until the vacancy as a regular is filled.

The civil service commission in its announcement of the opening of the examination will be open to United States citizens who are actually residing in the territory served by the Dansville postoffice, and who have resided there for a year preceding May 11. The age limits for the examination are 18 to 45. Men serving in the armed forces during World War II will be credited with extra points in ratings.

On a standard route of 30 miles, the salary of a rural carrier is now $2,758, with $20 per year additional for each mile or fraction of a mile in excess of 30. Carriers also get 8c per mile on the daily mileage schedule, a sum amounting to $732 per year on a 30-mile route.

Application blanks are available at the Dansville postoffice. They may also be secured from Harold House, civil service secretary at the Mason postoffice.

Equalization

off for the tax allocation hearings. The 15 mills now must be divided among the various units of government. Some of the schools are demanding bigger shares of the 15 mills.

Doll Leads Attack

Supervisor Dell declared that schools, with more state aid than ever before, will be able to get along on last year's valuations plus new construction. He quoted Joseph Planck of the Lansing board of education as intimating that by printing the school budget the lower valuation will prove adequate for schools.

Chairman Patriarche of the equalization committee insisted the line has come to adjust valuations. He declared they should resist economic changes and trends since 1941. He said that the state tax commission in its 1946 report on Ingham based its computations on 1941 values. The state figure for Ingham is $305,000,000, the committee chairman said, more than 10 per cent above the committee's recommended total.

According to Supervisor Bullen, the school offer to Friday's hearing demanded an increase of 20 per cent in valuations. The committee met the demand half-way, the Aurelius supervisor reported.

Farm Adjustment Made

Supervisor Aseltine asserted that farmers have adjusted their incomes. They are about 20 per cent lower than the peak of two years ago, he said. He declared the proposed valuation increase would tilt taxes 10 per cent.

"Supervisors are elected by the people," the Aurelius member continued, "and rural supervisors made the assessments to the best of their ability. We now resent having our judgment questioned. Taxpayers will resent the increase as a violation of the spirit of the 15-mill amendment."

"When my income is reduced I must go without. It won't hurt government, including the schools, to do likewise."

Fay Suggests Relief

"If an increase in valuations were the only way to provide extra funds for the schools or other units, then I would be for it," explained Supervisor Fay. "The taxpayers struck in 1933 and adopted the 15-mill amendment. But provisions were made for any unit to ask for extra money for special needs. The people will vote for extra millage if the need warrants. In our township one school district is now getting an extra 10 mills by vote of the people. Another district is getting 7.52 mills extra."

Supervisor Russell attacked the inconsistency of school and city budgeting. He declared that Lansing city trimmed its proposed budget and now the school wants to increase its budget. The school board is now asking for extra money to raise the wages of teachers while the city is having to deny raises, he added.

"We are in a revolving door on more taxes for more government," Supervisor Russell said, "and we seem to be afraid to stop it. I think it is time someone tried to apply the brakes."

Supervisor Woods pointed out that the board of supervisors has no mandate to get around the 15-mill amendment.

"The people voted in a democratic manner to fix the maximum tax rate at 15 mills," the Ingham supervisor said, "and they have never shown any inclination to change their minds."

Supervisor Wright said he voted for the increase with the understanding that there would be no increase in the county budget. He said the increased valuation would not raise county taxes, that the budget has already been adopted.

The schools can well use the extra money. The increase in valuation would yield, the Stockbridge supervisor added.

All taxpayers should not be penalized for the benefit of a few school districts which actually need more money, Supervisor Leeman said. He pointed out that school districts and townships can ask their own people for extra millage without levying a higher tax in all districts.

Golf Play Starts At Mason Course

Golfers will tee off at the Mason course Thursday afternoon.

Course F-1, the new owner, reported the course in top condition. The sun and the drying winds made the pools of water vanish the forepart of the week. The only water in sight Thursday morning was in the pond on No. 6.

Greens and fairways came through the winter in good shape. There was no winter kill. Greenskeepers cut the greens Tuesday night.

Field bought the course from Dr. O. Keith Pauley in December. Dr. Pauley bought it from S. A. Murdock last summer.

Crash at Leslie Fatal to Youth

Robert Cummings, 22, of Temperance met instant death at Leslie about midnight Friday. His car struck a truck driven by Harry Wood of Leslie. Mrs. Wood was riding with her husband in the truck cab. Neither was hurt.

Cummings was working in Mason near the Heath Tree Service, Inc. He was rooming at the D. E. Pearson home, 323 Steele street.

According to the report made by Deputies Versie Babcock and Fred Frye of the sheriff's staff, Cummings was driving west into Leslie from Kirby road. He rounded the curve at the cemetery and then struck the flat rack on the Woods truck.

Mr. and Mrs. Woods told the officers they saw the car coming around the curve and that Woods swung his car to the right in an attempt to avoid the crash. They said the car bounced off the side of the truck, spun around and shot back 40 feet to the east. Cummings was thrown out and instantly killed. His body was found under the left rear wheel of the car.

After work Friday young Cummings drove to Leslie where other members of the tree-trimming crew lived. One of his friends was driving east to Leslie when his car bogged down. Cummings drove out to help get the car out of the mud and was returning to Leslie when the accident happened.

Before coming to Mason last month, Cummings worked in Leslie. Last July while working in Leslie he was knocked from a tree when he brushed against a live wire. He broke his left leg in the fall and was in a Jackson hospital for several weeks.

Allocation Board Begins Labor

Dividing up the 15 mills of permitted taxation between the county, the townships and school districts began Monday with a meeting of the tax allocation board. Another meeting will be held within a few days.

At the meeting Monday only five members were present. They were County Treasurer Lyle B. Austin, County Superintendent of Schools Alton J. Stroud, Supervisor Hubert R. Bullen of Aurelius, who is chairman of the ways and means committee of the board of supervisors, and Joseph W. Planck and Ward Kelley of Lansing.

Austin, Stroud and Bullen are on the allocation board by virtue of the office they hold. Planck represents the Lansing board of education, which under the law is entitled to a place on the board because it is the county's biggest school district. Kelley, like Planck a Lansing lawyer, was appointed by Probate Judge John McClellan to represent the county's biggest city. The law provides for that.

On Wednesday Judge McClellan named Hugh W. Slisby as the sixth member to represent the county at large. County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard serves as clerk of the tax allocation board but is not entitled to a vote.

Pressure on the tax allocation board increased Tuesday with the refusal of the board of supervisors to raise property valuations.

LIONS HAVE OPEN MEETING

Mason Lions held an open meeting Wednesday night. The meeting was held at the Masonic Temple. Lions members discussed many future projects. The next meeting will be on May 3.

Robert Barker in Winners Circle

Robert Victor Campbell Barker, 3 years old, the blond, curly-haired son of Mr. and Mrs. John Barker of Weherville, has been named personally baby of the week in the Mason merchants baby contest.

The committee of three judges viewed 14 unidentified photographs of Ingham county children and chose Robert on the basis of personality and expression. As his prize Robert will receive a $5 gift certificate from Collins Sales and Service.

Robert's father is a farmer. The family, including Michael, 2 months old, lives on a farm at 251 South Kane road in Weherville.

The contest will continue through May 16, but because of the increasing interest in the contest by mothers and fathers of Ingham county children, appointment times are becoming fewer, according to the Kraas Studio where photographs of participating children are taken. Mothers are urged to make appointments as soon as possible. No pictures will be taken after May 11.

Winning children each week will be pictured in the Ingham County News at the conclusion of the contest so that readers may choose a grand winner. All children who participate will have their pictures posted at the Kraas Studio display on State street each week.

Mason merchants who are participating in the contest with single gifts to one of the winners are Launstein's Dairy, Mason-Hall Dairy, Ware's Drug Store, Kearn's, Collins Sales and Service, A. B. Gall, Hanson's Modern Dry Cleaners, the Paristyle Shoppe and Kraas Studio.

In addition to Robert other children who participated in this week's contest were Danny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Farr; Daniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donovan McDowell; Kandy Joy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Walker of Lansing RFD; Joette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Scheffer; Valerie Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baker; Victorie Sue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Densmore; Matthew, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ellsworth; Colin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Curtis of Stockbridge; Sharon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Slisby; Larry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Otis of Leslie; Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Longstaff of Leslie; Roger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Clark; and Donna Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Funk.

Bondsmen Travel Way to Arkansas

Fritz Kinville and William Couch left Mason Tuesday for Little Rock, Arkansas, to return Equal J. Weishaupt, 22, held for trial on a check charge.

Kinville and Couch went bond for Weishaupt. He was due in circuit court in Lansing Monday. When he didn't show up the bondsmen forked over $3,000 which they had guaranteed along with $1,000 put up by Weishaupt's friends.

The two Mason men learned that Weishaupt was in Little Rock and they started out. Meanwhile Weishaupt started for Mason, according to reports received by Howard McCowan, Weishaupt's attorney. The bondsmen and their client probably passed enroute.

If Weishaupt reports on his own free will, court attaches said, the bondsmen will probably have their money refunded.

CAMPAIGN IS ENDING

The Ingham county chapter of the American Red Cross expects to close its campaign for members and contributions, on April 30. Due to scarcity of workdays and bad roads, it has not been possible to personally contact everyone in Ingham county, but it is hoped that all who have not done so will enroll in the Red Cross and send such contributions as they are able to make to the American Red Cross, 426 South Washington Avenue, Lansing.

Mason Juniors Stage Mystery Play

There's action aplenty in "Mumbo-Jumbo" being presented by the Mason junior class in the school auditorium Thursday and Friday nights of this week.

The picture shows one of the high spots in the three-act mystery farce. Peaches Greeding, a chorus girl, played by Janice Inghram, has been murdered and her body is being lugged out. At her head are Ruhl Bunker, who takes the part of Sheriff Lem Marblehead of Milburn, and Jim Kelly, who is cast as Harold Custer, a polite young man. Clad in the blazer is John Evans, who plays the part of Dick Reynolds, a college boy. Mary Colby, cast as Madam Celesta, and Lois Fisk as Sheriff Emma Burpee of Hope county, are in the background. On the floor in a swoon is Caroline Brown. She takes the part of the hired girl Tweety.

Others who have leads in the play are Suzanne Pearsall as Mrs. Sarah Reynolds, and her husband John, played by Bill Myers, Arthur Kilpatrick as Pec Wee Smith, Denny Stolz as Monahan, a state trooper, Jennie Kruse as the aged Mrs. Custer, Bob Allen as Peter Beamish, Janice Evans as Kay Samedy, Bill Bartley as Dr. Jaza Omahadra, a West Indian mystic, and Rhessa Roberts as Daisy, a 10-year-old girl.

Delmer Kramer-Carolyn Allen Repeat Vows

Baskets of white gladioli and snapdragons, among palms and lighted candelabra, backed the improvised altar for the home wedding of Carolyn Mae Allen and Delmer Kramer Saturday evening. Rev. Marshall W. Simpson of the Mason Presbyterian church united the couple in a double-ring ceremony at the home of the bride's parents at eight o'clock.

Carolyn's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Allen of 602 McRoberts street. Delmer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Kramer of Route 1, Mason.

Mrs. Don Densmore played background music during the rites. She also accompanied Miss Theo Kramer, a sister of the bridegroom, who sang, "Because" and "I Love You Truly," preceding the wedding. She rendered "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction while the couple knelt.

Mr. Allen gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of white slipper satin with an illusion yoke, fashioned with a fitted bodice and long, pointed sleeves. The full skirt ended with a fan-shaped train. Her full-length veil of illusion was held in place by a cap of rose-point lace and a band of white rosebuds. She carried an arrangement of white roses, centered with a white orchid.

Her maid of honor was Miss Zolene Migrants. She was attired in a gown of Pacific blue and carried a colonial bouquet of pink daffodils, tied with a cascade of ribbon.

Frank Burn of Grosse Pointe Farms served the bridegroom as best man. Robert Allen, a brother of the bride, and James Kelly seated the wedding guests.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Allen chose a two-piece navy blue faille gown and white accessories. Mrs. Kramer, the bridegroom's mother, accented her light blue suit with many accessories. Both mothers pinned messages of talisman roses to the shoulder of their jackets.

There were 125 guests present for the wedding and reception. A three-tiered bell-shaped wedding cake, decorated with wedding bells holding rosebuds, was surrounded by plumosa. Mrs. Elbe Brynne cut and served the wedding cake.

MR. AND MRS. DELMER KRAMER

Mrs. Raymond Myers of Lansing presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. R. G. Henson, the bride's grandmother, assisted at the reception. Miss Alberta Adams registered the guests who attended the wedding from Grand Haven, Grand Rapids, Muskegon, Dearborn, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mason, Jackson, Lansing and Milbury and Toledo, Ohio.

For traveling on their honeymoon trip Mrs. Kramer selected a beige suit, complemented with brown accessories and the orchid corsage from her bridal bouquet. The couple spent a few days at the Palmer House in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Kramer will reside in an apartment on Jefferson street until their home is completed at Eden.

Mrs. Kramer, a graduate of Mason high school with the class of 1949, is employed in the office of Modern Cleaners. The bridegroom, who also attended Mason high school, is employed at Palmer's Grocery.

Mrs. Lloyd Ketchum Honored at Shower

Mrs. Milan Waters entertained at a stork shower honoring Mrs. Lloyd Ketchum Saturday evening. Guests were present from Lansing and Mason.

The evening was spent playing games, after which refreshments of cake, ice cream and coffee were served.

The honored guest unwrapped her gifts from a bassinot, a gift of her mother and mother-in-law.

Women and girls interested in a nursing career can now take part of their nurse training in Mason, under the direction of Supervisor Beatrice MacDonald, registered nurse.

The Lansing Practical Nurse School with which the Mason General hospital became affiliated last year, is a one-year trade preparatory training school for practical nurses. It is sponsored by the Lansing board of education, the office of vocational education, department of public instruction, the Kellogg Foundation and the Michigan Nursing Center association. Educational requirements for entrance are lenient. Students must be between the ages of 18 and 50. They must be able to pass a physical examination and possess the necessary qualifications for a successful career in nursing.

The students attend the Lansing practical nurse school at Lansing Tech for four months. At the school they study nursing procedures, homemaking and other required subjects. At the end of the four months the students are assigned to hospitals for seven months practice in the care of patients under the direction of registered nurses. The students may be assigned to Mason General hospital, Edward W. Sparrow hospital, Lansing, Saginaw General hospital and Saginaw County hospital. When the students are assigned to Mason General hospital they spend six weeks of the seven months at the Edward W. Sparrow hospital, Lansing, for clinical experience in the care of children.

Information about and applications for admission to the Lansing Practical Nurse School may be obtained from Miss MacDonald at Mason General hospital, Mason, or directly from the Lansing Practical Nurse Center, Room 310, Technical high school, 419 North Capitol street, Lansing.

New Radio Show Starts Saturday

Dart & Cady, Mason's authorized Philgas dealer, announced Wednesday that beginning Saturday morning, April 22, at 9:15 a new Philgas radio show will be broadcast over Detroit station WJR. This new radio program features Tiny Stokes and Tony Winkler at the Hammond organ.

"If you have a favorite song you would like to hear on a future program, relay it through us," declared Bernard Cady. Cady pointed out that due to lack of time requests cannot be acknowledged over the air though.

The Philgas program will be on the air every Saturday morning. Dart & Cady invites you to make

Woman Is Hurt In M-36 Crash

Mrs. Leona Ray of Dansville was injured Tuesday forenoon when her car left the pavement on M-36. Mrs. Ray was driving east. A quarter of a mile east of the Dexter Trail intersection Mrs. Ray's car left the pavement and went into a ditch on the south side of the road. The left door flew open and Mrs. Hanna was pitched out. She was taken by ambulance to the Mason General hospital.

Examinations at the hospital revealed no broken bones. Mrs. Ray remained there, however, for observation and for treatment for shock and bruises.

Mason School News

By Rachel Cook

In preparation for school government day, which falls on Thursday, April 27, a meeting was held at Sexton high school Tuesday. The program will be held at Mason this year with Dansville, Holt, Williamston, Haslett, Webberville and Pottsville schools attending. Mason seniors, Beverly Orr and Shirley Belt will act as recorders, and Donna Diamond and Clay Braden will be discussion chairmen. Juniors, Sue Bergeon, John Evans, Caroline Brown, Betty Jones, Bonnie Edmonds, Janice Evans, Janice Ingham, Jim Kelly, Bill Bartley, Bob Allen, Reed Montague and Arthur Kilpatrick will act as hosts. Mayor Cecil Hall will speak on the responsibility of voting. Lawrence Taylor of Michigan State college will also be a speaker. The program will last all day with about 300 attending.

The junior play "Mumbo-Jumbo" is Thursday and Friday nights at 8:00. The play revolves around a New England house which is being rented by two college boys, John Evans and Art Kilpatrick. Jim Kelly plays a timid young man and Jennie Lou Kruse is his mother. Janice Ingham is a hard boiled chorus girl. Bob Allen plays the part of a blind man and Bill Bartley, as a West India mystic, has a patient, Janice Evans. A Hittian witch doctor is played by Mary Colby. Caroline Brown and Rhesa Roberts are two young girls. Ruhl Bunker and Lois Fisk are both sheriffs in the mystery in comedy. Grade children saw the matinee Thursday afternoon.

The sophomores will sponsor a dance, "Spring Frolic," Saturday from 8:00-11:30 in the school gymnasium. The "Wee-3" will supply the music.

John Mire, 62, Dies Tuesday

John Mire, 62, of 5267 Harper road, Holt, died Tuesday, April 18, at the Mason General hospital after a short illness.

He was born July 19, 1887, in Delhi township, the son of Eli and Martha Mire. Mr. Mire has always resided in the vicinity of Holt.

Mr. Mire married Consuelo White. He was a retired railroad man and a farmer.

Besides the widow, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Gerald Warner of Lansing; one brother, Elias Mire of Holt; three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services were conducted from the Logan funeral home in Holt Thursday afternoon at 2:00 p. m. with Rev. Carl Briggs of the North Anselmus Union church officiating. Burial was in the Maple Ridge cemetery.

P.T.A. CONVENTION DELEGATE
Mrs. Alfred Porche plans to attend the 33rd annual convention of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers to be held in Kalamazoo April 25, 26 and 27. Mrs. Porche was recently elected president of the Mason P. T. A. Over 2,000 P. T. A. delegates are expected to attend the three-day session. The convention theme is "Together We Plan."

aged parents to cooperate and contribute to a city recreation program at a P. T. A. meeting Monday evening. Fifth grade mothers served refreshments.

Mrs. Leona Simon, commercial teacher, and J. Edward Soper, shop instructor, will chaperone the senior trip this year.

The first home baseball game will be Friday afternoon at 4:00. There will be a pep meeting Friday to encourage attendance.

Mason pupils received their report cards Thursday.

Father Charles Keating of St. James Catholic mission officiated at chapel Wednesday morning. The chorus sang several selections. The vocal departments will attend a concert at East Lansing Tuesday.

Mrs. Celand Lamphore visited the first grade room taught by Miss LaVeda Box Friday.

Betty Jo Brown celebrated her eighth birthday anniversary with a party Tuesday afternoon. She and her classmates in the second grade room, taught by Miss Betty Miffield, had ice cream and cup cakes.

Pupils in Mrs. Mina Howe's fifth grade room will be treated by the losers in a spelling contest. The pupils have been making spring pictures for art.

Both sixth grade science classes took field trips Monday afternoon. The two sixth grade rooms have formed baseball teams and are now competing for the championship.

New students in the beginners taught by Mrs. Inez Schmidt have brought the enrollment up to 57. New students are Wayne Hickmott from Meads school, Meads, who now lives at 314 W. Columbia; Bernice Clark from W. K. Kellogg school, Middleville, now living at 354 South street; and Cora Yensch from Hubbard school.

There will be no school next Thursday due to the Government Day program.

Meeting Is Set For Auctioneers

The Auctioneers' association of Michigan will meet Sunday afternoon, April 30, at 5:30, at the Hotel Olds in Lansing. There will be a dinner and entertainment on the program.

The meeting will be open to all auctioneers in the state, together with their wives and families. It is not necessary for auctioneers to be members of the association to be welcome at the meeting. Auctioneers are asked to make reservations at once with Secretary Ed Belcher at Marshall or C. B. Smith, Williamston.

French Visitor Now in Venezuela

Gilly Cabe-Maury, a French youth who worked on the Carlyle Waltz farm several weeks two years ago, is now on at the Rockefeller experimental farm in Venezuela.

In a letter to Jim Brown, the French youth reported that he went to a big farm near Waukegan, Wisconsin, after leaving Mason. Unable to get an extension on his visa, he said, he took the Venezuela job last year. There are 4,000 acres on the Rockefeller ranch in Venezuela.

Cabe-Maury came to the United States to learn mechanized farming. When he came he intended to return to France to operate a farm implement agency. He has now changed his mind and intends to become an American citizen, he told Brown.

Levering Woman Buried Saturday

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at one o'clock for Mrs. Delite Rummery of Route 2, Levering. Services were held at Gorsline-Rundman funeral home in Lansing. Rev. Wilson Tennant, pastor of the Holt Methodist church, officiated. Burial was in the Dimondale cemetery.

Mrs. Rummery died Thursday morning at the St. Lawrence hospital in Lansing. She has been in ill health for the last eight years. She was born in Dark county, Ohio, August 12, 1912, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Meyers.

Delite Meyers was married to August (Gus) Rummery at Angola, Indiana, on January 4, 1933. The Rummerys lived for 10 years on a farm at Route 3, Mason, before moving to Levering two years ago.

Surviving are the husband, Gus; a daughter, Kathryn; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Meyers of Levering; two brothers, Harold Meyers of Holt and Bob Meyers of Eaton Rapids; and two sisters, Mrs. June Fellows of Mason; and Mrs. Ruth Cherry of Eaton Rapids.

Col. Vandercook to Address Border Vets

Mexican Border Veterans of 1915, 1916 and 1917 will hear Colonel Roy C. Vandercook Sunday afternoon at Mason. Colonel Vandercook, now of Lansing, formerly resided in Mason. He served as a volunteer in Co. F, 31st Michigan Infantry (Mason's Own) and later became adjutant general of Michigan. He also became the first commander of the Michigan Constabulary, the forerunner of the state police.

Members of Raymond R. Hoagbe Patrol, Mexican Border Veterans, will meet at the Legion Memorial building at 2:30 Sunday for their third annual birthday party.

Commander Ralph Strope of the patrol announced that Colonel Vandercook will be the principal speaker on the program.

National Commander A. L. Motley and National Adjutant E. F. Keiter, both of Indianapolis, National Senior Vice-Commander George Parish of Jackson and National Sergeant-at-Arms Henry Anderson of Mason are among the national officers who have accepted invitations to be present Sunday, Strope reported. Reservations have also been received, he added, from Grand Rapids, Battle Creek, Jackson, Lansing and Detroit veterans.

Joan Jewett of Mason, an acrobatic dancer, and Neil Musolf, Wayne Chief and Phil Arnold, the Dansville Pantomimes, have been booked for entertainment.

There has been some confusion over committee assignments, Com-

Beam, publicity and Alonzo Allen, reception.

At Sunday's meeting committee assignments for the national engagement to be held in Lansing June 9, 10 and 11 will be announced.

An open meeting of the patrol will be held at three o'clock Sunday. The banquet will be served at four, with the speaking and the entertainment following.

Any man who served on the Mexican Border or who was a member of the punitive expedition into Mexico is welcome to attend the meeting and banquet, Commander Strope said.

OXYGEN SAVES CHILD

An oxygen tent at the Mason General hospital saved Bruce, the 2½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Starr of Coy road, Friday. He choked up and was unable to get his breath. The Mason fire department resuscitator crew made a run but did not go into action. A doctor ordered the boy taken to the hospital. He was under the oxygen tent from 6:30 to 11:00 Friday. He was able to be taken back home Saturday apparently recovered.

Gretton District

Mrs. Edward Q. Daft

The Gretton school has a new first grader who just arrived from Japan. She is Yvonne Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Stevens. Mr. Stevens is still stationed in Japan.

The third, fourth, fifth and sixth graders are having a baseball spelling game. Ella Jane Wampler and Richard Panson are the captains. Each counts as a home run. So far Ella Jane's team has 13 home runs and Richard's has 10. The score is tied at 22.

The spelling graders are making a spelling circus. There is a large chart on the wall and each child may put something on it every time he gets an A. The chart was started last Friday.

The Gretton Community club will meet Friday evening at 8:00. Mrs. Walter Pollok is program chairman. There will be refreshments of ice cream and cake served by the committee, headed by Mrs. Willard Droscha.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Noble and family of Onondaga were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Osborne. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Reeves and Mrs. Robert Reeves and daughter of Lansing were afternoon callers at the Osborne home.

Mr. and Mrs. Iva Pratt and sons of Lansing called on Mr. and Mrs. Edward Daft and Carol Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Childs were Sunday afternoon callers of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Droscha and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vaughn of Santa Ana, California, were Thursday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Snow.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Daft, Sr., called on Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pooto and family Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kranz, who have been staying at Mr. and Mrs. Robert Osborne's, have moved their house trailer to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kranz.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford Holley and family of Shaftsbury were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Bedell and family. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Holley of Mason were afternoon callers at the Bedell home. They all visited Mrs. Myrtle Owens of Leslie.

HEADS ROAD BUILDERS

Lt. Gen. Eugene Raybold, war-time Chief of Engineers, U. S. Army, is the new executive vice-president of the American Road Builders' Association, with headquarters in Washington, D. C. He succeeds Charles M. Upham, who recently retired, as the administrative head of America's oldest national good roads organization.

Foresters Study Oak Wilt Disease

Oak trees and the countless products made from their durable wood will not disappear overnight even though a wilt disease has been found in several parts of the nation.

These cheering words come from Leonard R. Steidel, a Memphis cooperage manufacturer and chairman of a newly-formed national oak wilt research committee. The group is composed of representatives of industries depending on oak lumber as a raw material.

"The most hopeful aspect to the problem," he reports, "is the fact that this fungus has been under observation for 20 years and isn't spreading rapidly like the blight which wiped out America's chestnut trees."

The committee has been formed to assist and work with representatives of the division of forest pathology, Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture. The committee is mapping plans for industry representatives and foresters to work closely with the scientists during an oak wilt survey scheduled this spring and summer. This investigation will get under way just as soon as the oak's begin putting out leaves.

Designed to determine the extent of the wilt damage and also how the fungus is spread, the survey will be conducted under the direction of Dr. T. W. Bretz, a field representative of the division of pathology. Dr. Bretz is stationed at the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo.

Control measures will depend on the outcome of the survey.

Real progress is being made in control of cancer. Today if treatment is started before the disease spreads it is estimated that cures can be expected in 9 out of 10 cases of skin cancer; 8 out of 10 cases of cancer of the mouth, and 3 out of 4 cases of cancer of the breast.

Pre-Paid Vacation Greyhound Feature

Whether a vacationer's plans call for a trip to any one of the 48 states, to Mexico, into Canada or even to Alaska over the famed new scenic highway, the Greyhound bus lines have an expense-paid tour pre-planned for that destination.

More than 200 to every section of the North American continent which attract travelers because of its spots of scenic beauty, the national parks, historic shrines or metropolitan cities, have been scheduled by the Greyhound organization.

These trips are arranged to provide advance reservations for accommodations at first-class hotels or resorts, special sightseeing tours or points of interest, and bus transportation, all at pre-determined price. Meals are not included, except at national parks or such other locations where public eating places are not available, because most travelers prefer the freedom of selecting their own restaurants.

Not only do the Greyhound tours enable the traveler to pre-determine the cost of his vacation trip, except for meals and personal expenses, but also offer conveniences which add to pleasurable traveling. With hotel reservations made in advance, there is never the necessity of paying a higher rate than was anticipated in order to obtain accommodations. Of the various sightseeing tours in any given area, a selection has been made of the ones which provide the greatest value and interest to the tourist. Another advantage is that the traveler is not required to carry large sums of money; payment for hotel rooms and sightseeing trips is made by Greyhound-issued coupons.

Most of the Greyhound tours are planned for one and two week vacations, but any trip can be "tailor-made" to fit personal requirements for special stop-overs en route. This is because the Greyhound trips are not conducted as tours for large groups. They are planned for the individual traveler and practically all may be started any day of the week.

In most of the larger cities in the United States and Canada, special Greyhound highway tours service is provided at the local Greyhound stations. Experienced travel advisors are available for consultation without obligation. However, information on the pre-planned, expense-paid tours may be obtained on request at any place where Greyhound bus tickets are sold.

A & P Answers

JOHN A. HARTFORD

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. flatly denied government anti-trust charges in U. S. district court April 10 and termed the civil suit against it an effort to change the nation's "entire economic structure."

In its first formal answer to the complaint, asking dissolution of the 90-year-old food chain, A & P said there "is no justification in fact or in law for the drastic and confiscatory destruction" of the company.

A & P denied in detail the charges of restraint of trade and monopoly brought under the Sherman Act. Defendants John A. Hartford, chairman of the board, George L. Hartford, treasurer, and the A & P asked through counsel that the complaint be dismissed.

"The plaintiff," A & P contended, "is asking this court to act by judicial fiat, new and extraneous principles of law which would result in a complete remodeling of the entire economic structure of this country."

A & P termed its expansion a "natural growth," which came almost entirely from within the company and not by mergers or by buying out competing companies.

The answer said that A & P "has made substantial contributions toward revolutionizing" the food business, "with enormous and incalculable savings to the consumer and especially to the worker families."

The effect of the company's activities "has not been to restrain trade or to prevent competition," the answer continued. "On the contrary, its competition has greatly promoted trade and increased competition."

Home Fashion Notes From Ann

You remember last week we were talking about the advancements the carpet industry has made in color and design. Carpet manufacturers are definitely not only keeping pace with the trends in decorating, but also setting new styles of their own. Since your carpet is the basis for your whole room and sets the mood, it is the logical place for many of you to start your color scheme.

It may clear matters up for you to consider which of three basic types of color schemes appeals to you the most. There is the contrasting color scheme, the blending and the accented color scheme. By using your carpet as the starting point, we are ready to plan.

In a blending color scheme you would use different tints and shades of colors side by side on the wheel, such as mauve shades to blue violets. This color scheme is restful and harmonious if the colors are selected with care.

The accented color scheme is the same as the blending, except that one color from the opposite side of the wheel, such as green, would be used with the side by side colors for accent.

Don't forget this is National Carpet Fashion Week. We would like to have you stop by and see the new Gulistan carpets shown on the inside cover of the May House & Garden. We will also have some displays using the three basic types of color schemes outlined above.

County Health Director Advises All Over 40 to Have Cancer Test

People should use April to make sure that they do not have cancer, Dr. Roelof Laning, medical director of the county health department, urged in calling on all Ingham county residents to participate in cancer control month. Persons past 40 should call their physicians now to make appointments for complete physical examinations, he said, and should ask their friends and acquaintances to do the same.

Cancer claimed approximately 167 lives in Ingham county in 1949. The majority of the victims were over 55 years of age. This one in eight ratio is showing no change in the first three months of 1950.

The fact is, Dr. Laning pointed out, that Ingham county is in a common past 40, in any part of the body in either sex. It is neither hereditary nor contagious.

Dr. Laning listed recognizable symptoms of cancer that make higher cancer susceptibility bracket than some counties in that the county has an older average age population than the nation at large. For this reason, he urged all to watch for any signs or symptoms which might mean cancer and to take advantage of the facilities in our county to have an examination.

"Only a physician can tell whether a person has cancer," Dr. Laning said, "so don't let the old wives' tales around your neighborhood frighten you. Go to your doctor so that you know for sure."

"If you are a man, don't feel that cancer is a woman's disease. Many men have cancer of the skin, stomach, lungs, prostate glands, intestines or rectum."

"Cancer can and does occur at any age, but is increasingly more prompt medical attention impera-live. They are (1) any sore that does not heal properly, particularly about the tongue, mouth or lips; (2) a painless lump or thickening, especially in the breast, hip or tongue; (3) irregular bleeding or discharge from the nipple or any natural body opening; (4) progressive change in color or size of a wart, mole or birthmark; (5) persistent hoarseness, unexplained cough or difficulty in swallowing; and (7) any persistent change in natural bowel habits.

"Some cancer can be prevented and most cancer can be cured if you visit your physician and are treated in time," Dr. Laning added.

Funeral Services Held Monday for L. A. Beach, 62

Lacy A. Beach, 62, died Friday, April 14, at the Mason General hospital after a long illness. He had been sick for a long time and in November entered the University hospital with a brain tumor, which resulted in his death Friday.

Mr. Beach was born January 22, 1888, to Dennis and Isabelle Beach in Jackson county, West Virginia. He attended school there and moved to Mason in 1904 where he has since resided.

On October 12, 1910, Edna M. Powell and L. A. Beach were married at Jackson county, West Virginia, where Miss Powell lived. Mr. Beach was a fur buyer and farmer. He belonged to the Mason Church of the Nazarene.

Surviving besides the widow are two sons, Thurlo and Lansing and five brothers, Charles and Earl of Lansing; John and Allen of Williamson and Lon of Bellevue, West Virginia; one sister, Mrs. Lula Nohe of Parkersburg, West Virginia; and 17 grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted from the Jewett funeral home Monday at 2:00 p. m. Rev. Hugh Putnam of the Mason Church of the Nazarene and Rev. Murray Morford, former Mason pastor, of Hammond, Indiana, officiated at the rites. Burial was in the Maple Grove cemetery.

Rev. Melvin and Pearl Beach of Williamson, and Marvin Lott, Cleo Bailey and Maurice Bailey, nephews of Mr. Beach, served as pallbearers.

Phone Employees Are Promoted to Higher Brackets

The Michigan Bell Telephone company granted 42,000 individual pay increases last year although there was no change in basic wage rates under contracts with unions representing most of its employees.

Robert L. Tripp, manager for the company, said the increase averaged 5 per cent for employees of the company and raised Michigan Bell's payroll $5,500,000.

All of the increases were granted under the company's wage and salary progression policy, Tripp said. The policy calls for pay raises at regular intervals as employees advance in service with the company until they have reached the top rates for their classifications.

Approximately 2,500 employees, or 10 per cent of the company's personnel, were promoted to better jobs in the Michigan Bell or other Bell System companies during the year.

Tripp reported the company has 2 1/2 times as many employees today as it did 10 years ago.

"This is particularly significant," he said, "in view of the claims, from time to time, that technological improvements lead to unemployment in the telephone industry."

"There have been many technical advances in the telephone art in the last 10 years. The proportion of dial telephones to the total service has gone up from 51 to 85 per cent. Operator toll dialing has been introduced to permit operators to dial straight through to distant cities. Yet, despite these and other important developments, the number of Michigan Bell operators has increased from 2,700 to 7,200 in 10 years.

"The answer, of course, is that improvements in telephone equipment not only have permitted the company to handle the natural growth of the business but have stimulated that growth by providing faster and better service. All this has brought an increased demand for the service which, in turn, has created more work and more jobs to handle the work."

Tripp said that 44 per cent of the company's employees have been with Michigan Bell more than 5 years. One out of six has more than 20 years of service with the company.

Although there are more than 13,000 women among the 22,200 employees, turnover of employment at the company was less than half the average for all manufacturing industry in 1949. It amounted to 16 1/2 per cent of the total personnel and only 10 per cent for male employees. Most women leaving the company, he pointed out, do so for marriage or family reasons.

Limestone Quarries of State Form Study Sites for Wayne U. Students

Examining a piece of limestone in one of Michigan's many quarries are three Wayne University students from Michigan communities: Evelyn Cole, of Okemos (left), who is working with the rock hammer; Shirley Noll, of Crystal, holding a specimen sack; and Florence Heidericks, of Newaygo.

About 350 million years ago Michigan lay under a great inland sea, in whose salty waters lived billions of tiny creatures. As they died, their shells and skeletons sank to the bottom, and later were covered by earth.

Today the sea is gone, and the marine deposits have become compact layers which we know as limestone. An important resource in itself, this limestone is also a protective covering for other underground treasures, says Dr. Willard H. Parsons of Wayne University's geology department in Detroit.

Limestone formations stretch below the surface of every county in Michigan, he points out. In the Lower Peninsula the formations are shaped like a stack of shallow bowls, with the deepest portions at the center of the state.

In this deep-buried portion, Michigan's oil and gas deposits are found. Sealed far beneath the surface and held in the porous limestone layers, the oil pools and gas pockets remain until tapped, as in Isabella, Midland, Gladwin, and Barry Counties. The limestone deposits in these interior are thus more important as sealed pouches for natural treasures than as quarry sites.

It is at the bowls' edges in the lake-bordered counties — Monroe, Wayne, Huron, Arenac, Alpena, Presque Isle, Cheboygan, Emmet, and Charlevoix — that limestone quarrying is most profitable. Here the limestone is close to the surface, and near cheap water transportation.

In the Upper Peninsula, as in the Lower, quarry sites have been chosen near water transport, with Mackinac and Schoolcraft Counties noteworthy centers. Outcroppings occur in many Upper Peninsula spots, however, forming some of the scenic wonders of the area, like the Burnt Bluffs near Fayette.

Aware of limestone's importance, 600 Wayne University students will make field trips to various quarries within the state this year. They will be studying Michigan's gray-white wealth of stone — basic ingredient in the making of iron, fertilizers, chemicals, and building materials; and a "foundation stone" of Michigan's prosperity.

U. of M. Offers Summer Classes

The 57th annual summer session of the University of Michigan will begin June 26 with classes being offered in 12 of the 14 schools and colleges and in eight summer camps.

Of the campus units of the university, only the schools of dentistry and nursing will be closed during the summer. Camps which offer summer programs will be the biological station, at Douglas Lake; Camp Davis, in Wyoming, for courses in geology and surveying; the fresh air camp, near Pinesburg, offering laboratory courses in education and psychology; Camp Filbert Roth, in the Upper Peninsula, for forestry students; the geography camp, near Mackinaw City; Camp Killarney, in Manitowish district, Ontario, for meteorological field work; National Music camp, Interlochen; and the speech camp, at Northport. The university will also have classes at the Institute of Social Work, in Detroit, and will give credit for selected courses offered through the Michigan colleges of education.

The department of astronomy will sponsor a symposium on the structure of the galaxy, June 22-24, in connection with the dedication of the new Heber D. Curtis memorial telescope at the Portage Lake observatory. A two-week symposium is planned on the subject "The Biology and Chemistry of the Cell," with guest and resident faculty participating.

NO. 1 ON THE HONEYMOON HIT PARADE

NIAGARA FALLS—Renowned as a mecca for honeymooners, mighty Niagara is never more beautiful than in the Spring. This magnetic tourist attraction continues to draw more than 1,500,000 visitors annually who come to watch one hundred and twenty million gallons of water thunder over its brink each minute in a steady flow of any of the world's famous falls. Many persons choose Niagara as the destination of a Greyhound expense-paid Amazing America Tour. The tour includes a daytime visit to Niagara's many famous vantage points, a night time tour when the Falls are floodlighted with many-colored, billion-candlepowered lights, and the famous "Maid of the Mist" excursion. There are more than 200 of these Greyhound tours to all parts of the continent. They are not conducted tours, but are planned for groups and individuals who may come and go as they please, and stay as long as they wish. The tours include round-trip transportation, hotel accommodations arranged in advance, sidetrips and sightseeing.

INVITATION - AND A CHALLENGE

"You never can tell till you try" - so we want you to try the 1936 Buick. And we especially want you to compare it with others. Drive any other car ahead drive Buick and see what your money should buy in ride, room, handling and power.

Only Buick has Dynaflow - and with it goes:

- HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.)
- NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD farside, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights
- WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back
- TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius
- EXTRA-WIDE SEATS
- SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-leaf springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube
- WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.

What you really have here is a four-way forefront. A design that sets the coming style note - avoids many a tangle with the car ahead - makes handling easier - and costs less to repair.

And note that parking-light lenses, made of plastic and set deep in recessed sockets, are well out of harm's way - even when pushing a stalled car.

You'll find this bold front end only on Buick - as you'll find Fireball power, Dynaflow Drive, Buick's wonderful ride, and many another headline value only on these beauties.

Why not see your dealer now for the whole story - including the happy story on prices to fit practically any budget?

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

Farmer Peck's Wife

Achievement days provide inspiration.

Who puts the dresses on Mr. Borden's cow?

The Saturday Evening Post should have a children's page.

There must have been a lot of people who felt like Susy (the last night when she said, "Mama, the next time we go some place, let's stay home!" We were stuck in the mud and she hasn't liked it since the Sunday school party last week over at Bruce Hofferbert's when we were really stuck.

Coming home with a load of 4-H youngsters from St. Johns and the achievement program last night, we went up a doubtful road with one of the boys and down we went. It gives you a funny feeling in the pit of your stomach to feel that drop and know you are stuck. But Pete can get out of a place that looks impossible to me so after backing up and all of us straining forward in our seats, out we went. What a relief!

The 4-H exhibits were inspiring. It surely was interesting to go up and down the rows of dresses, aprons, skirts, knitted things and handiwork articles with each child's name and age on it. As a leader myself, I could imagine all the hours and hours of work and close companionship piling into a heap that would make a small mountain. Somehow this must make each boy and girl - and leader - a better person in many ways.

No matter how discouraged you may get (and don't we all?) when during the year it seems the youngsters aren't accomplishing anything, they do manage to get completed and once the things are assembled and on exhibit - doesn't it seem GOOD? You feel all full of more enthusiasm to begin next year with real hope and inspiration. From what was overheard from the back sent the 4-Hers felt that way, too. I wonder what the county leaders think sometimes. Do they ever have those low feelings, too, and then when achievement days come does it pep them up and give them the satisfaction they deserve?

Do you have a 4-H club in your district or have you started one? For every girl to learn to mend, darn, to cook and put in a hem seems such a grand idea. I wish every boy and girl had an opportunity to belong to a 4-H club and someone has to start it.

The Evening Calm
I usually write this early in the morning or late at night after the girls are in bed you know that peaceful "calm" that comes to your busy and noisy households at the end of a perfect day when the children are in bed and asleep. I wouldn't trade my job for anything on earth yet I often feel the need of that calm period to fortify me for the next day. (Only as I told you a few weeks ago when they are sick I wish they would tear around.) But this is not what I started to tell you. It's that I sat down to write this late afternoon, see the girls are wide awake and wanting to type and write with my pen (say, how do you get ball point ink out?) so I gave them some magazines to look at. They like looking at pictures next best to well, let's say they like to look at magazines very much and will spend a long time admiring, criticizing, comparing, oh-ing and ah-ing.

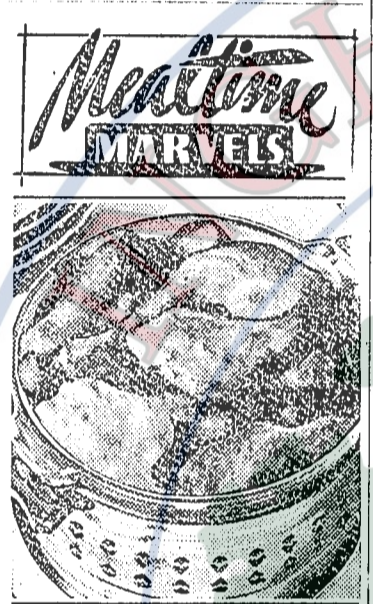

They think the Saturday Evening Post is pretty special. Susy keeps looking for baby pictures and animals but Sally pores over every picture and illustration with the most curious mind. She wants to know all about every one - if a dog ever did live in a dog house - who puts the clothes on the Borden cows, the cows or people - if each picture is real or make believe. She just asked me if I thought a certain cartoon was very funny. She says she is trying to figure out if she should laugh or not. If I get this mixed up (more than usual) just imagine turning your head every few seconds to answer a question or look - looking, too, is very important. They sit cross-legged behind me on theavenport and over they come to have me read what it says on it then what is going on in a picture.

Susy is more content to look for long periods at a time - she'll even turn it sideways or upside down to get the desired effect. How she'll frown and concentrate trying to understand what is going on. There's quite an education in looking at magazines. Pete's folks take the National Geographic and the girls like to investigate them - and ask questions.

Magazines should recognize children's interests. Wonder why all magazines and newspapers don't put in more stories and articles for children. Of course there are several children's magazines but I believe a child's page in more big national ones would be welcome - and make for bigger sales and popularity, too. Someday I'm going to send in some children's stories and see how soon they come back!

Shiny new shoes! I guess little girls and boys - the world over always sleek their feet forward and say, "I got new shoes!" We got them from Clean Shaver's new store at Ithaca. We went to school together and he's just the same as ever, jolly and a really good clerk.

SOUTHERN CHICKEN CASSEROLE

The South and fried chicken are synonymous where food is concerned, for Dixieland has been famous for its fried chicken since plantation days. Now from the new South comes a delectable variation on the fried chicken theme. It is called

Southern Chicken Casserole
1 fryer disjointed
1/2 cup flour
salt and pepper
4 tablespoons fortified margarine
1 small bay leaf
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup water
1 small can mushrooms (stems and pieces)
Season the flour with salt and pepper. Cover the chicken with seasoned flour. Place in casserole. Dot with bits of margarine; add bay leaf, mushrooms, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, and water. Cover. Place in a preheated moderate oven (325° to 375° F.) and cook for 1 1/2 hours.

Spring Fever? Here's The Remedy!

A PLATE of hot, home-made rolls and a potful of fresh, fragrant coffee - what could be better on a white and invite them to drop for afternoon coffee. Then shine up the living room, get out your prettiest linen and china. Before your guests arrive, bake a pan of Brown Sugar Pinwheels, timing them so they will be warm from the oven for serving. And there you are - all set for a delightful afternoon.

Timing the coffee is important, too. It should be as fresh and fragrant as a spring breeze. Make it at the last moment, serve it piping hot and be sure you make enough for plenty of extra cups to chat over!

Brown Sugar Pinwheels
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup buttermilk
2 cups biscuit mix

Brown Sugar Mix
1 lb. light brown sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
Combine brown sugar, cinnamon and allspice. Add butter or margarine broken in small pieces; cream with finger tips until well blended. Store in tightly covered jar in refrigerator. Yield: about 2 cups. Note: This mix is delightful crumbled over hot cereal or served on hot pancakes or waffles.

Extension Offers Free Training to Learn Sewing

Your wish to make your own clothes, or your children's clothes, to save money and have garments that are original need not be an idle one.

Many homemakers without previous training or sewing experience have learned the skills as part of the program of their home demonstration group. Training is provided by clothing specialists from Michigan State college's extension service. They train leaders who in turn train local group members, and it is all free.

For women with small children there are special classes for making children's clothes. Last year members made more than 500 children's coats and other garments and saved more than $2,000. They made more than 3,000 dresses for themselves and saved nearly $20,000.

Instruction is set up so that you progress from simple garments to more complicated patterns and fabrics. If you know something about sewing you can start with a more advanced group. You will be pleased to learn new finishes and short cuts in sewing.

Home demonstration members like their home sewed garments because they believe they are more satisfactory than ready-mades in material, construction and fit.

Other phases of clothing are also presented to the members such as facts about the new finishes for fabrics and the use of new fabrics. They learn how to remodel older garments to present-day styles. Study of accessories, becoming styles and colors and pattern alteration are also of interest.

Clothing construction is only one of many interesting activities that you may choose as a home demonstration member. Consult your county home demonstration agent at your county seat for further details.

Karl Marx was a frequent contributor to the New York Tribune while living in poverty in London after his exile from Prussia and France.

A whole new world of cookery and eating pleasure awaits you if you're one of the many homemakers who have neglected a most interesting phase of food preparation - herb flavoring. Here is truly a "secret" for you, says Mary Bodwell, agricultural economics department food specialist at Michigan State College.
Adding herbs is an art, she admits, but those adept at it have found an inexpensive way to add pleasant variety to our familiar foods. If you like to experiment, here are a few of Miss Bodwell's pointers to help get you started.
First, don't expect to start as an herb "artist." Start with one or two herbs, then keep in mind that it's easier to add than subtract. Add small amounts. For dried herbs this might be one-fourth teaspoonful to a serving for four. When familiar with one or two herbs you can add others to the shelf and experiment with blends of two or more herbs. In blending, try to avoid pronounced flavors.
Know what herbs are available, and the foods with which they go well. Parsley, chives, dill, mint and sage are familiar to most of us. Others adapted to cooking include basil, borage, coriander, marjoram, rosemary, summer savory, tarragon and thyme. All can be bought the year around in most grocery stores, except for fresh forms of those like chives, dill or mint. Usually it's possible to buy an economical 2-ounce package of dried herbs. Buying small quantities avoids losing the aromatic flavor quality before the herbs are used.
Rosemary and sage, the "pungent" herbs, are used a great deal in cooking meats.
"Blending" herbs include chives, parsley and summer savory. Chives

Delhi
Meeting for a 12:30 luncheon last Tuesday, 13 members of the Delhi extension group convened at the home of Mrs. Howard North for the lesson on color in the home. Mrs. Howard North presented the lesson material. Mrs. Clarence Leonard, also a leader, was unable to attend because of illness. The membership decided that each would bring her own lunch to meetings.

Ockemos
The Ockemos extension group met Monday at the community church parlors with 16 members present for the business meeting at 10:30. They were joined by members of the Sandhill group for a potluck dinner at noon. At 1:30 members and their friends met together to hear Mrs. Ramona Bretz of Lansing present a demonstration-lecture on Color in the home.

Health Department Urges Beans in Diet

The Michigan department of health today advised Michigan people to eat more Michigan beans. Beans are a low cost meat alternative. Michigan navy beans are an economical and tasty source of protein, iron and B vitamins. They are among the basic foods which should be included in almost every body's diet. The lower income more often Michigan beans should appear on the table. Men's of the average family should include three-quarters of a pound to a pound of dry beans per person each month - boiled or baked, in soups, in salads, or in sandwiches. Michigan residents should take advantage of the fact that the farmers of the state produce about 95 per cent of the nation's bean crop.

Surfaces to be painted should be prepared properly before you ever pick up the brush. It will save you many dollars, say Michigan State college agricultural engineers.

Cook Vegetables For Short Time

You probably cook your vegetables too long. Most people do, according to Mrs. Alice Smith, chief nutritionist of the Michigan department of health.

Don't stew your vegetables until they slump. Cook vegetables the shortest amount of time possible to make them tender and edible. This means cooking fresh green corn three to five minutes and shredded cabbage three minutes. Use as little water as possible. Plan your meals so you serve the vegetable as soon as it is tender.

Use more vegetables raw. Try raw cauliflower in your salad and rutabaga strips on the relish plate. Bake tomatoes whole and cut carrots lengthwise for cooking to save nutritional value Mrs. Smith advises.

GOVERNOR TO SPEAK

Governor G. Mennen Williams will be the guest speaker at the rural electrification meeting to be held at the Portland high school on Thursday, April 27. He will speak on progress made in Michigan in the rural electrification program. Vern Freeman of East Lansing, assistant state 4-H leader, will talk on the need for greater interest in the electrification program. The program, which is open to the public, will start at 8 p. m.

Presbytery Will Commission Miss Joan Davis Here May 1

In a ceremony in Mason Monday, Miss Joan Davis will be commissioned as a Presbyterian church worker. She is now completing a course at the McCormick Theological seminary in Chicago and next year will study the Japanese language at Yale. The Presbyterian board of foreign missions has appointed her to a mission field in Japan.

Members of the Lansing Presbytery and the Michigan synod of the church will participate in the May 1 ceremonies. Rev. Marshall W. Simpson will preach the sermon.

As explained by Rev. Simpson, ordination in the Presbyterian church is granted only to men. The value of women's work is recognized, however, the difference between ordination and commissioning, Rev. Simpson continued, is that ordination permits the administration of the sacraments and officiating at weddings while commissioning does not. An ordained minister becomes a member of a Presbytery while commissioned workers remain members of their home church while on foreign duty, and members of Miss Joan Davis will serve in Japan as a member of the Mason church.

Just One Empty Pew
Was it for Sunday, April 10, that you prophesied there would be plenty of empty seats in the churches?
Never reckon without the Nazarenes, for with no special program of any kind, we had only one empty pew (front, of course).
If just wanted you to know that you can't believe all you read in the papers.

20 YEARS OLD, FELINE FINE—"Mary Ellen," a cat belonging to Martha Ellison of Hempstead, L. I., N. Y., gazes appreciatively at a cake baked for her on her 20th birthday. The cake, appropriately enough, was decorated with sugar "mice." "Mary Ellen" has lived eight years beyond the average life span of a cat.

In a reply to Republican legislative leaders, Governor G. Mennen Williams has reaffirmed his decision not to permit the state legislature to consider a bill in 1950 to increase gasoline and weight taxes for city and rural road improvements. As the 1950 legislative session is a special session, not a general session, the governor is within his rights to limit bills which the legislature may consider this year.

The Michigan supreme court has restored Brig. Gen. Louis A.

Kimzig to his position as business manager of the liquor control commission. The court opinion held that the state civil service commission had full jurisdiction over a state employee in a classified civil service position. Kimzig was fired by two Democratic members of the three-member liquor board, headed by John J. Kozaren, an appointee of Governor Williams. Kimzig served under Governors Kelly and Sigler, and he qualified for his post in a civil service competitive examination, conducted by the civil service commission. The court opinion serves to reinforce the authority of the civil service commission in safeguarding employees from political patronage raids.

Automobile finance gouging in Michigan, as reported by the Better Business Bureau of Detroit, would be eliminated by a reform bill now before the Michigan state legislature. The sponsor is State Senator Henry P. Hill, Lansing. The bill has already been approved by the senate, and a favorable vote in the house is forecast this week.

A recent statement of the Better Business Bureau included the following:

"Typical complaints have disclosed gouging of car purchasers by unscrupulous dealers and finance companies whose 'finance charges' included dealer 'kickbacks' up to $108.50 and rates of 44%, 60%, 84%, 100%, 134% and up.

"These loan shark rates can be charged with impunity because of the weird fiction that a 'finance charge' is a so-called 'all-time differential' but isn't interest and hence not subject to the usury laws!"

Amendments aimed at eliminating the welfare chiseler have been reported favorably by the senate social aid committee of the legislature at Lansing. Amendments would limit state matching funds to 50 per cent of the county total unless a higher ratio had been approved by the state administrative board; require uniform rules for all county welfare boards; penalize welfare applicants should they fail to report all income; require recipients of welfare funds to take available work at prevailing wages. These recommendations are the result of an investigation made by a welfare investigating committee headed by Senator Colin Smith, Big Rapids, Republican.

Governor Williams continues to maintain in public speeches that $10,000,000 in additional general tax, if paid by corporations out of profits, would not be paid ultimately by consumers, Governor Williams says that corporations would not transfer state tax to the consumer in the form of price increases. In fact, in his March 15 message to the legislature he held: "The weight of expert opinion holds that a corporation profits tax cannot be shifted to consumers in price increases."

Increased benefits of unemployment compensation are proposed by President Truman and Governor Williams. The additional cost of President Truman's recommendations was estimated by the president in a message to Congress on April 7 to be $850,000,000 all paid by employers. The federal and state unemployment tax is added to production costs and he-comes another hidden tax paid by the consumer.

Alfred Bransdorfer, at the left, is listening to William Bennett, chief of state department photographers, tell of the importance of pictures in teaching of the American way of life overseas.

Bransdorfer is a senior at Michigan State, and editor of the 1950 Wolverine. He is also national president of Kappa Alpha Mu, collegiate photo-journalism honorary fraternity. The Michigan State chapter was host at the national convention last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Lansing observers are wondering whether the state legislature can reverse a trend, abetted by pressure groups and encouraged by some governors, of bigger and better government spending. If Republican leaders can hew to the line, balancing the state budget without imposition of a new tax for increase of state expenditures, the result will be a near miracle. The federal government finds itself unable to make ends meet, even in a period of record prosperity. It is easy to talk economy; it is very difficult to do it. The test will come at Lansing in a few weeks.

Marines Seeking Reserve Officers

Commissions in the U. S. marine corps reserve are now open to young men and women who are sophomores and juniors enrolled full time in an accredited college or university and who are not affiliated with any other military organization.

Enrollees can pursue their normal studies without any special courses or activities demanded but they must spend six weeks during summer vacation at the marine corps base at Quantico, Virginia. At the successful completion of one or two of these training periods, depending upon their year in school, and upon graduation from college they receive reserve commissions. The top five per cent are afforded the opportunity for a regular commission.

Openings for 37 enlistments in the regular marine corps of qualified men 17 to 29 also exist in the state for the month of April.

Information on the reserve of-floor's program and enlisted recruiting program can be obtained at the marine corps recruiting station at the postoffice in Lansing.

Bagdad Is Fairy Tale City in Color Film at Fox Theatre

Starring Kirby Grant and Jan Clayton, and featuring the all-white German Shepherd thoroughbred, Ch. In o. k. "The Wolf Hunters," coming to the Fox on Saturday, is based on the James Oliver Curwood novel of the same title.

"The Wolf Hunters" is a story of murder and fur thievery in the Canadian north woods, and deals with the manner in which a Royal North West Mounted police corporal solves the crimes and brings those responsible for them to justice. He is aided by Chinook, an intelligent dog which seems destined to take his place alongside such canine stars as Rin-Tin-Tin and Lassie.

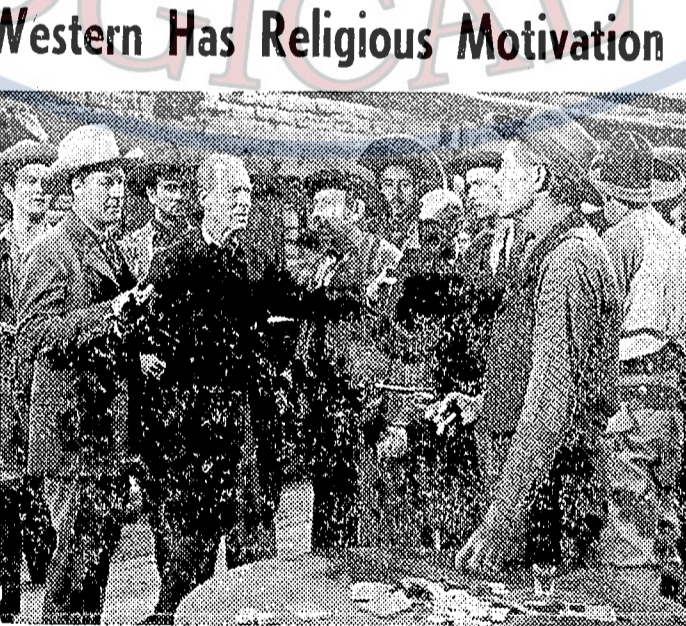

Lovely Maureen O'Hara in a scene from the technicolor production "Bagdad," in which Paul Christian and Vincent Price co-star at the Fox Theatre on Sunday and Monday.

Double Feature

As an undercover girl who helps to smash a nationwide crime syndicate, lovely Marsha Hunt is starred at the Fox Theatre Saturday in Columbia Pictures' exciting new crime film, "Mary Ryan, Detective."

"Mary Ryan, Detective" presents an absorbing picture of police work as seen through the eyes of an attractive young policewoman. The girl, investigating a jewel theft, follows the clues right into jail, and out again. She comes out with a clue to the shoplift gang, and eventually works her way into its grasp. She participates in a number of burglaries which she is unable to prevent, and inevitably uncovers the secret headquarters and hide-out of the mob.

Deacon, H. B. Warner tries to quell an outburst of gun play as William Elliott offers assistance in this scene from the tru-color production "Hellfire," coming to the Fox on Thursday and Friday.

Desert Beauty

The story of "Bagdad," coming to the Fox on Sunday and Monday concerns the return of an English-educated daughter of a great tribal leader of the desert to Bagdad, where she finds her father has been killed by the feared Black Robes, marauding tribesmen, and she vows vengeance.

The suave Pasha who rules Bagdad is in league with the Black Robes, as is Raizul, his friend, Ahmed Khabar, brother of Raizul, falls in love with the English-educated beauty but the Pasha and Raizul convince the girl that Ahmed is the lead of the Black Robes and she attempts to trap him and cause his death.

Not until she captures Ahmed, takes him to a tribal gathering in the desert and watches him unmask the Pasha and Raizul as the real Black Robe leaders, does the girl realize her mistake.

Maureen O'Hara, Vincent Price and Paul Christian are starred.

History of West

The story of "Dakota Lil," the Thursday and Friday feature at the Fox deals with the tremendous role played by the United States Secret Service in conquering the west for the forces of law and order and making the territory a fit place for honest men to live in. The Forest Crop Is Important

It takes a lot of education here in Michigan to make us realize the worth of forests. Our great-grandfathers and our grandfathers cut down and often burned off forest wealth which was unmatched anywhere else in the world. By our very heredity we have underrated the value of forests. That's why we are still so careless with fire, that's why even the highway crews are so quick with chain saws and growth-killing sprays. We have not and still do not recognize the value of a tree.

Yet there are indications that we are beginning to realize the value of forests, not only in the north to attract tourists, but in all sections of the state. The value is not primarily in scenery, as important as that is. The main value is in the timber itself, in harvesting that timber as a mature crop.

One indication of a new recognition of forest values is the assignment of a farm forester to Ingham, Eaton, Clinton and Shiawassee counties to help farmers grow timber as a profitable crop. In all four of the counties are thousands of acres of land which will yield more profit from trees than from cultivated crops. The forester is assigned to the area to advise on planting and harvesting that tree crop.

Planting of trees on steep slopes will keep top soil from washing away to cover the land below. It will prevent the filling up of ditches, creeks and rivers with the best farming land. It will reduce the need for dredging ditches oftener and deeper.

Well managed woodlots pay dividends in many ways. They provide game cover. They help hold back the water runoff. They provide beauty, and what is of great importance in any undertaking, they return a dollar and cents profit.

The forest crop is important. The new farm forester could well prove to be a key man in restoring and maintaining profitable woodlots in Ingham county. Timber is a crop which will never be a surplus commodity.

Better Housekeeping Needed

About 10 years ago the Mason Kiwanis club held a bee to clean Barnes street from the built-up area on out to the city dump.

Maybe that section has been cleaned since. At any rate the time has come for another cleaning. That quarter-mile stretch is a disgrace to the city. Really, there's a half-mile section, because the litter is scattered south on Eden road into Vevay township and east to the county park woods.

Most of the litter is papers which have blown off loads of rubbish being carted to the dump. There are some loads of rubbish which poor citizens have dumped alongside the road without bothering to drive a few rods farther to the dump.

People who get their first impression of Mason by driving in from the Jewett airport have every reason to believe that they are entering a junk yard. The present condition of Barnes street is a disgrace. Residents of the street pick up the papers and rubbish which decorate their lawns and shrubbery after jiggling or blowing off trucks or out of car trunks headed for the dump. Those residents should not be expected to pick up the rubbish beyond the residential section. The rest of us have scattered all the litter and it is up to us to clean it up, that beyond the residential area, at least.

The Kiwanis club, the Lions club, or some other organization or group of individuals should hold a bee some night after supper and again clean up the untidy mess.

The Paper Market Is Big

Next to water and milk, more pounds of paper pass through the hands of Americans than any other product of everyday living.

More than 26 million tons of paper are consumed in the United States in a year. Many of those millions of tons go into newspapers, magazines and books. Post-office records show 36 billion pieces of mail handled in a year. Food, clothing, furnishings and manufactured articles of every kind come packed in paper or paper cartons. Even milk now goes to consumers in paper cartons.

Most of the paper comes from Canadian forests. Experiments show that cornstalks, wheat straw, sugar cane bagasse and other agricultural fibers can be used, although not so economically as wood under present processes.

This fiber market is a big one. It is worth shooting at. It is worth an investment of money in scientific research.

Raw material for paper can be produced on farms. Research may widen the paper market so farmers can have a profitable outlet for fibers and so that every farm community can also have a paper mill.

Where's the Liquor Profit?

Distillers and others engaged in the liquor traffic are always eager to point out the profits which the people derive. Here in Michigan those in the liquor business point to what they claim are profits being earned by the state monopoly.

What was the profit on the quart of liquor that Clarence Iler drank on Wednesday of last week, and who got it?

What markup should be used by the state on whisky that causes a man to shoot down a state trooper, like Iler shot down Trooper George Branny? How much profit does the state mark up on its ledgers to cover the transaction that cost Branny his life?

Mason Street Development

For 10 years there has been talk of extending Mason street. While that talk has been going on more dwellings have been erected. Now there are 24 houses more or less strung along a trail, without streets, sewers or water. More are being built this year.

The city council has said and rightly that the matter of deciding land for a street is up to the property owners. The residents have said they pay city taxes and expect city facilities, and they are also right. Both sides are right but residents still have to battle snow in winter and mud in the spring.

The time is here, and the mayor and council said so Monday night, to quit talking and do something about Mason street. The members of the council and the residents of the area are now working together. All Mason applauds.

Saturday and Sunday hundreds of loads of rubbish were dumped at Mason. Thousands of years from now scientists will troop east from the Vevay town hall or south along Barnes street or even north from Laxton's Stables or the Jewett airport to direct the excavation of Mason's kitchen midden. I hope those scientists don't charge me up with that load of Old Crow bottles I saw tossed out of the 1947 blue Chevrolet Saturday afternoon. THE THREAD THAT RUNS SO TRUE is Jesse Stuart's story of his own years as a mountain teacher from the time in his early teens: until in his early twenties he becomes county school commissioner and principal of one of the large high schools. He tells of the children's desire for learning when given a real chance, of the dual system of control of the small schools, the politics, but most important of all, he lets us into the lives of these people.

BREAKUP OF THE TWO POWER WORLD by Walter Lippman is great reading for all of us. Appearing in the April Atlantic, he tries to show that we have, perhaps, been working on the wrong theory, and that Russia and the U. S. are not necessarily the only two parties; that in our battle to surpass, we are forgetting the little man in the middle who wants none of either.

HOME TOWN is the story of an average young man who happens to write a best seller. How he maintains that simplicity in spite of newspaper publicity and efforts of the editorial staff of the publishing firm, makes up this story of a real individualist.

MODERNIZING THE G. O. P. by Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., is one of the outstanding articles in the March Atlantic which should be recommended reading for all died-in-the-wool or faintly tinted Republicans.

QUACKERY IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS is another article in the same issue which should serve as a conversation piece for many a dinner table or evening. Written by a former teacher and now a board member, he observes teaching processes and training with keenness and much truth, but in a way which will make many of the profession and those who hire them unhappy.

Down by the Sycamore

My brother Hugh can tell a goose from a swan but he was unable to tell a gander from a goose last fall. Over near Ypsilanti he bought what he thought were, and what the goosegirl declared were, two females and a gander of the rare Chinese Brown breed. He brought them on to Mason and wintered them in the barn. They were a happy trio until nesting time arrived this spring. Then Hugh learned he had two ganders and one goose.

The ganders have slugged it out for a month. The loser is now the most thwarted and frustrated gander in all the country. Instead of waddling he now crawls, thrusting his long neck along the ground. He's looking everywhere for a mate. So's Hugh. (I mean for the gander.) If anyone knows of a Chinese Brown goose who is pining for a gander, please notify Hugh.

When a month ago our Margaret, a first-grader, wanted to take piano lessons I gave my consent with the stipulation that I would not be required to attend recitals. Came Sunday and the first recital and the agreement was breached. Jim and Caroline were both away and that left it up to me to take my wife and Margaret to the Eden church where the program was held. I was fully prepared not to enjoy it, but I did.

We dread a lot of things and then often find the experience enjoyable. I learned that piano recitals have changed for the better since my sister Ruth used to take lessons. Back then the parents and brothers and sisters had to sit for hours while the students ran scales and played around with unmelodious compositions. Now the boys and girls play melodies which can be recognized. They have more fun and so do those in the audience. Another improvement is the shortening of the program. It took less than an hour for Lyla Fern's budding geniuses to perform. I now intend to take in the longer June recital if, as Margaret says, Lyla Fern will sell popcorn to the guests.

I have been in the Eden church basement on several occasions to eat supper. Sunday afternoon was my first time in the sanctuary. It's a pretty room and well furnished. Besides the piano the church has a foot-power organ. It's in good condition. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Redman are the organists.

Joe Cappel tunes pianos as a sideline to directing his dance band. He went over south of Amesius on a tuning call last week.

"Can you make a living tuning pianos way out here in the country?" the farmer asked.

"Oh, sure," Joe replied. "In slack times I tighten wire fences."

If there are any paleontologists who saunter in from Mars after the H-bomb damages the world beyond repair, they'll visit city dumps before sifting the ruins of the Congressional library, state capitols, court houses and city halls. Just as a woman's character is best revealed by having a look in her kitchen and bedroom instead of the living room, just so the mores (that's a word that I had to look up at the library; it means customs and habits of a people), as I was saying, the mores are best revealed by what people throw away, not what they keep.

Dig down in a city dump to the 40-year-ago level and you'll find fossilized button shoes. When you find a layer of fossilized whalebone corsets and razor straps you can set down the date as early 1920 when the young women were discarding stays and the men had switched to safety razors. There's a period between 1920 and 1930 when dumps were free of whisky bottles. Now they're back again along with thousands of bottles which once contained Bromo Seltzer, vitamin tablets and aspirin. Just this last year those little bottles containing anti-histamine pills are being deposited among other articles in the kitchen midden. (That kitchen midden is another term that only us scientists use; it is from the Danish kjokkenmodnings, meaning kitchen leav-

The Results of Drink
When I saw the picture of Mrs. Iler and her son in Saturday's State Journal, I thought: "Who can impress on people of all ages that drinking intoxicants is a terrible habit that develops into an appetite so very difficult to control, and that does make drinking people 'berserk,' at least temporarily."

It seems to me the tendency of reporters and editors of the average newspapers is to cover up the facts, if an accident or crime is caused by drinking, instead of making it clear, especially to the young people, that drink is the cause of quite a percentage of such crimes and accidents.

It is my hope that you will have an editorial, pointing out that this terrible thing is the direct result of drink.

It may hurt the feelings of relatives and friends, but how else can younger generations be more strongly impressed with the dangers of beginning such a habit.

Lansing Dog Ordinance
Twice the Ingham County News has quoted Dr. Lansing as saying that dogs were not permitted to run at large at any time in Lansing and East Lansing. This is true of East Lansing but not in Lansing. Several years ago an amendment to our dog ordinance required owners to keep their dogs on their own property during May and June each year except when on leash. This is to protect young gardens. Civil Service Wins Hollow Victory In Court Decision on Gen. Kunzig

By Vernon J. Brown

So General Louis A. Kunzig is back at his desk in the office of the Michigan Liquor Commission! The supreme court decided that he had been illegally deprived of the job to which he was appointed after Civil Service rated and created the position. The court directed that the general's salary continue and his back pay be handed over to him.

Let it be understood at the outset that nothing sold here is in any sense of the word to be taken as any disparagement of the general's capabilities, his business acumen, his training or his experience. General Kunzig is a retired army officer who left behind him in the armed forces a record of distinguished service. He was appointed to a job which a former governor first asked the liquor commissioners to create and which the succeeding governor in turn asked the civil service commission to establish and classify.

Henson for Hiring

Up to this point everything was in order. The governor in office when the general was hired was tired of rumors of political trafficking and payoffs in liquor buying and in issuing licenses to vendors. He believed that a non-political position to be designated as business manager, would clear the executive office of a lot of troubles which had been experienced.

As auditor general at that time, I, too, favored the creation of such a position. An audit of the commission's records and accounts and a check against stocks and inventories had disclosed serious inconsistencies, to say the least. Lax business methods of all kinds had cost the state plenty of money. In addition to these disclosures, the opportunity for more grave matters of mismanagement and worse were obvious.

It was under such circumstances and because of such conditions that General Kunzig first came to Lansing.

Strings Tied to General

The real facts, however, will show that General Kunzig was never permitted to do the kind of a job for which specifications and salary had been set. In private or corporate business a person holding such a position with such a title and having been employed under such circumstances would have been taken immediately into the full confidence of the directors of the concern and would have been given full and complete authority over all merchandising and all office and warehousing and transportation operations. Policy making only would have remained for the commission members.

But this never happened. From the outset and long before the present commissioners were in charge, the new appointee was held at a safe and cautious distance. He was not permitted to sit with the commissioners when matters of business policy were decided upon. He was allowed only slight control over anything.

Therefore, when the present commissioners decided the job of business manager was not an essential one, they were in part correct. In fact, such a position as the civil service commission established and classified had never existed because the man appointed to it had never been given even fair opportunity to demonstrate either his ability or the necessity for the position.

When Chairman Kazoren declared that Kunzig had been returned to the highest paid and most glorified clerical position, he was relating facts. Similarly in view of what has transpired during the hearings before Civil Service and the appeal to the high court it cannot be reasonably expected that the job in the future will carry any more responsibility than in the past.

Civil Service has won an empty victory. Littered writers have had a field day eulogizing the general and praising the court but the three members of the liquor control commission are still in the driver's seat and the general will still sit at his desk with little in the way of downright authority and little opportunity to demonstrate his genius at being business manager. He will hear the title and draw the pay. That is about all it will amount to.

Village President Makes Several Appointments

The first regular meeting of the Leslie village council for the village year was held Wednesday evening when Neil Miles, the village president, made the annual appointments.

They were: Marshal, Donald Haynes; street commissioner, Jay Miller; fire department chief, John Ingalls; water commissioner, George Kiley; president pro-tem, Moore Brownlee; street committee, Moore Brownlee and Emmons Wilson;

Water committee, Harry Clair and Moore Brownlee; and property committee, William Durfee and Arthur Fogg.

Thursday and Friday, May 4 and 5, were named as cleanup days for the village when rubbish placed on the street curbs will be carried away by the village truck.

Several Events Planned For Thursday and Friday

Thursday and Friday evenings of this week will be busy in Leslie as there are two public events for each evening. The junior class of the Leslie high school will present their two one-act plays, "Life of the Party" and "Bobby Sox," both evenings at the school auditorium.

Thursday evening an appreciation dinner for all Boy Scout workers and their wives of the Ingham district will be held at the Masonic temple dining room starting at seven o'clock. Awards and an interesting program will make up the agenda. J. W. Grugel of Leslie was recently re-elected district chairman.

Fire Runs Made

The first run of the Leslie fire department under its new chief, John Ingalls, was Sunday noon when they responded to a call at the corner of the Onondaga and Kinneyville roads, one and a half miles north of Onondaga, where a fire burned the grass over 60 acres. A call Saturday afternoon from the corner of the Churchill and Territorial roads in Rives township was not responded to as it was outside the area served by the Leslie department. It was a grass fire.

Two-Hour Parking Law To Be Enforced Monday

The village authorities of Leslie are going to make another attempt to enforce the two-hour automobile parking ordinance which was adopted September 2, 1947, commencing Monday, April 24, the new village marshal, Donald Haynes, will ticket those cars found to be exceeding the parking limitation which applies in the business section from the hours 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily.

While the law has been on the books a year and a half, there has been little inclination to enforce it.

BROADWAY AND MAIN STREET

It Takes All Kinds—Chiselers And Those Generous of Heart

By BILLY ROSE

Here are two stories, both true. The first is as mean as a thumb in the eye; the second, as heartening as a sunrise.

The mean one is about a Philadelphia industrialist who, on one of his frequent business trips to New York, made the acquaintance of a young lady whose good looks were only surpassed by her amiability. Despite the fact that he was married, the tycoon began to see a lot of the girl, and it wasn't long before he had set her up in a Madison avenue apartment and was forking over $300 a week to cover expenses.

After a couple of cozy and clandestine years, the girl said to him one night, "If something ever happens to you, Daddy, I'll be left without a penny. Don't you think you ought to do something about securing my future?"

"You're absolutely right," said the industrialist.

"Give me a few days to work it out."

Billy Rose

The next time he called on the girl, he handed her half a million dollars worth of 3 per cent railroad bonds.

"These will yield you an income of 15 thousand a year," he said. "Every three months as the coupons come due, clip them and I'll cash them for you, and you can use the money for expenses."

"You'll notice I haven't put your name on the bonds. Well, that's because the transfer of so large a sum would come to the attention of the board of directors and cause a lot of talk. However, if anything happens to me, you can write your name in and sell the whole lot at any brokerage house."

The girl thanked him, and the pair continued seeing each other until the tycoon keeled over in his Philadelphia office. A couple of years later with an attack of coronary thrombosis. When his lady friend read the obituary in the papers, she wrote her name on the bonds and took them to the brokerage house.

Make a Date with a "ROCKET 8!"

Everybody's talking about that "Rocket" ride. Why not try it yourself!

Give "Rocket" power just one quarter-hour! Try Oldsmobile's "Rocket" Engine "88" on a demonstration sometime this week—and you'll come home with a brand new idea of motor car performance! In the first two minutes, you'll see how quiet and quick the "Rocket" is. And how smooth—especially when teamed with Oldsmobile's new Whirlaway Hydra-Matic!

After five minutes, you'll get to know the special maneuverability that comes with the "88's" compact Fisher Body and eager "Rocket" response. Fifteen minutes—you're out on the open road, where the going is really great in a "Rocket 8!" Hills, rough roads, curves, the straightaway—each shows a new advantage of the "88"! Now you know what "Rocket" action means!

Make a date with a "Rocket 8!" Your Oldsmobile dealer will gladly arrange a special "88" demonstration for you. One "Rocket" ride will prove that the "88" is all we claim, and more. And when you discover that new, lower price tag on all the Futuramic models, you'll decide... Rocket Ahead—with OLDSMOBILE!

Wind, Dust, Flies, Sun Cause Infectious Pinkeye in Cattle

Wind, dust, flies and continuous exposure to sunlight play a big part in outbreaks of infectious pinkeye in cattle.

All ages and all breeds of cattle are susceptible, although a large percentage of the cases are seen in young animals. An attack temporarily affects the eyes so badly that animals cannot see to graze, and they lose weight as the result. Severe attacks may lead to permanent blindness.

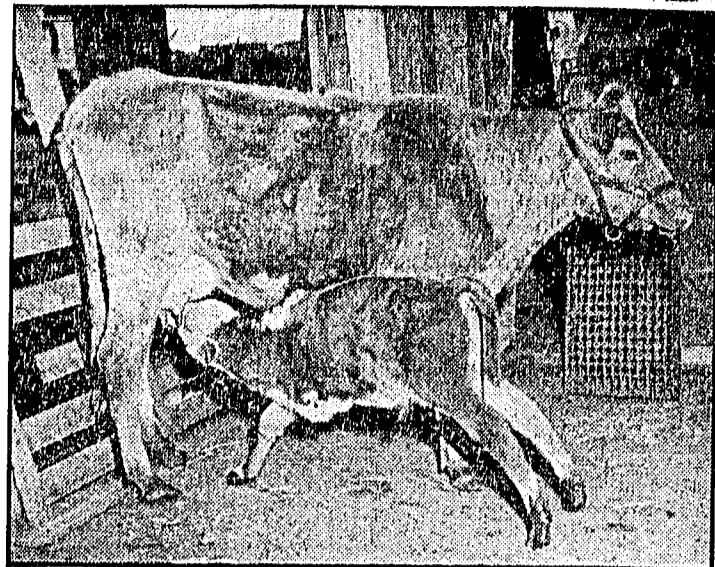

Oklahoma A. & M. college veterinarians, reporting on pinkeye studies, said several types of germs are involved in these cases, but that investigations have failed to reveal any single or specific cause of the disease. They stressed that a cow in good health is just as likely to become infected as a sickly one.

It is likely, they said, that several factors team up to start the trouble, including flies which spread the germs and irritating effects of bright sunlight, wind, and dust. The fact that most cases are seen during the warm months lends weight to this explanation, the Oklahoma veterinarians stated. Sulfonamide preparations are useful treatments for pinkeye, they reported, but isolation of infected cattle in darkened, fly-proof stalls often has been more effective than drugs in curing the disease.

Animals grazing on sweet clover, buckwheat, sudan grass, or certain kinds of weeds and shrubs may develop a type of allergy called photosensitization. Substances in these plants make white-skinned portions of the body extremely sensitive to bright sunlight, and the skin swells or gets dry and scaly.

The best way to prevent such trouble is to provide plenty of shade for stock pastured on allergy-causing plants. Application of brown dye to the white parts of the skin also gives some protection. Another way is to pasture sensitive animals at night and keep them in sheds or shady places during the day. If none of these procedures is convenient, they should at least be confined to shaded areas during the hours of intense sunlight.

Though proper cooling is perhaps the biggest factor in preventing low bacteria count milk, dairymen at Michigan State college say, that cooling shouldn't be a substitute for clean milking habits.

THREE LEGS NO HANDICAP—“Peggy,” a calf on the William Steward ranch near Sacramento, Calif., manages to get around just as well as a normal animal, despite the fact that she was born with only three legs. The calf receives more than her share of affection from her mother and from the Steward family, who have adopted her as their personal pet.

College Advises Early Plowing For Bean Crop

Plowing under a green crop for beans or soybeans to be planted in late May or June should be done by May 15, urged H. R. Pettigrove. He conducts studies in bean cultural methods at Michigan State college.

Trials conducted by the Michigan agricultural experiment station on the college farms at East Lansing, showed that two out of three years the yield of field beans was cut in half when the sod crop was plowed late.

Results of one year's test showed a yield of 945 pounds of field beans per acre when fall plowing was done, 920 pounds when plowed May 1, 977 for May 15 and the significant drop to 473 pounds per acre when plowed May 31.

In another year, plowing before May 15 brought a yield of 1787 pounds per acre and plowing May 31 resulted in only 841 pounds of field beans per acre.

Similar results come for any late planted crop unless the soil has rains sufficient to carry to crop, Pettigrove contends. Many farmers are planting soybeans late for better control of the weeds. The bean specialist says no bad effect should result from this if the field is plowed early enough.

A green manure crop plowed under late takes too much moisture for its growth in late May. Unless rains occur, not enough moisture is left in the soil to produce a maximum yield of the next crop planted.

It isn't wise to trust the weather, Pettigrove concludes. Plowing for late planted crops should be completed by May 15 each year.

Dipping of Eggs Prevents Disease

Recommendations for control of Newcastle disease have come from continued research and study of control methods. A recent advance is riding hatchery owners to keep their incubators free of infection and in preventing the disease from getting into the new batch of chicks through possible contamination from the shell surface of the hatching eggs.

Dr. H. J. Stafseth, head of the department of bacteriology and public health at Michigan State college, cites experiments by the U. S. department of agriculture.

To determine the effect of disinfectants on hatching eggs, poultry specialists conducted tests with three commonly used products. These were sodium hydroxide, or common lye, quarternary ammonium disinfectant, and sodium orthophenylphenate. They were used in various solutions and the eggs immersed for five minutes to guard against the transmission of Newcastle disease from the shell surface. Incubators usually are treated before eggs are set.

The sodium hydroxide was used in a two per cent solution, the sodium orthophenylphenate in one per cent solution and the ammonium in 0.1 per cent strength. Both chicken eggs and turkey eggs were dipped in lye and in ammonium solutions and the turkey eggs were treated also in sodium orthophenylphenate solution. All eggs were immersed for five minutes. In none of these tests was there any noticeable effect on the hatchability of the eggs.

Dr. Stafseth states that this method should prevent transmission of the virus on egg shells, but since the virus is contained in eggs, broken eggs would still transmit the disease.

Paved Barnyard Pays for Itself

A concrete paved barnyard that cost $1,100 but paid for itself the first year is a much envied possession of Clair McLean, Gratiot county farmer.

At the recent Gratiot county beef feeders' tour, McLean's cattle showed evidence that the paved lot brought better gains and made "chore time" a simple proposition. McLean put the two lots, which total more than 6,500 square feet, into concrete in 1946. It cost $1,100 in materials and labor, not counting ten days of his own labor and that of his hired man. But the next spring he was able to hold 65 head of choice steers on feed 20 days longer than many other farmers in the locality who did not have paved lots.

The results included a three-pound daily gain and a cent a pound advance in price, which McLean figures paid the cost of the lot.

The concrete yard is six inches thick and made up of five to one mixture of bit run gravel. He cleans it off twice a week with a scraper on the rear of his tractor and loads the manure into the spreader for use on his land. The paved lot saves much of the value of the fertilizer also, McLean contends.

Bang's Vaccination Should Be Repeated

Dr. I. F. Huddleston, who perfected the "Brucella M" vaccine for prevention of Bang's disease in cattle, recommends revaccination after two years. The Michigan State college brucellosis authority advises farmers who used the vaccine on animals more than two years ago to contact veterinarians for another inoculation.

When the vaccine, now widely used in Michigan, was first announced, Dr. Huddleston expressed a belief that its life would possibly be a period of two years.

Veterinarians throughout the state report most farmers to be highly pleased with results of the vaccine developed in the Brucella Laboratory on the Michigan State college campus. It is available through most Michigan veterinarians who have been given a permit by the Michigan department of agriculture to use it.

Lansing Hearing Set for Potatoes

Public hearings under federal marketing order No. 60 will be held in the Woman's club house in Lansing beginning May 1. The meeting is for growers and handlers of potatoes. Proposed amendments to the marketing order will be considered.

The order, as amended, would be administered by a committee of growers and handlers, composed of normal table stock channels from each state. The amendments propose that shipments for special purposes, such as seed, for export, or livestock feed, should have special treatment to expedite their movement, and that safeguards be established to keep such shipments from normal table stock channels.

The hearings will consider evidence as to whether the committee should be authorized to recommend regulations for different types of packs and for washed and unwashed potatoes.

Marketing agreements now cover 87% of U. S. potato production and more than 65% of the late crop.

Two College Men Will Be Honored

Two men, long identified with Michigan's livestock industry, will be honored at a banquet, Thursday, May 4 at 6 p. m. in the Michigan State college union building.

They are George Brown, head of the animal husbandry department, and Ralph S. Hudson, head of the farm and horse department at Michigan State college.

At the time of the banquet portraits of these two men who have spent 45 years serving Michigan's livestock interests in their positions will be presented. Friends of the two throughout all of the state contributed toward having the portraits done. John S. de Martelly, Michigan State college artist, did the paintings.

Both Brown and Hudson joined the staff upon graduation from Michigan Agricultural college in 1907 and will retire on June 30.

Charles E. Snyder, editor of the Chicago Drivers' Journal, will be the speaker for the occasion. Reservations for the event are being made through Verne Freeman of the 4-H club department at Michigan State college.

Simple Adjustments to Tractor Save Gallons of Gas Each Day

Know how much air an engine uses? Something like 0.000 gallons for every gallon of fuel, says the Farm Journal. That's why the air cleaner is one of the best things you've got to slow down wear in your tractor, car or truck engine.

When the air cleaner is clogged up, the engine gets short of breath and makes less power. It has trouble getting air through the cleaner so it sucks more gas from the tank.

Of course, the carburetor can be just as bad. Dig out the instruction book if you aren't sure where the "load adjustment" screw is. You can waste a dollar's worth of gasoline a day by being less than a turn off on this screw. Here's how to set it, according to the Farm Journal:

Run your tractor wide open. Slowly turn the load needle in until the engine starts to miss. Then turn it back out until the engine runs smoothly.

Now try pulling a load. If it won't quite do it, open the needle another sixteenth of a turn. That's the setting where most engines make the most power with a gallon of fuel.

You can probably make your tractor run on less gas than that. But it doesn't pay to be too stingy with the fuel, either. Too lean a mixture is just too hot for your engine to handle—it burns and wraps the valves.

Bad valves will let 5 horsepower go out the exhaust instead of the draw-bar before most of us realize what's happening. Have the valves ground regularly, keep the tappets adjusted, and you also won't have to worry about wasting 6 or 7 gallons of gas per day.

Keeping those valves cool calls for a cleaner radiator, too. Buy some cleaner and flush out the scale. Refill with soft water such as rain water from a cistern. (Minerals in well water make your radiator look like the inside of a tea-kettle.) Put in a shot of one of the rust-preventing compounds. Your garage, dealer, or filling station has them on hand.

Take a look at the fan belts. If they're a little frayed, better pick up some new ones the next chance you get.

When an engine is just a shade out of time, it takes a timing light to spot it. But poor timing cuts down power, also wastes fuel. A worn governor can easily short-change you out of three or four horsepower, too.

Better not try to tinker with the inside of the magneto or governor yourself, though. Turn the fixing over to a mechanic who is a specialist.

Spark plugs look pretty much alike, but they're really as different as night and day. There are "cold" plugs and "hot" plugs. Use cold plugs if you burn gasoline. Hot plugs are for diesel. Both kinds need cleaning and adjusting every 200 to 300 hours.

When do you grease up—in the morning before you start, or after you come in from the field? Evening, when bearings are still warm, is best. Grease keeps the moisture in the night air from sneaking in as they cool off. Water ruins a bearing, and you know what that means.

Oil filters are real collectors of grit and grime. But the element needs to be changed as soon as the oil starts to look and feel dirty. Keep spare elements on hand.

Take a few minutes to make these—and other—checks. Protective maintenance of your tractor, car and truck is the best way to cut down your operating costs. Better yet, you won't need to worry about expensive breakdowns when you're hustling to get something done, or to go somewhere.

Scientists Seek 2,4-D Answers

Announcement of a one-year research grant to study why 2,4-D (chemical weed killer) kills some plants and not others, has been made by the Michigan Memorial-Phoenix project at the University of Michigan.

An $500 grant was made to Dr. Felix G. Gustafson, professor of botany, to employ radioactive iodine tracers in an effort to discover how 2,4-D works, according to Dr. Ralph A. Sawyer, chairman of the Phoenix Project preliminary planning committee.

Professor Gustafson said that experiments have shown that 2,4-D easily kills broad-leaved plants such as dandelions and plantain but does not kill grass leaves unless 2,4-D in high concentration is used.

The investigations by Professor Gustafson will attempt to determine whether this difference of activity is due to lack of penetration in grass leaves by 2,4-D, or due to a difference in protoplasmic (living substance) content.

Don't Build a Death Trap

Homemade electric fences can electrocute you. You may think they're safe, but unless you've got an approved current controller keeping the charge at a safe level, you're running the risk of electrocution, both to you and your animals.

Reports of deaths and injuries to humans and stock caused by electric fences constructed to operate from the ordinary lighting circuit are carried with disturbing regularity in the nation's newspapers.

Farmers who make these fences often believe that they are saving money both from the amount of fence needed and the cost of purchasing an approved fence controller. The farmers who use these fences believe them safe because they arrange to have the current flow through a light bulb of low wattage.

They're wrong. They're not safe. The continuous current does not give the needed warning sting, but rather produces a paralyzing shock that may keep the victim from pulling away from the wire. Serious burns or electrocution may result.

A good electric fence can save time, labor and material. It can also save a life. The fence controller should give only a warning ting which causes the person or animal touching it to pull away immediately, unharmed.

Don't build a death trap on your farm. Make sure your electric fence is safe.—Lapeer County Press.

Potatoes Are OK As Poultry Feed

J. M. Moore, Michigan State college extension poultryman, says hulled or steamed potatoes are satisfactory as a substitute for grain given poultry for growth, fattening or egg production.

Raw potatoes are not suitable as chickens do not like the taste and are unable to digest them.

Feeding of hulled potatoes, made into a mash with the grain mixture and oil or vitamin concentrates added proves satisfactory. About 5 to 8 pounds of potatoes daily for each 100 layers is the maximum that can be fed. Moore suggests that the mash made of hull or surplus potatoes be prepared fresh daily.
