, his prize fiddler who plays for old-time square dances, was in L'Anse when the industrialist arrived unheralded from his Huron Mountain summer lodge where he spends August

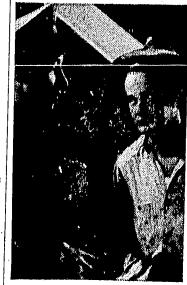

We met Olson at the steps of the village postoffice. He was smoking a pipe, stolidly. He spoke affectionately first of the founder of Pequaming, Charles Hebard. "Yas, I worked for Yarley Hebard," he said, referring to the Englishman lumberman who laid out the community with wide streets and oak trees, like an English suburban town. "The guv'nor was mighty good to us. Ve allus had a yob. Olson related how the "gov'nor," ho ruled the town benevolently like a feudal lord, provided rent-

The He was told that the Pequaming | children delighted Henry Ford on many an occasion by their skill of intricate dance steps.

All this changed when efficiency experts at Dearborn, influenced perhaps by a few heartless and ruthless executives, decided last executives, decided last year to close down Pequaming and Alberta. The workers could hardly believe the news, but they knew new things might be expected because of the war. Veteran employees, who enjoyed high seniority rights, were transferred to L'Anse. Confusion was inevitable, but strangely enough, the Pequaming and Alberta families blamed "company politics" for their troubles and they clung to a strange and abiding faith in their former boss, Mr. Ford. Fiddling Oscar Olson, typical of these, said proudly that Ford had "asked" about him on his recent said August visit. And the mill superintendent at Pequaming beamed with happiness as he told us how Ford had extended his hand for a friendly greeting. "I never thought I would shake hands with Henry Ford," he said. The town newspaper editor, M. G. Menge of the L'Anse Sentinel, is merely "Bill" when Henry Ford of Dearborn comes to town Henry is just that way to people whom he likes.

FUEL IS A

REAL PROBLEM

We don't mean, of course, that the supply of coal is dwindling. It's the means of transporting it that causes the shortage, and before that, the lack of men to mine coal. All of these factors mean that fuel may be difficult to obtain at the last minute, or during the height of the cold season when you need it most. The sensible and simple so-
