

Jefferson Street Gains New Look

Three separate blocks of Jefferson street in Mason look different as a result of 2 business changes and a new front on the Kean store.

What was once the county garage and more recently the Anway garage, the first door north of Maple on Jefferson, is now the PX Mart.

Charles Swartout has brought the Neely name back into business at the site of the former Neely store at 344 Jefferson.

Gus Kean has rebuilt the entire upper front of his building. He tore away the old overhanging cornice and rebuilt with mission brick and picture windows. Kean has been in his present location 24 years. He first entered business on Maple street in a building which occupied the site now used by the Collins store. After 11 months there he moved to the north half of the present location, first renting and later buying from Oscar Bush. In 1935 Kean doubled his store by buying the Mrs. Ellen Mack building.

S. D. Menovske of Mason is manager of the PX Mart. The store handles war surplus, factory remnants and mill ends in many different lines. Herschel Jewett helped organize the firm and is financing it.

Swartout is stocking his store with clothing, some of the same lines carried by his uncle, Harry E. Neely, who operated stores at Mason and Hillsdale. Harry Neely was in business in Mason from 1908 to 1937. Swartout took over the business then and operated it under the Neely name until 1944 when he closed out the stock in order to enter the army. The building was occupied by a Firestone store and later a Gamble store until Swartout decided to re-enter the clothing business. He has remodeled the interior and installed new fixtures. He will open his new store Friday morning.

It's Fun Painting the Dome

Painters Prefer High Perches

Don't feel sorry for those men crawling around on the court house dome with paint brushes in their hands. They don't envy you walking around on the ground. They're way up high because they like it that way. The higher the better.

Gke Fate and Earl Fry of Lansing are the 2 painters who like to be up high. They work for J. C. Fernald of Lansing, painting contractor. Fernald goes aloft when it is necessary but not just for the fun of it like Fate and Fry.

Fry took up steeplejack work late in life. He's now 62. He was a farmer until a few years ago. On the farm he liked to climb up and grease the windmill and go up high in the barn. So when he retired from farming he didn't head for Florida. He got a job doing what he always wanted to do—work way up high.

Fernald won't let his men climb the flagpole on the court house. It's been there too long and has become brittle. He's rigging up a long-handled brush to give the flagpole a coat of paint.

Local Men Ask Public Works Job

Two more Mason men have offered their services for the superintendent of public works job. The total stands at 4.

Leon J. Fellows applied for the job in a letter to the city council Monday night. Fellows is a former employee of the county road commission, the county drain commission and the Wolverine Engineering company. He sells Farm Bureau insurance at the present time.

Clare Wasper also applied for the job by letter Monday night. He worked for the county road commission 10 years.

Both applications were placed on file until some time when the council will pick a man to fill the position.

Julius Schmelchel resigned the superintendent's job in August. Zena Leach of Mason applied for the job at the council meeting 2 weeks ago. Ralph Adams applied for the job last month.

The council has urged local men to apply for the position. However, the qualifications must be high or the council will seek applications from outside the city, Mayor C. H. Hall stated.

The council is looking for a man who can manage men and accomplish work, the mayor explained.

Schmelchel was paid $4,200 a year plus money for the use of his car. However, he did cost accounting and other bookkeeping which a new superintendent might not be asked to do.

SUPERINTENDENTS AT MEET
James H. Vander Ven, superintendent of the Mason schools, and Alton J. Stroud, county school superintendent, spent Sunday through Tuesday at the Michigan State Superintendents' association conference in Escanaba. Mrs. Vander Ven accompanied her husband. They are spending the remainder of the week in the Upper Peninsula.

Editor Leaves On Navy Cruise

Nelson Brown, editor of the Ingham County News, left Willow Run by plane Wednesday morning for Los Angeles. At Long Beach, California, Thursday he will go aboard a battleship for a navy indoctrination cruise to Hawaii.

At Hawaii, Brown and other civilians on the trip, will be shown flying fields, ammunition depots, ship repair shops and other naval installations. The return trip from Hawaii will be by navy plane. Brown is expected to return to Mason October 15.

Council Switches Stop Street Sign

People who used to stop at the Rogers street intersection while driving on Maple street will have clear sailing from now on. City councilmen agreed at the meeting Monday night to switch the stop signs now on Maple street to Rogers street.

"Maple street is so steep at the intersection that drivers wanting to stop for the Rogers street traffic can't do it in wet or icy weather," Councilman Ralph Strope stated. Strope heads the police and traffic committee.

More traffic travels Rogers street, Strope explained. However, changing the stop signs will add more to safety than it will take away from convenience, he added.

Bids Are Sought By School Board On New Building

Contractors are being asked to bid on Mason's new West Side school. The letting is advertised for October 15.

At its meeting last Thursday night the school board approved the plans for the new building which the public authorized May 2.

The school district has $152,000 available in its building and site fund with another $58,000 to be raised by taxes. That's $210,000.

Members of the school board now express fear that the $210,000 may not cover the cost of a building designed by the Warren S. Holmes Co. of Lansing.

The plans call for 6 grade rooms and a kindergarten room, with a general purpose room (small gym and assembly) if the cost can be kept within the estimate. The general purpose room will be considered as an alternate which can be dropped off if bids are too high, the school board decided. The estimate on the general purpose room is $80,000.

Construction of the school will be of cinder block faced with brick. The building will occupy a site west of Ash street and south of Cedar street.

Even with the new building on the west side of town there now seems little hope that the 2 leased school rooms in the Legion Memorial building can be abandoned next year, declared Raymond H. McLean. He is a member of the school board. Increasing enrollments may overtop the new school when it is opened next fall, McLean explained.

Long-range school board plans call for another elementary building on the east side of town.

Accident Hurts 2 Near Aurelius

Two Bannister residents received injuries Sunday in an automobile accident a mile north of Aurelius Center. Frank Cox, 74, was driving the car and received cuts on the face. A passenger, Pearl Hursh, received a fractured jaw, a possible fractured skull and internal injuries.

They were taken to the Sparrow hospital.

Bulldozer Victim Is Fatally Hurt

Robert Khal, 35, of Jackson was fatally injured while operating a bulldozer on a county drain job Monday forenoon.

Khal and Pete Ellsworth of Leslie were using the bulldozer to boot back trees which had been felled along the drain right of way. Ellsworth said he didn't see what happened. Khal never regained consciousness so he could explain.

The first Ellsworth knew of the accident, he stated, was when he turned to discover Khal on the ground. Ellsworth summoned Dr. C. V. Horne of Leslie who worked over the injured man at the drain location and then ordered him taken to the Osteopathic hospital in Jackson. Death came Tuesday morning.

It was Khal's first day on the job. He and Ellsworth were employed by the Carl C. Foote Excavating Co.

Profit on Fair Runs Between $500 and $1000

Analysis of the financial statement of the 1952 county fair reveals that the profit ran between $500 and $1,000.

The financial statement was presented to members of the Ingham County Agricultural Society at the annual meeting Friday night. The meeting was held in the county building.

While a profit of about $2,000 was reported, $983 came from rental of buildings and fields, $883 in 1951 premium money from the state and other income not strictly a part of the fair.

A salary payment of $1,200 to officials was also reported in the disbursements. Also included in the disbursements was $1,697.92 in permanent improvements.

Federal excise tax payments amounted to $1,244.85. Labor came to $2,029.63. Because the county put up $10,000 for buildings, tent rentals were reduced. Last year they were $4,209.14. This year the tent rental came to $2,402.82.

Premium payments amounted to $9,424.22. Raising cost the fair board $4,200 from the general fund. Race purses came to a total of $11,620 with the state putting up $5,900 in addition to the $4,200 by the fair board plus $1,700 from the horsemen. The colts races paid for themselves at $600.

The new building program cost the fair board $11,034.90 with $10,000 coming from the county. In an election in which 44 votes were cast, Harry Freshour of Vevey gained directorships held by Dean Avery of Aurelius and Rowland Frost of Wheatfield. Otto Hartig of Delhi was re-elected. Bob Price of Stockbridge was elected to succeed his father, Ord who died last month.

Officials discovered that the society's constitution provided for staggered terms of directors. Freshour was elected for 4 years, Hartig for 3, Laxton for 2 and Price for 1.

There are 10 members on the fair board. The other 6 are supervisors and were picked by the board of supervisors to serve on the fair board. They are Rina Dell, Earl Colter and Charles Hayden, Lansing; C. G. Card, East Lansing; Wilfred Jewett, Vevey; and Clarence Puffenberger, Onondaga.

Mason Girl Falls From Moving Car

Christina Epps, 5½, received a brain concussion when she fell from a car driven by her uncle, George Epps, on Dexter Trail Monday night. The car was moving about 20 miles an hour. Epps said the girl was taken to the Mason General hospital for treatment. She was released Wednesday afternoon.

The girl is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Epps of Route 2, Mason.

Salt Content In Well No. 3 Shows Decline

Water from well No. 3 on Mason street is getting better every day. Salt content is now running at 500 parts to a million. When the well was opened in June salt was being pumped at the rate of 750 parts to a million.

The water has not been turned into the city mains as yet, Councilman Frank Dakin, head of the water committee, stated at council meeting Monday night.

And it won't be until the salt content drops to at least 250 parts to a million, Dakin stated. That's the maximum allowed by the state health department.

There is no proof of where the salt trace is coming from. It is a local condition and will disappear in time, according to City Engineer Walter Zimmer. Councilmen point to ground seepage as a possible cause.

Prompted by the condition of well No. 3, city councilmen passed a water contamination ordinance at the meeting Monday night. Under the ordinance it is unlawful to construct or maintain any source of contamination which might injure drinking water.

The city will furnish water to the Vevey town hall at the corner of Kipp road and US-127 at 50% more than the rates for water service inside the city. The councilmen reached an agreement on the policy of furnishing water to people outside the city at the meeting Monday night.

Vevey township will also pay the entire cost of the pipe and the installation of it.

Councilmen disagreed over the water rate increase.

"Mason folks have invested thousands of dollars in water mains, wells and pumps," Mayor Hall stated. "It's only fair that outsiders should pay more than city people for city water. The township won't use enough water to make the increase worth while, but the increase is necessary in the event larger water users may ask the city for water in the future."

The 50% increase is agreeable to the Vevey township board. City Attorney Howard McCowan is drawing up the contract for the work and bids will be asked for the work this fall.

Flames Destroy Aurelius Barn

Flames leveled a barn and tool shed on the Collins Huntington farm Tuesday night at 5:30.

There was no livestock in the barn and all equipment was dragged to safety.

Damage was estimated at near $3,000. The loss was covered by the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance company.

Huntington works in Lansing. He drove his car in the yard and headed off across the farm to talk to his son, Russell, who was drilling wheat. On the way back he glanced in the barn door and saw the flames. Neighbors also saw the smoke at about the same time and phoned the Mason fire department. The 2 Huntingtons and Howard Smith hooked on to a combine and dragged it out of danger. Other neighbors rescued a plow, cultivator and corn planter.

According to Huntington there was nothing but a few 3-year-old bean pods and some old straw in the barn besides the farm equipment.

The flames had too much of a head start on the firemen. They concentrated their efforts on keeping the flames from jumping to the Huntington home.

Paving Starts Friday on New Highway Link

Sargent Construction Co. of Saginaw will begin the flow of concrete on the Holt-Mason divided highway Friday morning. The 22-foot ribbon for southbound traffic will begin at Harper road and continue to the intersection with the present US-127 near Dart road.

Advance crewmen have spent this week setting up forms and equipment for laying the concrete. Washed gravel and sand is being stock piled near Harper road. The gravel is coming from pits north of Lansing. Sand and fill dirt needed in the low spots is being furnished by the East Lansing Sand & Gravel Co. and the Ferris Co.

There is still grading work to do on the widening project, but graders can keep well ahead of the paving crew, according to Stanley Zozulowski, superintendent on the job. The paving crew will be able to pave at the rate of about a mile a week, he added.

Some of the present road surface will be used in the widening project. Plans call for the new paving to follow the old south from Holt, past Maple Point and continuing to the S curve near the Country Kitchen restaurant.

There, a completely new divided highway will cut to the east of the curve and join with the old again on the south side.

From there, the double stretch of pavement will be all new until it joins with the present US-127 at Dart road. By next year the Holt-Mason super-highway will be linked with the Mason by-pass at Dart road. The by-pass will skirt Mason to the west joining up with the present US-127 near the north side of the Mason golf course.

Grading on the by-pass will continue through the winter. Paving will be completed next summer.

Grading is being handled by William J. Muelenbeck Co. of Saginaw. The Sargent company has the contract for laying the concrete.

Profits will be close to $1,000, according to the general chairman, J. B. Dean.

Household goods, clothing, electrical appliances, farm produce, books, dated merchandise from Mason stores and even livestock attracted hundreds of cash customers to the sales event. A dog brought $5, a litter of kittens went for 50c apiece.

Money from the annual sale is used by the club for its child welfare program.

Walter O. Estes Loses Right to Practice Law

Attorney Walter O. Estes of Lansing was suspended from practicing law in Michigan for 1 year in a decision rendered by a circuit court judge Wednesday. Another attorney, John Safran of Onaway, is due for a private reprimand on order of the judges. Both attorneys were charged by the State Bar of Michigan to have used "unethical, unprofessional and improper" methods in handling the defunct Lapeer Farmers Mutual fire insurance case. The men were alleged to have filed briefs on behalf of the farmer group with the state supreme court containing unprofessional generalities.

The improper language was directed at judges and state officials who had made decisions in the hotly-contested Lapeer insurance case.

The briefs were alleged to contain such adjectives as "crook, fraudulent, vicious propaganda, intentional misrepresentation and phoney ideas."

A committee of the bar association stated: "We are not only highly doubtful that it is improv-er to incorporate language of this character in a brief filed with an appellate court... but we are affirmatively convinced that so doing is unprofessional, improper and unethical."

Circuit Judges Harry D. Bonrdan of Jackson, Raymond L. Smith of Holland and Lucien F. Sweet of Kalamazoo sat as a special court to hear the disbarment cases.

Estes may apply to the Michigan bar for reinstatement after the year of disbarment. He was also ordered to pay a fine of $195.10.

Safran can continue to practice law. He received the reprimand instead of a disbarment, the opinion read, because of his minor part in the Lapeer insurance legal activities.

Justice Court

Two youths on parole in Colorado are awaiting the arrival of officers to return them to Denver. They were picked up by state police for violation of their Colorado paroles. They are alleged to have taken a car belonging to one of the youths' mothers and then setting out to tour the eastern states. When taken before Justice of the Peace Roy Adams at Mason Friday they waived extradition. They are Hubert Anthony Findling and Theodore N. Erwen. They are in jail because of their inability to post $2,500 bonds.

Robert L. Jones of Alameda pleaded guilty to a non-support charge Friday. Judge Adams fined him $5 and put him on probation for a year.

Three Jackson youths pleaded guilty and a fourth was turned over to Jackson juvenile authorities as a result of a drinking bout Saturday night. Jack and Russell Hallwill each paid fine and costs of $10 upon pleas of guilty to charges of drinking on a public highway. Donald J. Fryer drew fine and costs of $35 when he pleaded guilty to furnishing beer to minors. The boy turned over to Jackson authorities was 14.

The missile was a beer bottle and it was hurled in anger at the car of an acquaintance who refused to push Brown's car or give him a lift to get gasoline. Brown's car was out of gas. The affair took place on Farman road. Judge Adams ordered Brown jailed for 15 days and ordered him to pay fine and costs of $20 and pay the cost of repairs to the car he hit. ## Council Won't Let Betcher Quit CD

Jack Betcher will be retained as Mason's civil defense director. He handed in his resignation at the city council meeting Monday night but councilmen turned it down. They also turned to the city funds to pay Betcher $50 for services rendered.

"I want to resign the post," Betcher told the council. "But if you councilmen refuse my resignation, I will continue to do the job."

Councilmen paid the $50 to Betcher as a token payment for past services in defense work. However, they asked him to keep a record of actual expenses and submit them for payment in the future.

"Betcher is one of the most conscientious workers in the county program," Councilman Ralph Strope stated at the meeting. Strope is county CD director. "I for one, will refuse to accept Betcher's resignation."

The other councilmen agreed.

All About "LUV"!

by Schatzi, the camera-clicking dachshund

NEWS:— 10% DISCOUNT ON XMAS PORTRAITS UNTIL NOV. 15!
NEWS:— XMAS LAYAWAY BUDGET PAYMENT PLAN!

Some people are surprised that I am an authority on the subject of luv... but when they think about it, they realize that Kraas-Khan studio is in business strictly for luv. All our customers are people in luv and who are luvved in return, because you see, there is really no other motive for having a portrait made.

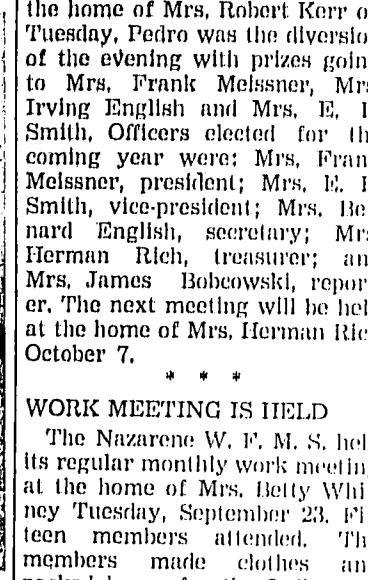

Of course, there are different kinds of luv. Now Grandma and Grandpa for instance, ... they've been accumulating luv all around them for say forty or fifty years. In the beginning, they just had each other ... then they added sons and daughters and more luv ... after that some sons-in-laws and daughters-in-laws and more luv ... and now grandchildren and more luv. Besides there are sisters and brothers ... and close neighbors and good friends who lent a hand when the going was rough. It's quite a circle when you think of it—a precious, beautiful circle of luv.

Now Grandma and Grandpa don't like to have their picture made. They luv getting pictures of the grandchildren. They have their son's picture in uniform prominently displayed—and their daughter's wedding picture right next to their other daughter's graduation picture. In fact, they luv pictures and they can't think of anything they'd rather receive for Xmas than Kraas-Khan portraits of their luvved ones.

It doesn't even take an authority on luv, like I am, to draw the obvious conclusion. Luv is a mutual thing, Grandma and Grandpa. Many's the time your children have asked for your portrait. Now, just when you're beginning to think about Christmas gifts, plan to do all your Christmas shopping in one sitting. Give them the gift you know they want most—the gift that only you can give! And give them a fine Kraas-Khan portrait, it costs no more to give the best.

Call today and make an appointment. Ask about our Xmas layaway budget payment plan. Save 10% by making your appointment today.

Fox Plans Week of Dramatic Hits

Mickey Rooney is back—and the draft board's got him—as star of "Sound Off," coming to the Fox Theatre on Saturday. The film, which has a night club and army camp background, is heralded by Hollywood as the musical maneuver of the year. Photographed in Super-Technicolor, "Sound Off" features 6 song and dance numbers.

In John Huston's thrilling Technicolor drama, "The African Queen," at the Fox Theatre Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Humphrey Bogart and Katharine Hepburn find travel on a little river boat far from relaxing.

Rooney is cast as an effervescent night club entertainer who receives the familiar "greetings" from his draft board. He is far from a model soldier in the army—in fact, a "sad sack"—until he falls in love with a beautiful army nurse. From then on, Rooney stands off his love for the lady lieutenant, despite his competition, a very serious major, and becomes a brilliant soldier. Rooney's efforts so impress the lovely lieutenant that he wins her over completely and knows that she will be awaiting his return.

California Don who, impatient with Mexico's rule of his homeland, passionately desires the U. S. to absorb California. But there are other factions in the Golden State who have different ideas. One, in particular, conspires with agents of the Russian Czar, and in picturing the conflict between the 2 groups, "California Conquest" has mirrored all the violence, romance and grandeur of America's sweep to the Coast.

"Queen" Comes to Fox Humphrey Bogart, Katharine Hepburn and director John Huston, three of Hollywood's outstanding artists, combine their talents in a strikingly unusual adventure drama, "The African Queen," which has its premiere at the Fox Theatre Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Where They're Playing

Wins 4 Openers Capital Circuit

Capital Circuit grid teams roared through the opening grid card in fine style. Charlotte was the only member to taste defeat. The Orioles were smothered by Battle Creek Lakeview 34-0. Grand Ledge came close to losing out, though. The Comets were held to a 7-7 tie by the Shamrocks from Lansing Resurrection.

As for the rest of the Circuit, Mason put an end to the 26-game St. Johns winning streak with a 19-6 victory. Howell bumped off Fenton 13-6. Everett whipped the Big Blues from Lansing St. Mary 21-0 and Eaton Rapids turned back Hastings 13-7.

Friday night Eaton Rapids and Everett got a jump on the rest of the Circuit in a game that is scheduled for the Viking field. Both teams are strong. Last year they battled to a tie. Mason will continue to smooth out the rough spots with a non-circuit contest at Pottengill field with St. Mary. Howell draws a tough assignment in Lapeer. The Highlanders will be running into a team that is perennially one of the top outfits in the state. Grand Ledge will try to duplicate the Mason job of last week in a game with St. Johns. Charlotte will be trying to stop a strong Ionia squad.

Eaton Rapids labeled itself a title contender with its victory over Hastings. Last year the Greyhounds lost only 1 game. Indications are that they are just as strong this year.

Howell also indicated that it intends to be a Capital Circuit power. The Highlanders are co-champions along with Mason. Dick Moore and Glen Catrell were the big guns in the Howell attack against Fenton.

Charlotte didn't show much promise of bettering last season's poor record in its game with the Lakeview boys Friday. Charlotte still may pull a lot of surprises before the season is over.

Howard Beyers and Herb Fox, coaches at Grand Ledge, were not too disappointed at what they saw in their first look at the Comets under fire. According to reports on the Grand Ledge-Resurrection game Grand Ledge will be no pushover.

Everett has one of its strongest teams this year. The Vikings are labeled as the team to watch.

Pomona Saturday night with pot-luck supper at 7:30, followed by a business meeting. The resolutions passed at county convention were turned over to a committee consisting of Paul Simpson, Burton Johnson and Byron Haggard. The resolutions were then brought back into Pomona, read and voted on, making them ready to take to state Grange. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mixer of Capital Grange were elected as delegates to the state Grange. The youth committee put on a program.

Miss Evelyn Cole of Grand Rapids spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Frost and Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Herman Grettenberger and family were guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Dell Wolf called on Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baur and Roger Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Donal and grandson, Mrs. Minnie Backus, Mrs. Edith Backus and Maxine and Lorreen were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Donal.

Mason Line Paves the Way

Mason Snaps St. Johns Winning Streak in Opener

Mason finally did it. The Bulldogs beat St. Johns Friday night in the 1952 grid opener at Mason 19-6. It marked the first time in 3 years that St. Johns has been on the losing end of the score. Friday night brought an end to a 26-game winning streak. A winning streak that has labeled the Redwings as one of the top grid machines in the state.

Friday night at Pottengill field in Lansing the Bulldogs go up against a team with another kind of a record. St. Mary will be looking for its first victory in 11 starts. The Big Blues lost No. 10 to Lansing Everett Friday night 21-0.

In spite of its poor record the Lansing parochial school fields a dangerous team. Larry Daggett, Gordon Robke and Tom Cavanaugh are dangerous runners and have proved it in games against Mason in the past.

The Big Blues may be without the services of Ron Mowas, another big gun in the St. Mary attack. He is a doubtful starter due to injuries.

While the Big Blues are not quite so big in the forward wall as they were last year, the Mason line will have its work cut out for it.

Mason slipped by St. Johns without any injuries. The Bulldogs should be in top shape for Friday's game with the possible exception of Gordon Sice and Bob Scofield. These 2 were also out of action in the opener.

Mason Line Is Tough Against St. Johns it was the lineplay that paved the way to victory. In pre-season calculations the line was the big question mark. Friday the results proved that the Mason forward wall can take care of itself. Mason outcharged and outgained the Redwings all during the game.

Add to this the fine running of Bruce Collins, Jon Davis, Alton Jennings and Bob Jewett and it is easy to see how the St. Johns victory string was snapped.

Davis was especially hard to stop. The Mason senior spun and sidestepped his way to long gains almost every time he handled the ball.

Bob Jewett was the point-getter for the Bulldogs. In the second quarter he raced around right end for 30 yards but was stopped 6 inches from the goal with a last-ditch tackle. On the next play Jewett moved up to the quarterback slot and sneaked the ball over. He kicked the extra point.

Mason did not start rolling again until midway in the third period. Davis took a Dale Henning punt and spun his way to midfield. From there Jennings and Jewett picked up 3 first downs on 3 straight plays. On a handoff from Collins, Jewett went over for the score.

Mason waited until the last quarter to open up with its air game. The final tally came on a 40-yard pitch from Jewett to Jennings. Jennings stepped over the last yard marker without a hand being placed on him.

St. Johns scored its lone tally with only 5 minutes remaining in the contest. Carl Tiedt and Henning took to the air lines with Doug Knight, 6 foot, 4 inch end, as their favorite target. Knight caught 3 passes that carried the Redwings to the 4-yard line. A penalty against Mason moved the ball to the 1-foot line and from there Tiedt smacked it over.

In the Mason forward wall the play of Ralph Ellison, Jim Blauvelt, Don Lyons, Ron Surato and Dick Laxton was outstanding. The rushing Mason forwards demolished the St. Johns passing game and stopped the Redwings cold on the ground.

Lee School The Lee school has finished making leaf books. Friday there will be a community gathering at the school with a dinner and a program.

Those who received "A" in spelling this past week were Marvin Head, Maurice Rabidoux, Carolyn Pfister, Ronald Dietz, Arlin Head, Flo Steadman, Jacqueline Ambler, Gary Benjamin and John Benjamin.

Smith-Field Vows Spoken

Autumn leaves and spliter chrysanthemums with candelabra garlanded with bittersweet decorated the altar of the Emmanuel Lutheran church Sunday during the afternoon rites of the wedding of Miss Eileen Jean Piel and Donald A. Smith.

Rev. Karl Krauss officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Arthur Field of Holt and the parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Allen Smith of Lansing.

The bride chose a satin gown, styled with a full skirt and chapel train. Lace banded the bodice, with opalescent sequins trimming the yoke. A cap of shirred lace held her illusion veil. She carried a cascading bridal bouquet of spider and button pompon chrysanthemums and blue bittersweet.

Mrs. Richard Foss served her sister as matron of honor. Mrs. Virgel Edgel, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Merwin Zeller of Lansing were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of ice blue satin with taffeta jackets and bouffant skirts of nylon tulle. Bittersweet earrings matched the bittersweet in their cascade bouquets, similar to the bride's.

Virgil Edgel of Lansing served as best man. Ushers were John Deederly of Grand Rapids and Richard Foss of Lansing.

Victor J. Schultz provided nuptial music. The reception in the church parlors was held after the ceremony. Those serving were Mrs. Lee Strubel, Mrs. Virgil Douglas, Miss Doris Kohler, Mrs. William Stevens and Mrs. Frank Melvik.

Four Mason Churches Joining In Religious Survey Oct. 5

How many people attend church, what churches they do attend and what church schools the youngsters attend are questions which Mason church leaders hope to find out.

That's why they are conducting a community religious survey on Sunday afternoon, October 5. They are making plans to visit every residence in Mason and for about 3 miles in each direction.

The Baptist, Nazarene, Methodist and Presbyterian churches are joining in the survey. Workers are to meet at 2:30 on the afternoon of October 5 to get instructions and to have territory assigned to them.

The information sought will include the correct address names of all adults, names and ages of children, church affiliation or church preference.

Since the last religious census taken several years ago, so many people have moved in or out that the records are out of date.

People who do not intend to be at home the afternoon of Sunday, October 5, are asked to fill out the blank form which appears below, tear it out of the paper and attach it to the door so the church visitors may secure the information without making a return trip. The form follows:

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

A great door and effectual is opened unto us. (1 Corinthians 16:9.) Read Acts 20:22-27.

In 1941, Dr. Bliss W. Billings fled from Korea as a refugee and came to the Philippines. There he was placed in an internment camp. One day he said: "Doors of opportunity are never closed to me." He took advantage of every opportunity to teach and preach and to help others. He prayed for people in many places. In spirit, he was like Paul, who said: "A great door and effectual is opened to me."

Doors of opportunity to serve God and man at home and abroad are never closed. There are always the needy ones to be helped, the sufferers to be relieved, and the sinful to be sought, the sick to be healed, and those in distress to be encouraged.

In all countries there are great doors of opportunity to evangelize, to educate, to serve, and to lift up people to God in worship. People in every community, in business, in industry, in government, in schools, indeed, in all walks of life, stand in need of Christ. These doors of opportunity Christ opens to all His disciples.

PRAYER

Dear Lord and Father of mankind, forgive us for our unconcern for the less fortunate brethren in many lands. Give us the passion of Christlike love to do all we can to serve them. In the name of the Christ. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

"As we have opportunity, let us do good to all men."—Francisco S. Galvez (Philippines)

RALLY DAY PLANNED

The Baptist Sunday school will have its annual rally day September 28, at 11:15 a. m. These exercises will be under the direction of Superintendent Walter E. Zimmer and Children's Superintendent Mrs. Lyman Freshour. At this annual program the youths are promoted to higher classes and 23 awards will be presented for perfect attendance during the past year. The lesson will be a flannel-graph lesson presented by Mrs. L. G. Caraway. Parents are invited to attend this session with their children.

Former Minister Writes Column

Rev. Edward J. Cross, formerly of Leslie, is a columnist and a frequent writer for the Maywood (Illinois) Herald.

Due to advancing years which have dimmed his vigor but not his intellect, Rev. Cross now lives at the Baptist home in Maywood.

In a recent issue of the Herald there was one of the Rev. Cross stories, "Home Folks Eat Pie," on one page and his regular column on another. Then for good measure the editor of the Herald used his own story about Rev. Cross on still another page.

Last Week's Parade Picture Jogged Memory of Old Timer

The Fourth of July picture shown in the Ingham County News last week was taken in 1886 by B. B. Crittenden, old time Mason photographer, apparently from a third story window in the Conk block, which stood at the time on the southeast corner of B and Ash streets (B is now Jefferson street.)

The Ingham County News reporter estimated that there were 3,000 people present, but if so they didn't all get into the picture.

Dr. W. W. Root was marshal of the parade; Rev. W. C. Phillips was chaplain; Mayor Perry Henderson, in the derby hat, is just ahead of the Dansville 13-piece band, whose drum major looks like Daniel Watts. Following came a 6-horse team drawing the liberty car, with young women representing various states in the union; then came Street Commissioner Phil Nice and his big gray team with the city's new Silsby steam fire engine gleaming in red paint and nickel plate, and the 2-horse carts, following this was John Lassenby's Deering binder, drawn by 2 mules; Yeom and Grainger's Empire binder; the North Aurelius 14-piece cornet band, and Mason's Company F, 31st Michigan Infantry, in full uniform.

In the athletic events, Jim Davison won the foot race and Bill Lundy took first in the wheelbarrow race and the potato race. The fire laddies gave an exhibition with the new fire engine, throwing 3 streams of water at once over the city's highest buildings. In the evening a magnificent fireworks exhibition from the roof of the Parkhurst building at the northwest corner of Maple and B streets marked the end of a perfect day.

September 25, 1952

THE INGHAM COUNTY NEWS

Section 4

The celebration was held on Saturday, so Mason's 4 or 5 saloons were doing big business all day; and 2 Bowery dances were running, but not a single fight was reported. The only events not on the program were when big George Brown blew in the vent of the cannon and had his face blown full of powder, and one of Myron Randall's livery horses, frightened by a sky-rocket at the evening's fireworks show, ran away with Dennis Ocozbek and his lady friend and tipped the buggy over.

Other events of the time: The Methodist church had just received its new 1,500-lb bell, which was raised to the belfry free of charge by Charles Curry, the building mover, and proved to have a very rich, mellow tone. Boys with firecrackers and the Salvation Army band caused 2 runaways. The new roller process flouring machinery was being installed in the Phoenix Mills, now the Silsby Implement Store. One of Mason's prominent horsemen strained his neck so badly looking over the high board fence at the horse races, held at the old fairgrounds, at corner of Klipp road and US-127, that he couldn't take in the last day's races.

The community was still seething with excitement over the Brown murder case: Gid (Gilbert) Brown, a burly negro living on the Spitzer farm just east of Mason, on the Dansville road, shot and clubbed his wife Ophelia at the climax of a long series of family quarrels, then fled and was hunted down and captured on a farm in West Aurelius by Sheriff McKenna, S. B. Madden and Eugene McEernan. Mrs. Brown died some 2 weeks later, and Brown was arraigned shortly after in circuit court. He pleaded guilty, but a trial was ordered to determine the degree of guilt. Twenty-four Mason witnesses testified for the state and 9 for the defense in a trial which started on Monday and ended on Thursday of the same week, when Brown was sentenced to life at Jackson prison where he died in 1908.

The Rogers Manufacturing Co. was turning out 25 buggles a week; Collins Huntington's new clothespin factory across the track from the freight house, closed temporarily after turning out 360,000 clothespins a day for 3 months; S. A. Paddock in the planing mill on Mason street was shipping extension dining tables by the carload; Mason's new creamery at A and Ash streets, (Dart Manufacturing building), was producing a fine quality of butter; Ford's bazaar had a grand opening in the new Paddock block, built on the ashes of the big fire of the previous December (on the present site of A & P store and Mason Dairy.) E. M. Slayton was planning a mammoth dry goods, cloak and carpet store in the new Dunsback block, the present home of the Ingham County News, and Al Butler was rushing the adjoining store (now Palmer's Grocery) to completion. Joe Smith and Jim Horton put the tin roof on these 2 buildings in 2 days.

At Lansing F. P. Olds was confident that his son's new steam road wagon could travel ordinary roads at 15 miles per hour, but the shop was too busy to fool with it this season. And on the state pages of the weekly papers was the story of the hustling Yankee who planned to start a cheese factory in Caracas, South America. He expected the natives to live on cheese and Caracas.

Wyeth Presents Historic Painting To Michigan State Medical Society

Wyeth incorporated gave its original painting of Dr. William Beaumont and the wounded French voyageur at Fort Mackinac to the Michigan State Medical Society Tuesday.

Stuart V. Smith, vice-president of Wyeth incorporated made the presentation at the annual medical meeting in Detroit. The painting was accepted by Dr. Otto W. Beck of Birmingham, president of the Michigan State Medical Society. The painting will be hung in the memorial to Dr. Beaumont.

A building on Mackinac Island, where the blast of a musket saved a million lives, is being restored by Michigan's doctors of medicine and will be given to the people of the state as an historical memorial.

Within a year the doctors of Michigan plan to restore the original American Fur company store where a French-Canadian voyageur was accidentally wounded in his side in 1822. The wound left an opening in the man's stomach through which Dr. Beaumont, a surgeon at Fort Mackinac, could observe the action of the gastric juices.

The painting, "Beaumont and St. Martin," will be unveiled by Mrs. George L. Stokes, of Flint, great grandniece of Dr. Beaumont. It is one in a series commissioned by Wyeth incorporated entitled "Pioneers in American Medicine." The artist is Dean Cornwell.

Cornwell ranks among the first of American muralists. Two of his outstanding murals, completed since 1924, include 16 panels depicting "A Pageant of California's History" and are in the Los Angeles Public Library. Four other panels of a mural are in the new county court house at Nashville, Tenn.

The story of Dr. Beaumont's important medical discovery began on June 19, 1822, when the ugly rumble of a musket crescendoed through the boisterous voices of trappers and traders crowded into the American Fur company's store on Mackinac Island.

MICHIGAN TO RECEIVE FAMOUS PAINTING

This original painting, "Beaumont and St. Martin," by Dean Cornwell, shows William Beaumont, M.D., in 1822 conducting his experiments on Alexis St. Martin, a French-Canadian voyageur, who was accidentally shot in his side at Fort Mackinac. The wound left an opening in St. Martin's stomach through which Dr. Beaumont could observe the action of the gastric juices and the human digestive process, which until that time were unknown. The painting, presented by Wyeth Incorporated, a Philadelphia pharmaceutical firm to the Michigan State Medical Society, Sept. 23, will hang in the memorial to Dr. Beaumont on Mackinac Island which is now being built by the Medical Society. The memorial will be a restoration of the American Fur Company store, scene of the accidental shooting, and will be a gift to the people of Michigan.

Interpretations were keen and clear—mileposts in experimental medicine. These observations were passed on to other men of science—doctors of medicine—so that more of them might know more about the mysteries of the human body.

Dr. Beaumont's contributions to medical science rank with Harvey's discovery of the circulation of blood and are rated above the famed experiments by Ivan Petrovitch Pavlov which contributed to the knowledge of the physiology of digestion.

The construction of the memorial to Dr. Beaumont on Mackinac Island is being made possible by contributions of Michigan's doctors of medicine. An initial contribution for the purchase of the land was made by Parke, Davis & Company. Cooperation is also being extended to the project by the Mackinac Island state park commission with the support of William F. Doyle, commission chairman.

At the present time a house stands on the historic site. This house is being torn down, but any bricks or stones of the original construction are being saved and will become part of the restored building.

The work of bringing the memorial to a reality for the people of the state of Michigan has been and is being done by the Michigan State Medical Society Beaumont memorial restoration committee and the Beaumont Memorial working committee.

As the sound echoed against the stone walls of the building, a startled young French-Canadian voyageur grasped his left side and crumpled to the hobb-nail scoured floor. The voyageur's name was Alexis St. Martin.

Dr. Beaumont was hastily summoned from the fort. He did what he could to repair the gassing wound in St. Martin's side even though he was certain the young voyageur could not live through the day.

But St. Martin lived with a hole in his side. St. Martin lived with a gastric fistula through which Dr. Beaumont could study the action of the stomach's digestive process as well as determining the role of emotion indigestion.

His experiments on the gastric juices are monumental in the history of medicine. Until that time little was known of how food was digested.

With painstaking care Dr. Beaumont recorded 51 infences uncovered in his experiments. While his laboratory equipment was crude, his observations and

Lansing Y. W. C. A. Offers Program Of Wide Interest

The Y. W. C. A., one of Lansing's most active Red Feather agencies, has a variety of community services.

Mothers will find the routine of household duties lessened by diversion in the charm school offered by the "Ladies' Day Out" program starting September 30. Other features included in the activities are classes in beginning and advanced swimming, knitting and crocheting, furniture refinishing and beginning and advanced bridge.

Mothers of children 3-5 years old will also be able to participate because of a nursery school during the program hours.

Enrollment in classes in English for the foreign-born is made by coming to the classroom in the Colonial room on the second floor of the "Y" building. The classes are held Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7.

Persons studying to become naturalized citizens within the next year will find assistance in classes meeting every Wednesday evening at 7 in the Colonial room. Instruction is given in the study of the Constitution and government of the United States.

Foreign-born war brides are eligible for fun in the "Y's" Overseas Wives club, and other women of foreign birth are welcomed into the active International Woman's club.

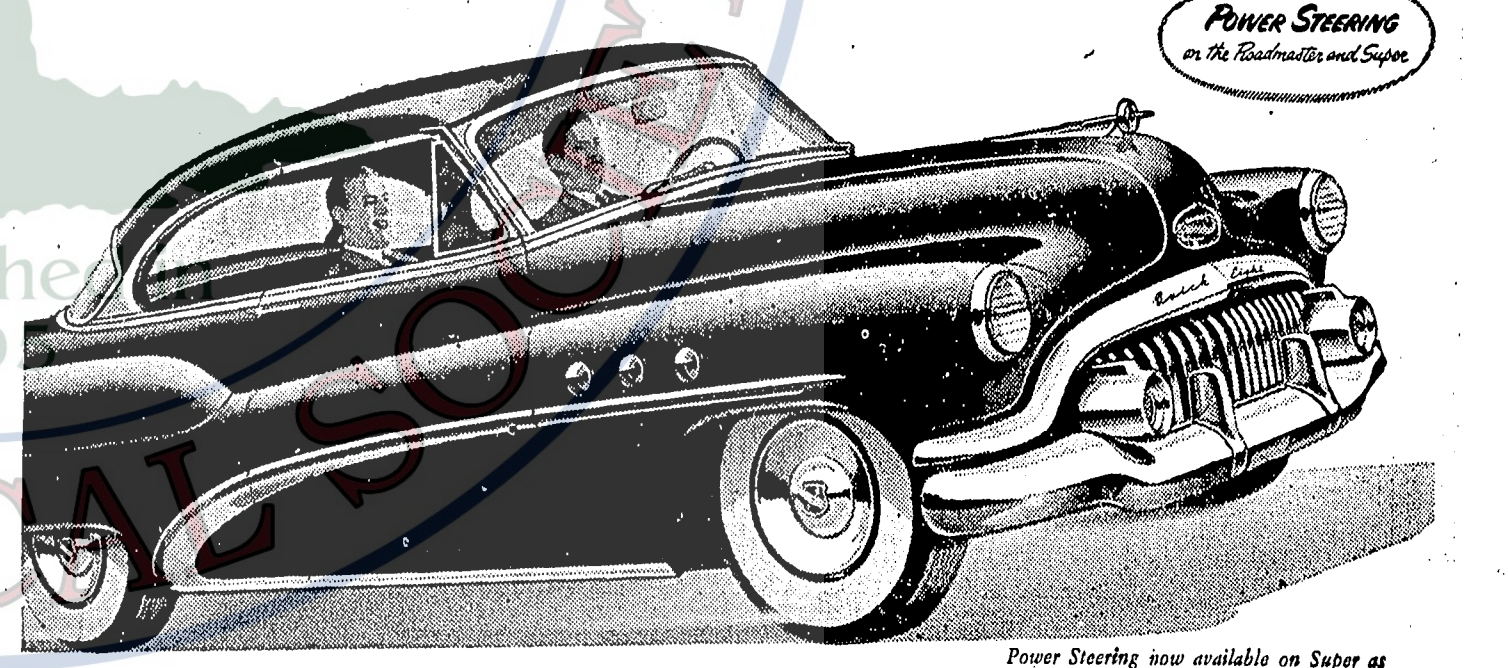

The "Y-Teen" program offers professional guidance for mothers and advisors of teenagers. All age groups are welcome to use the swimming facilities of the "Y". A medical examination card to be filled out can be obtained at the "Y" desk. Instruction is offered to young people after school hours, and adult classes are held in the evening.

Bowling enthusiasts and would-be players may join organizing teams. Bridge instruction will also be given later this year on Monday nights.

The climax of this year's activities will be the annual World Market held November 11 and 12, where women from many different countries exhibit a balance between pride in their homeland and joy in working with each other for a common purpose.

HOW MUCH FUN do you get from a GALLON OF GAS ?

"MILES PER GALLON" is something everyone talks about—and Buick owners take pride in telling us that they're doing OK on this score.

But the kind of miles is important too. The real pay-off you get when you own a Buick is in what happens while you're turning gas into power.

Every drop of gas sets off a tiny tornado of compacted energy in Buick's Fireball 8 Engine.

You swoop from a standing start to any speed the law or good sense permits with effortless smoothness, thanks to Dynaflo Drive.*

You soar over the road with magnificent levelness—buoyed by big soft coil springs on every wheel—coddled by a dozen other features which make up Buick's million dollar ride.

The car holds direction like an airliner on the beam. You snug into turns with sure-footed poise—ease your grip on the steering wheel and feel the car seek a straight course again like a compass points to the pole.

This is travel as you've always hoped to find it—relaxed, carefree, luxurious, happy—while you leave the miles behind.

Yes indeed—life's different in a Buick. How different you should find out firsthand.

How about letting us give you a sample—any day you say?

Private Funds for Public Work

We have become so used to watching public officials spend public funds for private purposes that we are shocked when private funds are spent for the public good.

Political commentators are yapping about Senator Richard Nixon using private funds to handle the cost of serving such a big and populous state as California. He accepted the money openly and spent it openly and gave a public accounting. Yet a howl has gone up because he has taken private money and spent it for the public good.

Many other senators and representatives spend public funds for their own purposes and nobody hollers much. Some of them load their office payrolls with wives, sons or daughters or other relatives who never work. Others load the mails with campaign literature, mailed free under the franking privilege.

Then there are others who go even farther in spending public money to advance their own interests.

Four years ago during the presidential campaign the Arabs had to give up their homeland so American presidential candidates could gain votes. Millions in U. S. funds have been and are being spent in carrying out the political promises made during the 1948 campaign.

These other promises on aid, on relief, on paying off one segment of the population at the expense of another, on subsidies, all this is nothing but the use of public funds for private or for party advantage.

We have become so accustomed to seeing public funds used for political advantage that we gasp when private funds are legitimately used for the same purpose.

Common Sense Psychology

No longer can folks blame their cussedness, their shiftlessness, their irresponsibility, their addiction to the liquor habit or any other habit upon their parents.

Scientists have exploded these recent theories that children are spoiled because of the lack of attention or the over-attention of parents.

People are the way they are because they want to be that way. If they wanted to be some other way they'd change.

If a man drinks he doesn't drink because his father did, or because his mother didn't. He drinks because he wants to, or because he doesn't not want to bad enough.

If every boy took after his father and every girl after her mother, with no hope for improvement, or with no chance of getting worse, life would be entirely predictable and therefore uninteresting.

The hope of parents lies in the fact that their sons and daughters will be better or can be better than their heritage. The hope of the world is the opportunity that every generation has to improve upon the one before.

Right training, early discipline, good environment, make the formation of proper character easier. Yet some boys and girls with all those advantages turn out bad. Others without any of those advantages turn out good.

God gave every human being the right to say "Yes" or "No." Here in the United States every boy and girl can determine what he wants to be and what he wants to do. If they are willing to make some sacrifices along the way they can get where they want to go.

If you're not doing well, don't blame your parents. Put the blame where it belongs. On yourself. If you aren't living the way you want to live, don't blame your third grade school teacher or the neighborhood where you spent your youth. Put the blame where it belongs. On yourself. Then if you want to change yourself or your way of living and doing, go ahead whether you are 10 or 70.

School Bus Business

The state is in the transportation business. Millions of miles a year are rolled up on school buses, on transportation to and from school. All the people have to pay part of that cost whether or not their youngsters get rides to school.

In big cities parents have to pay transportation costs themselves if their children have to ride public utility buses to get to school and back. Those parents are beginning to wonder why the state doesn't transport their youngsters. That's why state school officials are taking some of the fat out of the school bus business.

In this area and other areas where pupils have been driving their own cars to school they have been getting paid even though they travel over the same route as used by school buses. Pupils in the big city schools who drive across town to school get no transportation pay. School officials of the smaller communities recognize these inequities, and they are doing something to eliminate abuses. They know that if the situation continues without correction big city schools will soon demand and get transportation money.

When school buses are used for transportation other than between home and school or on trips directly concerned with educational purposes, then the individuals getting the rides should pay. When youngsters ride a school bus to follow their team to athletic events they should pay what the ride costs.

School bus transportation at state expense has been abused. It is a healthy sign that school officials recognize that abuse and are doing something to correct it.

Heifer's Age Is Established Potato Acreage Is Corrected

By Vernon J. Brown This piece is to be different. There will be no old-time history, no reminiscing, no politics, no tax talk, no questions of governmental affairs or doings of governmental agencies.

First, there are 2 matters which must be straightened out. One concerns that young heifer we have out at the farm. Without thought it would ever be used in the newspaper and with slight concern as to accuracy I told Nedson one day that a Hereford heifer 19 months old had given birth to a bull calf. When I read about it in the paper and learned that this event disputed some very expert opinions as to when a heifer can be expected to breed I began to count up on my fingers and discovered I had cheated Electa to the tune of more than 2 months.

This heifer was named Electa because she was born of a 2-year-old Hereford dam on election day of April, 1951. I believe election day that year fell on April 2. Electa dropped her first born in the pasture of August 26, 1952. That lacks almost a week of being one year and five months, now that I have it figured correctly. I, too, had relied on the general opinion that cattle would not breed so young and therefore had ignored the presence in the pasture lot of a young bull. Electa suckled at her own mother's udder for at least 3 months after conception.

So much for one error. The next has to do with that much publicized patch of Pontiac potatoes. I read in Jim's Town and Country column last week about an expected 60-bushel crop from 4 acres planted. Should my expectations fall that low I certainly would not bother to till

Down by the SYCAMORE

Thirty-one years ago on the eve of my wedding I carried my seabag over to Leslie. Eventually it was brought back to Mason and for 25 years it has been stored in the same attic.

"Why do you keep that seabag and those dress blues?" my wife has been wont to inquire.

"Some day I may need them," has been my stock answer.

That day, that glorious day has come. As this column comes off the press Thursday my seabag is on the pier at Long Beach and I'm beside it. The bag and I are waiting for the captain's gig to take us out to a battleship. On the tide we sail for Hawaii. I'll have liberty there for a week and then I will board the Mars for a flight to San Francisco and thence home again.

Since World War I ended I have hugged the shore. I hugged it so long that I became ignorant of the modern navy, so ignorant that the navy is now taking me on an indoctrination cruise. Indoctrination is defined as instruction in rudiments. That's what the navy intends to do to me.

And I'm willing.

I know something about the navy; enough to realize that I may end up in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, instead of Hawaii. From Quantico once the Ninth regiment was hurried down to Norfolk by train, where we boarded the Von Steuben, recently seized from Germany. We left Norfolk and headed for France. But somehow we sailed into Guantanamo Bay and debarked. I seem to recall that that's the nautical term. Another time a battalion of marines was handpicked for service in Haiti. We were rushed aboard the Hancock at Galveston and under full steam the captain headed for Port au Prince. Three days later we sailed into Guantanamo Bay.

That's why I haven't given people my fleet postoffice address at San Francisco. Grandma DeCamp sent a gingercake to me at Parris Island for my birthday. The cake followed me to Quantico and then on to France. I got it 6 months later at Guantanamo Bay. It was still good.

Probably I shouldn't even mention such a short cruise as this one even if the ship goes to Hawaii. Young men and women these days go farther than that before breakfast, but it's a long way from the Sycamore Valley just the same and I'm bound to see some strange sights.

I appreciate the good advice I have received from former officers and enlisted men about how I should act aboard ship, and what to do and see in Hawaii. I shall submit a complete report upon my return.

As I am waiting here on the pier for the captain's gig I have been trying without success to piece together some of the happenings since I left Willow Run on the United Air Lines 'Hollywood Special' Wednesday morning. I have had a day in Los Angeles, but I will need another day to transcribe my notes. May states of the union have been left out, from Los Angeles to Norfolk; from the Rocky Mountains across the plains, through the midwest to the industrial and shipping centers of the east, these Ford expansions and installations line up in a decentralization movement that is astonishing in its scope, bewildering in the money spent, and challenging in the outlook for future growth.

A billion dollars expended in the 6 years is a lot of money and a lot of spending. And all this on earnings of the company without the borrowing of a cent. It must be borne in mind of course that the Ford company is pretty much the Ford family with the grandsons of the late Henry Ford now in charge and control. Here then is one man's family in real life.

In a recent conversation with several men of varying ages I listened while one cocksure youth sounded off on how the resources of this country had been wasted, our soils depleted, business now in the hands of giant trusts and chain store corporations and all opportunity for youth now fading out.

Is there another spot on earth where such a thing as the Ford company could have its beginning and grow as it has? And are there not many other similar monuments to America's promise and opportunities? Some clever fellow has said that "America is still the land of opportunity where a man can start out digging ditches and wind up behind a desk—if he doesn't mind the financial sacrifice."

No real American wants to be a ditch-digger all his life. Neither does any red-blooded man or woman want to spend his or her life behind an office desk doing tasks set for them by some other hireling equally a modern day slave. There is still opportunity. Now all will become Henry Fords or Thomas Edisons or Henry Firestones or Cyrus McCormicks. But some will. That is why I like what Dean Alfange recently wrote in "This Week" as his creed. Here it is:

"I do not choose to be a common man. It is my right to be uncommon—if I can. I seek opportunity—not security. I do not wish to be kept a citizen, humbled and dulled by having the state look after me. I want to take the calculated risk; to dream and to build, to fail and to succeed. I refuse to barter incentive for a dole. I prefer the challenges of life to the guaranteed existence; the thrill of fulfillment to the stale calm of Utopia. I will not trade freedom for beneficence nor my dignity for a handout. It is my heritage to think and act for myself, enjoy the benefit of my creations, and to face the world boldly and say, 'this I have done.' All this is what it means to be an American."

No city, no neighborhood, no individual has the right to put ambition into swaddling clothes or submerge genius in any form, for any reason. Only in America can youth find so much of opportunity. Opportunity beckons. It awaits all who will respond.

Two Hormones Speed Growth of Lambs

Two hormones—stilbestrol and progesterone—have proved their worth for increasing growth and carcass quality of lambs in research conducted at the Michigan agricultural experiment station. The 2 substances, previously used to induce milk flow in sterile cows, produced marked gains and efficiency of feeding when implanted in the necks of spring lambs from the Michigan State college flock. Recent tests showed that hormone-treated lambs required about 20% less feed to grow to market weight than untreated lambs. The carcasses from the treated lambs graded higher. No difference in fat quality was found. Two groups of animals were used in the tests. Twenty animals were selected at random and divided into 2 groups nearly equal in weight, sex type and breeding. One group was treated with the hormones stilbestrol and progesterone and the other group was retained as a control group and not treated. J. H. Galloway, L. J. Bratzler, and Dr. L. H. Blakeslee of the M. S. C. animal husbandry department and Dr. Joseph Meltes of the department of physiology and pharmacology conducted the experiments. Each lamb was weighed individually at the start of the experiment and every 7 days. The feeding test continued for 80 days. Feed for both groups consisted of cracked corn and alfalfa hay. A salt mixture and fresh water were also provided. Efficiency of gains of the treated animals is shown by the fact that they consumed only 254 lbs of cracked corn and 502 lbs of hay for 100 pounds of gain as compared to 332 lbs of cracked corn and 623 lbs of hay for the untreated lambs. The lambs were unshorn and periods of unseasonal hot weather caused the untreated lambs to go off feed twice during the experiment. Treated lambs were more easily kept on feed. The treated lambs averaged 10 lbs heavier than the untreated ones at the end of the 80-day experimental period, researchers report. The animal research scientists advise that it will be some time before hormone implantation will be a practical operation for the average farmer. A large-scale experiment on lambs will be conducted this fall to get further data on hormone benefits in lamb production.

Ludell Cheney's 23 registered and grade Holsteins led the Ingham-West test association during August. Cheney's Holsteins averaged 36.4 lbs of butterfat and 1,120 lbs of milk, reported Wilbur Singer, the tester. Eleven other herds in the association went above the 30-lb mark. ## Country & Town

Two years ago I bought a pitchfork at the first Mason Dollar Days. I'm using it for the first time this fall. That's foresight. So just consider the future as you traverse Mason streets during the coming Dollar Days week end. Don't scoff at baby clothes or wedding accessories; wigs or snow shovels. Time makes room for everything.

"No hunting" signs are now available at the Ingham County News. Last year nearly 10,000 were sold as most farmers posted their lands protesting the delay of the conservation department in banning high-powered rifles to be fired in heavily populated counties.

No high-powered rifles will be allowed this year, but a lot of low-powered ones will be. Posting only regulates the traffic in a farmer's fields. It doesn't prohibit owners or tenants or those whom they permit from hunting on the land.

I think some envious Idaho potato grower sneaked into the office last week and dug a zero off of the Brown potato yield figure. Last week's column stated that we were looking for a 60-bushel yield. Actually we are expecting 600 bushels. It's funny how a "nothing" can make so much difference.

Corn Days and Grass Days and all the other farm days seem to be coming more and more popular. At last week's Corn Day, more than 500 people showed up at the Henry and Orla Sheathelm farms in White Oak to learn about corn. Farmers came from as faraway as 100 miles.

The Sheathelms proved that thick planting pays off when the soil is fertile. There aren't so many jumbo ears in a crowded field, but there are a lot more ears. And the increased quantity makes for an increased yield per acre.

In other words, a bigger farm can be had by increasing the fertility and thus the yield per acre. Moving the fences out to take in more land isn't the only answer to having a larger farm.

John Robinson, owner of Tuttle orchard near Leslie, claims the average apple-picker picks from 50 to 60 bushels a day. The going price is 15c a bushel. The record at the Tuttle orchard is well over a 100 bushels a day. That's when the apples are thick and the will is strong.

Terramycin, one of the anti-virotic "wonder drugs" will stimulate plant growth. Recent experiments have shown that extremely small quantities of the antibiotic (as low as one part per million parts of water) get plants off to a fast start and also increase the percentage of seed germination. Some forms of penicillin also seem to increase plant growth. One important use of such plant stimulants would be to hurry plant growth along in areas where growing seasons are comparatively short.

According to all reports, the Canadian wheat crop not only is one of record size but also of excellent quality. It's 18% above the old record set back in 1948, and a whopping 70% over the average from 1941-1950. It means tough competition for U. S. grain in export markets. But it also means that Canadian farmers and others affected by the bumper crop will have lots of money to buy goods made in this country.

With more Canadian wheat going into export trade, less U. S. wheat will find foreign markets. That means supplies will pile up here. It also means that farmers will take out a lot more wheat crop loans on their stored grain this year.

Did you ever wonder how far some common insects can travel? Most of them live their lives in an area less than 200 feet in diameter. That's what Ohio State scientists found in a recent study they made.

Output of chicks by commercial hatcheries during August was off 15% from a year ago. However, it was up 58% from the average for the 5 years ending 1950. Demand for chicks for broiler production was strong, according to USDA. The supply of hatching eggs was the limiting factor.

If you have a good big corn crop coming along you will want to get adequate storage ready for it. You still can get financial help to build new farm storage. County PMA committees will help farmers get up to 85% of the storage cost from CCC. Borrowers have 5 years to repay the loan. Interest rate is 4%. Check with your county PMA committee about support price for your area. The national average is $1.60 a bushel.

No cattle at all came over the Mexican-U. S. border for the first 10 days after the hoof-and-mouth disease quarantine was lifted. At their heaviest, imports of Mexican cattle aren't expected to run as high as 1% of our total beef cattle population. What Mexican cattle do cross the border this fall are likely to be thin and in need of more grazing and feeding. Mexico too has suffered from a severe drought this summer.

Most Michigan corn should be past the stage where a severe frost could hurt it this year. Here's an idea of how much a killing frost could affect your corn. A killer at early milk stage cuts the crop about two-thirds. Later milk stage about half. At the soft dough stage, heavy frost would cut the yield about a third, hard dough about a fifth, denting stage about one twentieth. These figures are based on complete killing of the leaves of the plant.

More than half the population of this country gets its income from food producing, processing, handling, transporting and distributing. Eighty per cent of this large segment of our people work with animal foods one way or another. In connection with this it's interesting to note that 62% of the nation's meat supplies are produced west of the Mississippi river, but 69% of them are consumed east of the Mississippi. Incidentally, both the South and West (California) are raising much greater numbers of beef cattle now than they did just a few years ago. Population increases on the west coast have been extremely rapid in recent years. These factors are changing beef feeding and meat distribution patterns materially.

The corn-hog ratio by mid-September certainly wasn't any inspiration to farmers. For the week ending September 10, Chicago ratio was 10.3, vs. 10.1 the previous week and 10.5 a year ago the same week.

Miscellany... USDA has started buying turkeys to help stabilize 1952 crop birds. First purchase amounted to 197,600 lbs. The turkeys are to be used for school lunch programs... Government officials want to boost consumption of honey. They say that if the per capita use of honey would increase just about half a pound, there wouldn't be any price decreasing surpluses... Federally inspected cattle slaughter for the first week in September at major livestock markets were up about 30 per cent over a year ago at the same time... There's a grave rice shortage in Asia. Maybe that's where some of our excess wheat supply will end up.

A pretty young girl was about to take her first train journey alone. Her mother warned her repeatedly about not talking to strange men. At the station, the Pullman porter asked her, "Where are you going, Miss?" "Los Angeles," she replied, and the porter assisted her onto the train. Settled back comfortably into her seat as the train pulled slowly out of the station, she smiled to herself. "I certainly fooled that one! He hasn't any idea that I'm really going to Boston!"

HOLSTEIN COMPLETES TEST
With 658 lbs of butterfat and 14,214 lbs of milk testing 4.0% to her credit, Post Farm Pabst Reta, registered Holstein cow owned by W. H. Freshour, Mason, has completed a 365-day production test in official herd improvement registry. She was 7 years, 9 months when she began her testing period. Her record averages approximately 18 quarts of milk daily for the period covered by her test.

Cows Should Keep Farmers, Not Farmers Keep the Cows

Many farmers aren't making full use of the profit-making opportunities provided by dairy herd improvement association records. There are 3 methods of improving the efficiency of Michigan dairy herds through information provided in DHIA records, says George E. Parsons, Michigan State college extension dairy specialist. For one thing, DHIA records provide a reliable record from which a dairyman can retain or cull animals from his herd. "There are 2 kinds of cows," Parsons explains, "those which keep the dairyman and those which the dairyman keeps." These records will help the non-profitable animals in the slaughter house where they belong. The DHIA records also provide a basis for a sensible feeding program. In addition the yearly records provide the basis for a sound breeding program. This third value of DHIA records is a big one. Parsons explains that by reporting all of the lactation records, a proof will be assembled and reported on the herd sire. To further make use of these records the dairyman should refer to the book section of the DHIA book for instructions on how to make a herd analysis. A herd analysis will show in an easy-to-read graphic form what has been happening in the herd during the years while it was on test. Parsons says it will show certain families of cows within the herd which have been consistently good. From such a family you will want to save heifer and bull calves.

Small Ears from Thick Planting Out-Yield Corn Widely Spaced

Ingham's first Corn Day last Friday proved that thick planting pays off if the soil is fertile. While the ears of corn are much bigger on widely spaced plantings the yield per acre is greatly increased by thick planting. Because of the increased yield from thick plantings, soil fertility becomes all-important. Corn must have more food if it is to grow in thick stands. More than 500 farmers attended the Corn Day program at the Henry and Orla Sheathelm farms in White Oak. Farmers came from as far as 100 miles away to join Ingham men in learning more about corn. Some farmers registered from Montcalm county and some from as far away as Kalamazoo.

The afternoon's program went off without a hitch. Heavy rain Wednesday night and Thursday made fields too wet for work Friday and that bolstered the crowd. Farmers gathered at the Sheathelm farm at 12:30. County Agent James Hoekzema served as master of ceremonies. He introduced the 3 generations of Sheathelms and Kroyon Payne, new chief of the farm crops department at Michigan State college. Members of the Ingham Agricultural Council served as guides to the 6 stations set up in the fields. Between 50 and 75 were in the groups taken to the stations in turn. Manning the stations were L. V. Nelson, who discussed hybrids; Richard Bell, rate of planting; James Porter, fertility and date of planting; Walter Griffith, seedlings in corn; Elmer Rossman, development of hybrid seed; and George Wenner, grades of seed. The Potomac river is about 550 miles long.

Farm Leader Opposes No. 2 Proposal

By Stanley Powell
Michigan Farm Bureau

Proposals 2 and 3 at the November election, both would change Sections 2, 3 and 4 of Article V of the state constitution relative to the mapping of the state's senatorial and representative districts. Although these proposals very definitely conflict with each other, there would be nothing to stop any voter from marking his ballot for both of them or against both of them. Of course, to vote for 2 amendments that are incompatible would be foolish. To vote against both of them would not help the situation.

Provisions of the constitution call for the legislature to rearrange the senatorial districts and apportion anew the representative districts each tenth year. The year ending with the figure "3" is the time for such apportionment. That means that if the constitution is not changed in the meantime the legislature would be faced with carrying out a redistricting during the 1953 legislative session. Practically everyone is in agreement that constitutional provisions relating to reapportionment should be clarified before another apportionment of legislative seats is undertaken.

Proposal No. 2 is the C. I. O. plan which provides for districting both senate and house solely on a population basis. No other features would be taken into consideration. There would be no moiety clause to give special consideration to the more sparsely settled counties. The practical effect of this proposal would be that 4 adjoining counties in southeastern Michigan would elect more than half of the members of both the senate and the house, leaving the citizens of the other 79 counties of the state with minority representation in both branches of the legislature.

Elections in the 4 highly-industrialized counties in the metropolitan area are largely dominated by organized labor. That gives a definite clue as to the type of a legislature and the kind of laws which could be expected if that amendment were adopted.

Proposal No. 3 is the plan backed by the Michigan Committee for a Balanced Legislature. Farm organizations and members of a variety of state-wide citizens groups joined in the crusade to give the voters of Michigan an opportunity to write into their state constitution provisions which would be understandable and self-executing and which would insure a balanced legislature that would give equitable consideration to all interests and sections of the state.

In a nutshell, this plan somewhat resembles the federal basis of representation. Senate districts would, in part, reflect area and population whereas house districts would be based entirely on population. The moiety clause would be retained and clarified. It would apply both to individual counties and to groups of smaller counties.

NITRO-NURSED CORN IS NICER—Moniteau County Agent Marvin Fisher holds up two ears of corn grown in the same Missouri patch. Pure sand-soil fertilized only with nitrogen made ears bigger as seen at left. Scrubby ear at right was fed no nitrogen, is thus stunted. Sixty pounds of the chemical was spread over each acre of test ground. Fisher estimates corn at left will yield 45 bushels per acre, rows fed no nitrogen will give only 15.

Pine Tree Seeds Are Tasty

Thousands of Americans eat pine tree seeds. As much as eight million pounds of the nut-like seeds of the pinyon pine have been shipped from our Southwest in one year. The nut is rich and tasty.

Actually there is nothing new about the eating of pinyon nuts, Indian nuts or pinones (pronounced peen-yown-ees), as the Mexicans call them. In Europe the seed of the pinyon, or stone pine, has been eaten since time immemorial. The early Spanish explorer Cabeza de Baca found the Indians using pounded nuts for flour. He considered the New World pinyon nuts better than those of Spain. Today dark-eyed children of Mexican extraction sell little bags of pinones to passing motorists.

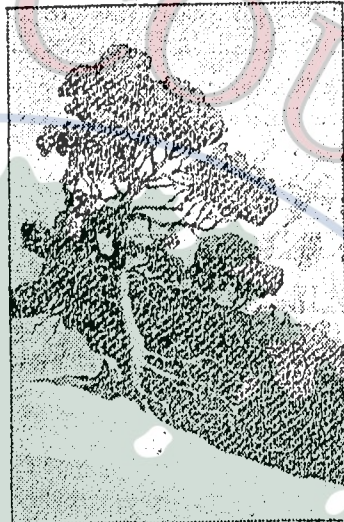

Many wild creatures also have found that the nuts are good eating, according to the National Wildlife Federation. Turkeys and band-tailed pigeons fatten on them. They provide 71% of the food of the beautiful white-headed woodpecker. The pinyon jay got its name because it feeds so extensively upon the seeds of this tree. Numerous rodents, which in turn become food for larger animals, rely upon them.

Surprisingly, the scrubby, misshapen, unpretentious pinyon pine played a major role in the development of our great Southwest. It is the common evergreen seen with junipers (cedars) in scattered, open growth between the desert and the tall timber of New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Colorado and California and is generally considered by travelers to be a rather picturesque but worthless weed tree. It is so important today, however, and has played so prominent a part in history, that both New Mexico and Arizona have declared it their state tree.

Early settlers found that it made a hot fire and was invaluable for cooking and heating. Together with the juniper it served for building ranch houses, fences and corrals. The diminutive pine was cut out for props in the mines and cross-ties for the early railroads. It is still the Christmas tree of the Spanish-speaking people and the decoration for special occasions. The fragrant cones, 1 1/2 to 2 inches long, are used commercially to produce incense.

The pinyon pine (pinus edulis) has a short bole and is usually under 20 feet tall. It is recognized by its stiff, short, dark green needles 1/2 to 1 1/2 inches long, two to the cluster. A single-leaf pinyon (pinus monophylla) occupies the western part of the range.

Originally, valuable range grasses grew among the scattered junipers and pinyon pines.

Biggest Muskie Caught

Just to prove that all the big ones don't get away, Walter Stanley of 14630 Riverside, Detroit, hooked and landed the year's biggest muskellunge in Michigan virtually within the shadows of the city's skyscrapers! Walt was trolling for walleyes in the Detroit river just before dark on September 9 when it happened.

His tackle was conventional for Detroit river pickerel trolling: inboard reel loaded with metal line to take it down in the fast current, terminated with a long stretch of 20 pound test leader, and a small lure known as a "Whammie." This is kind of a midge propeller, orange-colored with black dots, about one inch wide. A treble gang of No. 6 hooks is attached, and on one of the hooks is a piece of white rubber another inch long cut out to resemble a small minnow.

No Net! No Gaff!
Walt Stanley had caught one walleye and was on his last swing across the river when the line seemed to rise to the surface slowly. There was no vicious tug—just a rising of the metal line as the fish took the lure and began to come to the surface. Stanley struck solidly and thought he had a big walleye. It wasn't until 5 minutes later that the muskie came out of water far behind the boat to dispel any such belief, and one look at the size of the fish gave Walt the shakes!

It was alone in the small boat with no net, and no gaff. There were no other fishermen in sight, so he was on his own with the biggest fish he'd ever hooked. Six times before while pickerel trolling he had hooked muskies. Six times before the fish had torn loose—and this seventh fish was the biggest of them all! Gingerly he worked the big fellow alongside the boat, knowing that No. 6 hooks were never made to hold fish of this size. It took 20 minutes to subdue the giant to the point where Walt felt he could grab him by the gills and haul him aboard.

For this net alone Walter Stanley should be awarded a medal for bravery above and beyond

In large areas now, as a result of over-grazing, the grasses have given way to weeds, the trees have been cut for man's use or torn out by bulldozers to make room for more forage. Soil erosion is ruining the land. The National Wildlife Federation cautions that the value of the pinyon pine as shelter for soil, for livestock, for range grasses may not yet have been thoroughly assessed. It grows very slowly, they say. Let us not lose this honored, picturesque and valuable citizen.

40 lbs. and was just under 4 feet long! Stanley was put under a doctor's care, with hands so badly lacerated that he was unable to go back to work for several days—a small price to pay, he says, for the battle he won in Michigan Outdoors!

Balzer's White Rocks Earn Money

"Running a poultry farm is a business and one must apply himself if he succeeds," said Mrs. August Balzer, Onondaga. Mrs. Balzer should know, as she and her husband have been working on their Rockhaven Poultry Farm for the last 9 years.

The Balzers purchased this farm 10 years ago when he was working for Charles Davis. A year later they moved to their present home, built a couple of brooder houses and a laying house 24 by 24 feet, 2 stories high. The name Rockhaven was chosen, not because of rocks on the farm, but because they planned on raising Rock chickens.

August always liked chickens and so the first year 800 White Rock chicks were purchased and raised. The cockerels were sold for meat and about 350 pullets were kept for layers. This was the start. Hatching eggs were sold to Gulliver's Hatchery at Eaton Rapids until 2 years ago when Newcastle hit the flock. Since then all chicks are vaccinated to control this disease.

This flock is not large enough to make a living for the family so the husband has been working in Lansing while his wife has looked after the flock. He does the heavy work while she takes care of the birds, gathers the eggs, and does many of the other phases of work so essential to a good poultry farm. Their hope is that they will be able to enlarge the poultry flock so it will be of sufficient size to support the family.

The poultry business has had to make its own way, and has. The Balzers have worked out a system that is giving them very good results. Last January they purchased 2000 White Rock chicks. These were straight-run as cockerels can usually be sold for a fairly good price when started at this time of the year.

The chicks were divided into 2 groups, one being started in the poultry house, and the other in the barn. In each place 3 electric brooders as well as 1 hard coal brooder were used. This provided plenty of heat. In one house penut shavings were used while in the other house sugar can fiber was the litter. Both are very absorbent and were highly satisfactory. Deep litter is used on the floor. Papers were placed over the litter when the chicks were placed in the houses, until after they were used to eating from the hoppers.

On this farm prepared poultry feed is used, and the baby chicks are fed a crumbled feed for the first month. This is a chick starter that is crumbly. The chicks like the crumbles better than finely ground mash. After 4 weeks they were changed to a grower and when about 10 weeks of age the birds were given oats and cracked corn, in addition to the mash.

Mrs. August Balzer of Onondaga feeds corn to her laying flock. The corn maintains body weight. The Balzers feed up to 2,000 White Rocks during the heavy part of the year. The man and wife enterprise at Rock Haven has been in operation for 9 years.

The cockerels were sold when they weighed 4 or 5 lbs. This is a fairly heavy weight but many times the heavier chickens bring a better price.

The pullets were placed in range shelters on clover pasture in late April and May. About 100 are placed in each shelter so they are not crowded, and to enable them to grow well.

When the pullets began to lay they were taken from the range and brought into the laying house. The barn had been remodeled and was made into a 2-story poultry house that would accommodate about 400 layers. This is the first year the Balzers have so many layers, as they now have slightly more than 800. They are sending the largest number of eggs, of any producer in the Central Michigan Poultry Marketing association, as they have been sending from 300 to 360 dozen eggs each week. Mrs. Balzer is secretary of this group.

Eggs are sold by grade and this past week the price for the large A grade was 56c while for medium A grade the price was 45c per dozen. The pullets are laying about 600 eggs per day though one day they did lay 701.

Mrs. Balzer has a high percentage of grade A, having as many as 94% in this class. She says that taking care of the eggs is a full-time job. Eggs are gathered in wire baskets at 10, 12, 2, 4, and again at 6:30. They are cleaned as soon as possible after they are collected and are placed on trays that have wire screen bottoms. The eggs are stored in the basement and if the air is dry, water is run on the basement floor so the humidity will be high enough to prevent excessive evaporation. Giving eggs proper care is very important when eggs are sold on a graded basis.

Egg prices are usually the lowest in March or April and highest in the fall months. On this farm the chicks are obtained very early so that the pullets start laying when egg prices start going up. They lay during the months of highest egg prices, and when egg prices start going down the hens are sold for meat. Meat prices for these fowl is often the highest in January, so the hens are sold in December or January—depending upon egg prices.

George Balzer is now 10 years of age and he raised 130 that were purchased April 9. These were of such high quality that when he showed a pen of pullets in 4-H club work he received a blue ribbon on them. The birds were sold for meat—even though they were of excellent quality—as by following this practice there would be no danger of introducing disease into the home flock. David is the other member of the family. He is 8 years old, and already helps with the poultry enterprise.

In July another 500 chicks were purchased to better utilize the brooding equipment. These chicks are now fully feathered and will be sold for meat in another month or 6 weeks. If the price of eggs holds up very well the pullets may be kept for late winter layers, but now it is thought that they will all be marketed.

Raising more than 1 brood is another method of using the equipment to a better advantage. The Balzers are making other plans as they are now seriously considering building another laying house, are planning on having laying pasture for either the pullets or for roasters. They are succeeding with poultry because they like it.

Farmer's Question Corner

WHAT ABOUT CALF SCOURS?

Q: Is there more than one type of calf scours?
A: Yes, there is an infectious type, and a non-infectious type.

Q: What causes infectious scours?
A: Infectious scours, often called white scours, is caused by germs that are common to many farm lots and buildings.

Q: How fast does calf scours develop?
A: A calf which seems to be well in the morning may be dead before night. First, the calf is listless and has no appetite. The next symptom is scouring. After that, the animal may collapse within a few hours.

Q: Is this primarily a problem of young calves?
A: Yes, chiefly animals less than one month old. The older calves may scour, too, but the chances of survival are somewhat better.

Q: What can an owner do if an outbreak of scours starts?
A: A veterinarian should be called promptly. The calf should be isolated, and the stables disinfected to safeguard other calves.

Q: What about treatment?
A: It is a waste of money to give drugs unless the basic cause is first determined. The veterinarian may recommend serums, sulfa drugs, or penicillin depending on the diagnosis.

Q: What preventive measures can be taken?
A: Feed cow balanced rations to help her produce a strong, healthy calf. See that the calf is born in clean, well-ventilated quarters on clean bedding and obtains colostrum milk. On infected farms have serum administered soon after birth. Be sure that young calves are fed properly, but not overfed.

NOTE—Due to space limitations, general questions cannot be handled by this column.

Fall Pig Pointers Given to Farmers

Giving fall pigs a good start before weaning and before cold winter weather sets in is very important, according to H. F. Moxley, Michigan State college animal husbandman.

When possible, late summer and early fall pigs should be farrowed on clean pasture. Every precaution should be taken that they be kept off grounds where other hogs have run. Otherwise small pigs are most susceptible to heavy infestations of round worms.

Creep feeding should be started at about 3 weeks of age to hasten their growth. Supplements or feeds fortified with antibiotics usually increase the rapidity of growth and rate of gain. The weaning weight of the pig has the most important bearing on his ability to go ahead after weaning, Moxley points out.

Disease Attacks New Milch Cows

With thousands of calves being born on the nation's farms this fall, the American Foundation for Animal Health has alerted herd owners to a serious disease problem which may attack the mothers of these new calves.

The disease, known as acetone-mia or "ketosis," frequently affects 15% of the cows in a herd. Cows of all ages are susceptible, but ketosis usually strikes newly-fresh cows about 6 to 8 weeks after they have calved. Top producers in a herd are prime targets for the disease.

Ketosis may appear in either a mild form or a severe form. In mild cases, the cow may go off feed and give milk which has a peculiar, sweetish taste. In severe cases, symptoms may vary from nervousness to depression and loss of weight. Milk production is cut drastically.

As these symptoms can be confused with milk fever and plant poisoning, veterinarians base their final diagnosis on chemical tests. If detected in time, early treatment with intravenous injections and by other means will usually prevent death losses.

There are 3 good preventive measures. First, provide liberal feedings of balanced rations, especially with cold weather com-

Rural Editors Will Convene

To do a better job of serving their readers in rural communities, Michigan editors are planning the first annual rural life editorial conference at Michigan State college on October 10 and 11. Aware of the change that has taken place in rural living in the last 2 decades, editors will hold a working conference to study the rural community and the newspaper's job in serving it better.

The conference is being jointly sponsored by the Michigan Press association and the departments of journalism and information services and the school of agriculture at Michigan State college. Dale Stafford, publisher of the Greenville Daily News, is the chairman and George VonKoeber, editor of the Zeeland Record, is vice-chairman.

Editors will meet at Kellogg Center for a noon luncheon on Friday, October 10, and hear Paul Miller, extension agricultural sociologist at MSC, give the keynote talk based on his recent studies of the rural community. Other topflight speakers will include: H. Clay Pate of the Bloomington, Ill., Pantograph; M. N.

Beeler, agricultural counselor for Capper Publications, Topeka, Kans.; and J. G. Hays, M. S. C. extension dairyman.

Weekly and daily newspaper editors will hold group meetings to discuss and arrive at solutions of problems of aiding rural communities.

Visiting editors will attend the Michigan State-Texas A. & M. football game on Saturday afternoon at the close of the conference.

With the intention of increasing civic and community activities throughout the state, Eugene Houck, commander of the American Legion, department of Michigan, today appointed Lloyd Hendon, 35-year-old Flint World War I veteran to fill the newly-created post of director of activities for the Legion.

Lloyd Hendon

The new director plans to concentrate his initial efforts toward furthering a current statewide drive for new members. Entering military service in 1913, Hendon distinguished himself as a non-commissioned officer with the Third and Seventh armies in 3 European campaigns. His final tour of duty took him into eastern Germany where he commanded a prisoner of war camp for the military police escort guard unit. Born in Libourne, Missouri, July 31, 1917, Hendon was discharged from service in 1919 and joined the American Legion at Kinston, North Carolina in 1946. Moving to Flint in December of that year, Hendon helped reorganize Clark-Durocher post 456, became its third commander and retained that office for 2 years. He later was elected commander for the county of Genesee and the sixth Legion district.

Formerly associated with a food brokerage firm, he had been active in the promotional field for the past 10 years. Hendon, resides in Flint with his wife Viola and daughters Laurene and Patricia. He will make his office at the American Legion headquarters in the Veterans' Memorial Building, Detroit.

Dead furrows are a problem. The girls want a puppy. Lots of nasturtiums growing.

I found out I'm not the first wife who said this. . . nor is Pete the first husband who said what he said. It happens every year. At least that's the way it works around here.

It's that little matter of plowing the garden. Although I am thinking of last spring I bring this up because of my summer try bed. All spring and summer I have wrestled with a terrible old drop-off, as I call it, or that place on one side of where a husband plows and leaves a shelf sticking up away from the ground below. Pete calls it a dead furrow. It is by no means dead. It rises up to haunt us as we rake and smooth and try to make a flat place of such goings on.

This is where I find out I'm no different from many other wives for quite a few have lamented this condition. They say the same as I do and their men folks give the same answer as Pete. It goes like this just as if you didn't know already. "I wish you didn't leave a hump like that," and then, "Next year you should do your own plowing just the way you want it and I want to be there to see how you are going to do it any better. You're going to have a 'hump' every other year however you do it."

Is there no help for us and no peace for the ones who say that's the only way to do it? That's supposed to be a serious question. Men aren't the only ones who want a well-fitted and good looking piece of ground. In a large field that dead furrow doesn't show up but next to the lawn or along a bed or border it's a monstrosity.

The end of this sad tale is that one day in desperation I zipped that little garden tractor along that thing and took out plants, weeds and humps. Pete predicted there would be no berries for next spring. He also said, "I didn't believe you could ever do it with your garden tractor and I've been intending to help you some evening."

I didn't tell him I tipped it over twice, had blisters the size of hickory nuts and took a nap in the hammock to recuperate for the next session. But there is no sign of unevenness and I am training those two rows to grow narrow and not to ramble all over creation. I figure it will take half the time and be twice as nice berries.

This may not be the year for my dream to come true but someday I want a perfect strawberry bed like we picked in one year over at Henry Alvarado's. I can see the rows stretching before me now. . . green and beautiful. I've dreamed of one like it ever since. Certain dreams are cheap and plentiful and available to those who have the gumption to pursue them. Hope I can lasso this one.

You've all heard about keeping up with the Joneses. Well, over here it's keeping up with the Summerses. First it was the pony and now they have a puppy. All week the girls have been teasing for a puppy because Karen and George have one. The next best thing to having one of their very own was to go over to see theirs. Now for Pete's sake, someone, please don't give the girls a puppy because we have a very good stock dog, a black shepherd, and one dog is enough. They can't have everything and they have pets by the bushful. It's just that age old thing that grips us all by the neck. . . trying to keep up with the Joneses. . . and a little roly-poly puppies are about the cutest things there are.

Yesterday afternoon the girls played over there and ate supper over there. How peaceful it is this morning not to hear. . . "Mama, I wish we could go over and see that puppy." Here is a S. O. S. from Susy and Sally. Anyone who likes to pick nasturtiums, please come and help us. We have picked by the hour and can't get done. It's fun but we have enough to share with anyone who likes them. The vines, and they aren't the climbing variety, are 5 feet across and still growing.

Elizabeth is better this week. She can lick her weight (90 lbs) in wildcats again. Well, almost!

Philadelphia Commends Wyeth

Philadelphia's Chamber of Commerce recently honored Wyeth Incorporated at a ceremony in Philadelphia. The Chamber cited Wyeth for "his vision, research and accomplishments, specifically for developing a longer lasting penicillin, which in antibiotic therapy will result in the broadening of health vistas for the people of our country."

Harry S. Howard, president of Wyeth Incorporated, accepted the plaque. Philadelphia newspapers carried pictures and stories of the award.

In the Philadelphia Bulletin Wyeth was described as a worldwide corporation that grew from a corner drugstore. Here's the story as it appeared in the Bulletin:

Started in 1860 The firm got its start in 1860, when John and Frank Wyeth, Philadelphia College of Pharmacy graduates, started a small retail drugstore at 1410 Walnut.

The brothers used a loft, over the store to experiment with the manufacture of drug specialties.

They decided in 1881 to concentrate on wholesaling and manufacturing drugs and sold out their retail business. The plant burned in 1889 with a loss of half a million dollars.

Built New Plant The Wyeths built another plant at 11th and Washington Ave. The business since has expanded to include laboratories at 1201 Washington Avenue, Westchester and Marietta, Pa., Chicago, Mason, Michigan, Ontario, London, Mexico, Brazil, Australia, New Zealand, India and South Africa, plus the Wyeth Institute of Applied Biochemistry at 900 N. Broad in Philadelphia.

It was one of the first pharmaceutical houses to receive the Navy "E" award for its work during World War II.

Wyeth Incorporated merged with 6 other organizations in 1943 to become a subsidiary of American Home Products corporation.

A pioneer in the mass production of penicillin, it delivered more penicillin to the armed forces during the last war than any other producer in the world.

Book Talk

Ingham County Library

Hours open to the public at the Hall Memorial Library: Daily 2-5; Mon. Wed. Sat. 7-9 p. m. Tues. and Fri. noons, Sat. 10-12 a. m.

One of the interesting new books in the Ingham county library this week is THE DIARY OF A YOUNG GIRL, by Anne Frank. Anne was a German-Jewish girl who lived for 2 years with her parents in a secret apartment in a warehouse in Holland during the Nazi regime. The diary, which was discovered and saved by friends, covers the years 1942 to 1944, 3 days before the family's discovery by the Nazis, and is not only a vivid record of life in Holland during the worst years of the war, but is a psychological study of a small group of people forced to live together, with very little privacy, for a considerable length of time.

JOURNEY TO THE FAR PACIFIC, by Thomas E. Dewey, is the report of his trip during the summer of 1951, through south-eastern Asia, giving his impressions of 17 republics, kingdoms, territories and colonies there and advocating a total Pacific treaty of mutual defense against Communist expansion.

THE MOUNTAINS REMAIN, by Hanama Tasaki, is a novel of post-war, occupied Japan, written by a native who exposes the inner feelings and thoughts of his people in those of his characters, and gives a good insight into the social and political forces operating there. It concerns a geisha and her brother, who were the children of simple country folks, and their relations with the son and daughter of County Inyama. Although the love stories are the most important part of the plot, the chief attraction of the novel for an American reader is the substantial picture which it gives of the breakdown of the old patterns and development of the new in the Japan of today.

COLONEL JACK HAYS, by James Kimmins Greer, is the biography of a prominent Texas frontier leader who was a soldier, surveyor, Ranger, officer in the Mexican War, and explorer. Later he went to California where he was a sheriff, town developer, and gentleman rancher. His colorful career makes a book which should be enjoyed by all who are fond of reading about the frontier heroes of the west.

FOR GOODNESS SAKE, by Carol Beattie, is another good story of a very human pastor and his family, written by the pastor's wife. It is gently humorous and altogether delightful reading, although not set so far back in the past as are most of such reminiscences.

Other new books which the Ingham county library has for adult readers include:

Give the Man Room, by Robert Casey and Mary Borglum

The Family, by Caroline Ivey

Lost Hill, by Dorothy E. Smith

East Side General, by Frank Slaughter

Dead Man's Plans, by Mignon Eberhart

The Man Who Looked Back, by Joan Fleming

The Case of the Moth-Eaten Mink, by Eric S. Gardner

Nats to Catch the Wind, by Dolores Hitchens

Man, Money and Goods, by John Gambs

Color in Home Decoration, by Effa Brown

A hunter named Philip Ginter accidentally discovered anthracite coal in Carbon county, Pa., in 1791. It was regarded as a specimen of black stone.

KIT CLARDY Speaks Out

My opponent, is a member of Americans for Democratic Action, ADA opposes outlawing the communist party—unless he's recently split with the group he once headed. I'd bar communists forever.

Stevenson is surrounded by ADA members. He picked them himself. Inform yourself on what that left-wing outfit plans for America if you want to know what kind of president he would make.

The federal payroll is still increasing. We Republicans will need a lot of axes next January.

Is your son in Korea? Or is he on the waiting list? How long will you let this go on? You can change it.

The foregoing are extracts from Mr. Clardy's regular radio broadcasts, heard each Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. on WJLS (Lansing) and WBBC (Flint).

Mr. Clardy is the Republican nominee for congress from this district.

New Sewers Are Being Constructed

The City of Williamston receives annually from the state some $8,000 or $9,000 in gas tax and automobile license money.

This money is specially earmarked for construction and maintenance of streets, which includes storm sewers.

For some time past, the city has been using not only all of this money but several thousand dollars from the general fund besides, for the designated purposes.

The Middle and Cedar streets sewer job, which is now under construction, will be financed from this money. Since it is too big a job to be financed with such payments in one year, the money is being borrowed, to be repaid out of future payments by the state from such funds.

The 42-inch sewer on Cedar from river to High street has been completed and 27-inch line are now being laid between Grand River and Middle street on South Cedar street.

In addition to the sewer job now underway, the city is planning to resurface South Putman street and several catch basins are to be constructed on South Putman street.

Kindergarten Is In Three Groups

The crowded condition of the kindergarten at the new elementary school has been relieved by another division, or by being divided into 3 parts. Miss Bush, the regular teacher, will handle a morning class of 36 and an afternoon class of 31. Mrs. Frances Sinclair, a former teacher, has been engaged to teach an afternoon class of 31, which will be in the Crossman building. The band is not practicing from July 3 in the band room of this building on the lower floor, so an upstairs room will be used for this section of the kindergarten which will be comprised of pupils living in the southeastern part of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Slocum visited their son and family in Owosso Sunday.

City Dump Location Moved

She then introduced Isabelle Gibbs, who in turn installed the following officers: Mona Cheney, president; Virginia Kitchen, secretary, and Nina Hull, treasurer.

The new president, Mrs. Cheney, then presided over the business meeting, at which time an invitation was read for the state convention October 16-17 at Penton. Hope Thompson then reviewed next year's program.

Following the show, children will be treated to free ice cream at May's Drug Store, Monroe's

Drug Store or Baldwin's Confectionery store.

Members of the Williamston Kiwanis club will conduct their annual rose sale during the day. Proceeds of this sale will go into the underprivileged childrens fund and be used for underprivileged children in this community.
