One day our descendants will think it incredible that we paid so much attention to things like the amount of melanin in our skin or the shape of our eyes or our gender instead of the unique identities of each of us
as complex human beings.

Unique But One

Not only is Sexton High School committed to equity and quality in education but it's also committed to individualism and overall success. Like others we have the chance to be active in the community through a vast number of clubs. We can also explore career interests in various programs like those of business and fine arts. But as a whole, we're set apart from the rest. We have the opportunity to take part of both the strong academic and athletic programs traditional of Sexton. We are also allowed to develop our own personalities. No one has to become a part of an exclusive group to feel inclusive at Sexton.

Our high school career teaches us to come together as one. Through hard work and dedication we become a unit: modeling self-discipline, displaying intellect and character, pursuing personal dreams and goals. Our experiences also allow us to broaden minds and further knowledge so that we may become viable resources in our community.

Most importantly, the diverse cultural backgrounds, personalities, and interests hold us in a distinctive light. Though we're all different a unifying factor keeps us together. As described by some we're Fresh!, Lively!, Diverse! - in short Unique But One!

"We become not a melting pot, but a beautiful mosaic. Different people, different beliefs, different yearnings, different hopes, different dreams." - Jimmy Carter

Athletes, Sara Ponist and Brad Przystas, continue the winning Big Red tradition.

Uncle Sam? No, just football player John Edmond all riled up for the game.

Holly Sharp displays her Sexton spirit.

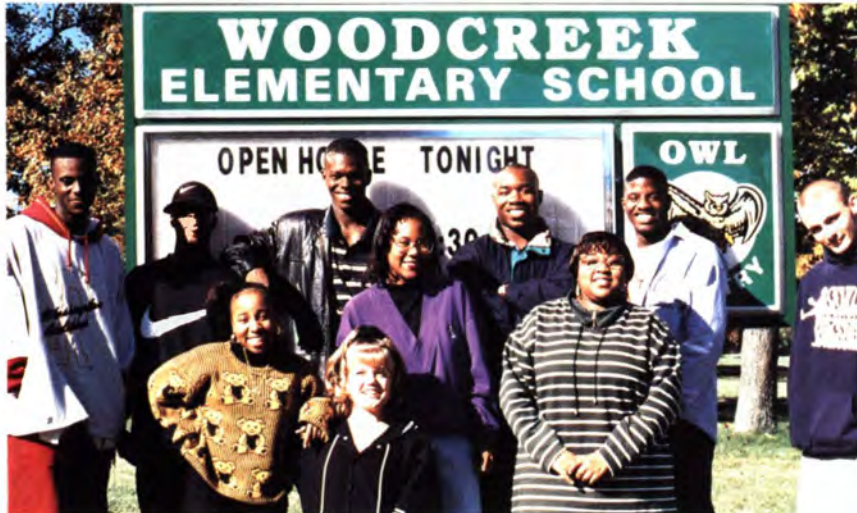

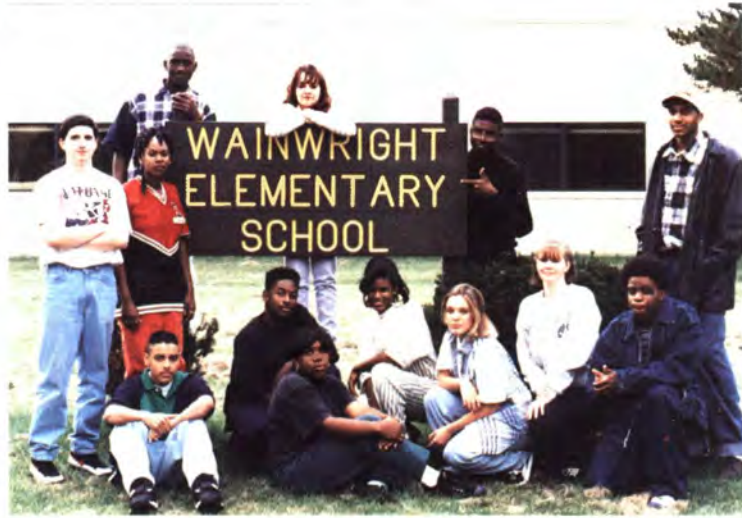

Club Hispano-Americana knows "There's more to diversity than just black and white."

The 1994 Fall Homecoming activities proved to be an eventful one for Student Government and advisor Mrs. Black to organize. Although the traditional pep rally and Wednesday activities went well, Friday's game was hit with a bit of nature. The rain stopped the game mid-way second quarter, causing the duration of the game to continue Saturday evening. Though things didn't go quite as planned, the court enjoyed the fall activities and made Fall Homecoming an event to remember.

Homecoming

The Winter Homecoming festivities proved to be an event to remember. With Student Government and Charlie Black working hard to organize the activities, the pep rally, dance, and the crowning of Khari Cain and Tonia Brown went off without a hitch. Adding to the spirit of the week, each class decorated the halls, and the seniors strung the foyer with snowflakes and a huge sign asking "Don't you know who we are?" Overall, the 1995 Winter Homecoming events allowed students to show off their unique talents by coming together as a student body.

Sexton's clubs and organizations give students another view of the world. From clubs organized to give students an opportunity to help out in the community to clubs that help promote self-awareness, the more than thirty extra-curricular programs help students meet people with similar interests, try new things, and even get into college. By making new friends and getting involved, unique students are able to come together as one.

Club: An assembly of good fellows, meeting under certain conditions.

Our student council, run by Ms. Black, had strong leadership from the executive board with Melissa Bowman as president, Khari Cain as vice-president, and Cara Armstrong as secretary/treasurer. After the Eastern football game this fall student government held a dance in the foyer. The dance was a success and the clean-up committee did such a wonderful job that the administration gave the go-ahead to hold more dances. Fundraisers that were held this year included guessing the amount of candy in a container and a Jump-A-Thon. Student council also talked about school-wide issues such as security and restructuring the ninth grade. Student government worked closely with the school improvement committee and the Junior Board of Education to assure the students' voices were heard by the staff. As sophomore Eric Sanders said, "Student government is an excellent opportunity to gain skills in leadership, organization, and communication. But most of all, it's fun."

Sarah Coulter, Agiola Miller, Coye Bouyer, and Clarence Walker represent Sexton on the Junior Board of Education. The board meets at a different Lansing high school each month. Junior board is like the student council of the school district. Their views are taken to the Board of Education. The board talks on things like racism and prejudice. They also set up the senior 3.5

honors banquet. These students insure that Sexton's views are heard by the district.

Principals Advisory Committee

Melissa Bowman, Khari Cain, Megan Connell, Kysha Crenshaw, Christopher Fitzpatrick, Reynaldo Flores, Nathan Mather, Patrick Moriaty, Cameron Ridley, Dr. Carnegie

The Principal's Advisory Committee is an organization of seniors that assist Dr. Carnegie with problems at Sexton. They give Dr. Carnegie a students view and input as to what and how we feel. This committee voices its concern on various situations hoping to make our school a better place for all. They are advised by Dr. Carnegie.

TOMORROW'S LEADERS

Sirena Rodgers and Kysha Crenshaw have students guess the amount of gumballs in a jar.

These students are preparing to be tomorrow's leaders.

The National Honor Society is an organization composed of seniors with a 3.5 grade point or higher. They are inducted at the end of their junior year and participate as seniors. Under advisor Dr. Radcliffe they discuss financial aid and prepare for college Board Exams. Along with planning for college they organize the Blood Drive, Bowl a Thon, and volunteer for community projects.

If you're one of those people who can't draw a straight line with a ruler, then the National Art Honor Society is really impressive. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors with a 3.0 average or above in art meet weekly to further their knowledge of art. Led by president Kiet Tran, the nationally recognized group works together to present exhibits of their artwork for others to enjoy. They also visit the elementary schools and work with younger students for the "Art for Elementary" program. "I think the National Art Honor society is a good opportunity for those who want to pursue art as a career," says junior Sebastian Phillips.

Need a hand? Don't fret, because the Helping Hands Club is here to help. Just like their name implies the club lends a hand to anyone in need. During the 1994-1995 school year the club did just that.

They held their annual fashion show (in which proceeds went to charity), they donated money to the United Negro College Fund, and they gave two senior recipients scholarships.

This year like many others the Helping Hands Club has truly lived up to its name.

Always There To Lend A Hand

President Caprie Robinson poses for the camera.

Mr. Harris is proud to be the advisor of the club.

ASIAN AWARENESS

Asian Awareness is a group that is trying to get people to understand what they are really all about. Many people tend to have false ideas about Asians but they are just like anybody else. Asians value their culture deeply. They do many of activities such as, celebrate the Chinese New Year (which varies from year to year). Asian Awareness also puts on a fashion show at the end of the year.

African American History Club

Sexton's African American History Club had many members this year, new and old. They organized and participated in various activities which included a penny drive, to raise money for the club. Members also set up an exhibit in the social room in honor of Kwanzaa (an African-American Holiday). The members of the 1994-95 edition of the African American History Club had a productive year.

If you're interested in becoming a member or you just want to check out the club, stop by the upper library Tuesdays at 7:30.

Bible Study: "All things are possible with God." Mark 10:27 NIV

As Christians we are living the great adventure that our Lord Jesus has called us to. In November we went to the City Rescue Mission to show our love by serving food to the homeless. Last summer Amy Kenney went on a mission trip to New York with N.Y.C. Gospel Outreach. "We went out on the streets of N.Y.C. telling people about Jesus' love. It was the most exciting experience of my life. It was scary and exciting to see God work in the hearts of the homeless and lonely."

Kevin Devenbaugh also went to the east coast last summer and served food through the Atlantic City Rescue Mission. "We went to the board walk and witnessed to people and just had fun serving Christ." Christine Bennett went up north to Camp Barakel where she worked with children in an AWANA program.

GOSPEL CHOIR

The Gospel Choir was new to Sexton this 94-95 school year. It was started by Jacquiees Perry who believed that Sexton needed something positive. You may be wondering what exactly the Gospel Choir does. Well right now they just do things as they come, but one example is singing for Dr. Carinege's birthday. The Gospel Choir meets Tuesdays and Thursdays in the choir room or in the social room.

With a varsity letter and a dollar you can join the varsity club. Led by Ms. Black, the club is involved in a variety of activities. They help organize the pep rallies and homecoming. Fundraisers done this year included the selling of key chains and a Jump-A-Thon. The varsity club also helps promote good sportsmanship during competition, by both the players and fans, making athletic events more fun for everyone. Varsity club is led by president Chris Fitzpatrick, vice-president Caroline Siwek, secretary Nate Mather, treasurer Erin LeBlanc, and announcement boy Eric Boles.

SESAW

SESAW, or Students for Environmental and Social Awareness, is a group focused on helping the environment. This year, after a huge flower sale, they adopted a whale, bought an acre of land in the rain forest, and an acre of land in Lake Superior. Buying the land in Lake Superior prevented it from being developed on. SESAW also sorted Toys-for-Tots, and adopted a family for Christmas with French Club. Under the supervision of Mrs. St. George and President Renee Czape, this group has really grown and done a lot to help the environment.

With the help of new advisor Mr. Langdon, and club President Kysha Crenshaw the members of the 1995 edition of the Pep Club participated in various activities. Some of these activities included organizing lunch time pep rallies, supporting our cheerleaders, and helping the Forensics Team prepare for school wide pep rallies.

The Pep Club has proved to be an asset to Sexton and it's sure to be around for years to come.

The ancient game of chess is enjoyed by several of our classmates every Tuesday and Thursday at lunch. You don't have to be a brain to play chess, you just have to enjoy strategy. Anyone can join, you don't even have to know how to play. So bring your lunch and enjoy this game with kings, queens and bishops.

The Forensics and Debate team gives students the chance to go in front of a crowd of people and talk or argue about a certain subject. On Dec. 3rd, five students on the Forensics team went to the Pentathalon which is a statewide tournament that was held at UofM. In the Pentathalon each person prepared five different pieces of stories five to eight minutes long. The pieces include: poetry, prose, drama, fable and humor. All of the students did exceptionally well and placed in the 90% range.

For Kris Frese, Tasha Guild, Nate Mather, Allison Toby, and captain Amanda Izzo, it's a reality. They compete with other schools in tournaments every two weeks. The team has an alternate in every match but with three matches per tournament, everyone gets to compete. These teams get no preparation or study time, just whatever knowledge they have. Using this knowledge, they finished second in the CAC.

When most people think of Big Red life. P.A.L.'S, they just think of good listeners. But that's not all the Peer Assistance Leaders do. With Mrs. Morigan and Mrs. Hensch as advisors, the club helps with the DARE program, gives school updates to freshmen homeroom, and does conflict mediation. S.A.D.D.

This club has a mission... to keep teens' awareness up and the death rate down. This club which is headed by Kathy Roeloffs has been very active this year. In November a group of active members went to a state wide conference at Shanty Creek. At this conference the teens discussed alternatives to drinking and driving and ways to make this an organization that more teens will want to join. President Tasha Guld, Vice President Andrea Grover, and Secretary Lesley Ferris have kept this ever growing group on its toes. Drinking and driving has been a dilemma for a long time but with all of the active teens, there is a hope for the future.

THE ZODIAC

The Zodiac is more than just a school paper — it's a voice for the entire student body. By allowing students to write about topics that affect them, the paper covers the opinions of everyone — not just a selected few. Advised by Dr. Diana Mitchell, the staff covers topics ranging from abusive relationships to movie reviews. Whatever the issue, the Zodiac understands that the students at Sexton are "unique but one."

ORACLE

Everybody thinks of yearbook as a blow-off class, but the 11 students on staff can tell you differently. There are many ups and downs to being one of the "selected few". The ups include going everywhere without passes, taking tons of pictures, and trips to Meijer. The downs are scrambling around to make deadlines, STRESS, pictures not coming back on time, losing body copies, pictures disappearing, yelling at each other and fighting over the couch. Through it all this crew has developed long lasting friendships and a great yearbook. Everyone on staff strives to represent the school as best as they can. Yearbook staff is about dedication, commitment, hard work, and creativity. The 1995 Oracle staff has worked to make this year a year to remember.

Unique Designers

UNIQUELY

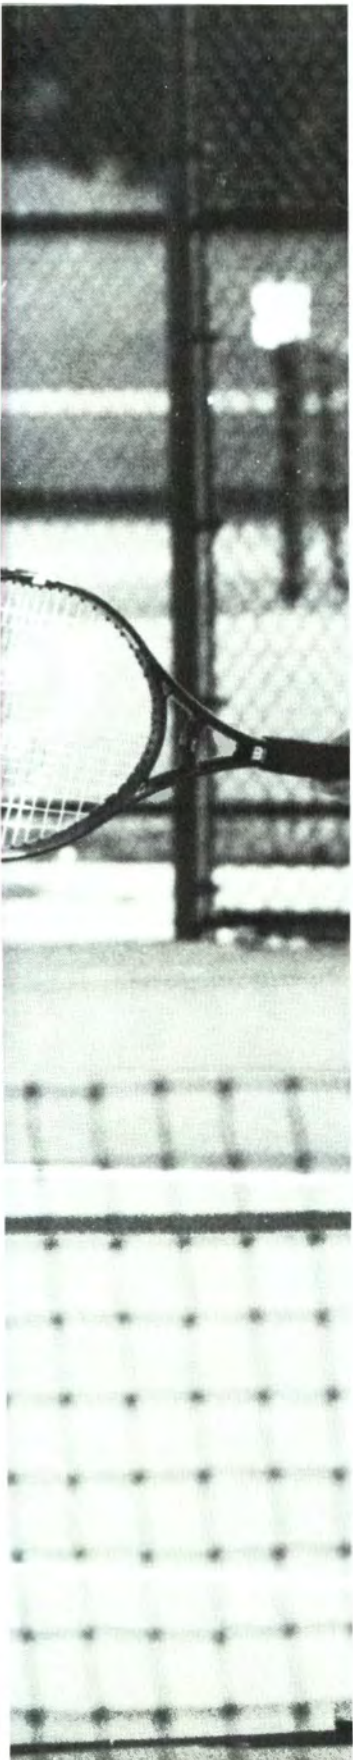

For most Big Red athletes, sports aren't just games. For some, they are a ticket to the future. For some, they are a reason for staying in school. And for a lot of Sexton students, sports mean being a part of a team; having someone to share your triumphs and defeats, and to cheer you on when you feel like you can't go any further. Although every sport is unique in its expectations and structure, they all have three things in common: dedication, unity, and spirit.

"Champions aren't made in gyms. Champions are made from something they have deep inside them—a desire, a dream, a vision. They have to have last-minute stamina, they have to be a little faster, they have to have the skill and the will. But the will must be stronger than the skill."

—Muhammed Ali

TALENTED

"The team is stronger this year because of all the juniors we have coming up." - Eric Graves

TOGETHER

The football team was busy keeping the Sexton tradition alive this fall. Although the team had a slow start with two tough losses to Detroit area teams, they really came together for CAC play. One reason could be, in the opinion of some players, practices intensified after the non-conference games.

All fifteen seniors shared the duties of captain. This really helped the team unity and overall spirit. And those two things are what make it all happen. As Coach Meyers says, "[Unity] can make an average team good and a good team great." Overall, the season was a memorable one. Good job Big Reds!

We Won't Be Beat

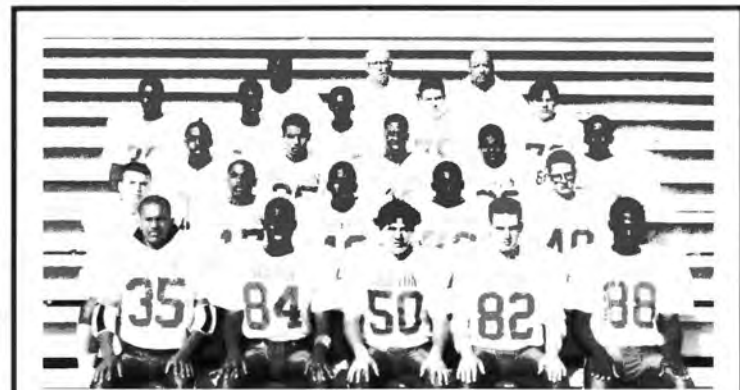

Sexton's 1994 J.V. Football Team had an impressive year. Starting the season with a 5-1 record. Their first loss was to the Holt Rams with a score of 18-12. Fortunately the Big Reds didn't let this loss bring them down. Through practice and lots of teamwork they got off to a new start. With everyone giving 100% they were able to beat the odds. With such an outstanding J.V. Football Team next year's Varsity Team should be undefeatable.

Boys cross country started the season with a tough loss to Lansing Catholic Central. Captains Ray Flores and Josh Hall kept the team's spirits high throughout the high and low parts of the season. Girls cross country, with captains Barb Moans and Audra Siebert, were off to a well paced start. The team is young with the majority being Freshmen. Sometimes young teams suffer but not this one. The Freshmen this year were experienced and well benefited the team. The girls ran hard to beat their previous record of winning two meets. Coach Brian Murley says, "We're a young team with only two Seniors. They are steadily improving with one Senior and four Freshmen in the top seven. They'll be a good team in the future if they continue training in the summer. For CACs they should finish in the middle, fourth, or fifth." Way to go Big Reds!

The Girls' Tennis Team suffered a tough year with #1 Singles player Khadija Walker out with a sprained ankle for the first two games and senior Jennifer Freds out with the same after the second. However, the team had two new coaches, Julie Slosar and John Mannors, who had some new ideas and brought in several "guest coaches." Team captains Shannon Urbon and Khadija Walker really pulled the team together and juniors Joye Jay and Katie Rieder added lots of spirit. All in all, even with a no-win season, the girls had lots of fun and are ready to try again next year.

After a shaky start, everyone was healthy and the girls swim team got back on track and had a great season. With all swimmers but one returning from last year, the girls were stronger, faster and maintained their outstanding dual meet record. Captains Jamie Bennett and Caroline Siwek, seniors Tara Green, Kelby Kalis and Jill Williams, and the experience of juniors Sara Ponist, Mindy Seyka and Shannyn Turner, and sophomores Erin Crowe, Alison Ponist and Laura Walker, helped the girls come together as a team. Divers Elisha Hudson, Kelly Isham and Lindsey Odle also got a little more experience under their belts and scored higher at CACs. With practice at 6:00 in the morning, even second year coach Dave Byars could get a little groggy. But the hard work and dedication of the girls made them a tough team to beat in the CAC.

The Varsity soccer team was off to a rough start this 1994 season, losing their first few games. Led by seniors Mark Nelson and Mark Johnston, the team kept their hopes and spirits high. Losing the majority of their team last year, this season proved to be a learning and rebuilding one.

Although there were many returning players, there were also many new players including Tim Reum and John Pehlivanoglu. Next year with many returning players the soccer team hopes to improve their C.A.C. record.

SHOOTING

Sexton's basketball program has a tradition, and this year's team never had an intention of ending it. After a slow start the Big Reds were ready to take back the respect they deserved. All the hard work the team put in at every practice finally paid off with their record. The players were always pumped for their games with tremendous amounts of team unity. The coaches were always there, during the bad times as well as the good, something the players appreciated.

CHARMING CROWDS

The Junior Varsity Cheerleaders are a hard working group. Sore feet, hoarse voices and tired muscles accompany the hard work of keeping the crowd alive. The J.V. Cheerleaders are definitely trying to get the often small and sometimes spiritless J.V. crowds into their cheers. The J.V. squad has several new members including four freshmen. The team has learned how to get along and come out on the floor with some great voices and cheers. Their new talent is very promising and they are turning out to be one great team, combining athletics with spirit and lots of motion. The crowds at the J.V. games are often small but make sure to catch this group of talented sophomores and freshmen that always shine with a smile!

The Varsity Cheerleaders strut their stuff.

The Varsity Cheerleaders have a big responsibility. They have to hold up the title of last years 1994 CAC Championship. They're doing a great job though with several returning members and two new sophomores. Their new coach, Lisa Anderson, gives them lots to cheer about as does the Basketball season with several wins over important opponents like Eastern. The cheerleaders have shone their spirit with some great cheers and perfect formation. They're doing a great job of getting the crowd into the cheers, too. So give our Basketball Cheerleaders lots of respect, they've earned it.

FALSE

While the girls' team strove for unity this year, the boys' team fell apart. Part way through the season, due to accidents, injuries, and conflicts, the number of team members was reduced. The team, which finished third in CAC's the year before, wasn't as optimistic for the 1995 season. Coach Dave Byars described his team as hopeful, adding, "Going into the season, they looked like they had a chance to win CAC's, but with a disappointing loss, we've had to reevaluate our goals." Although the season was full of problems, the team wasn't short on talent. Nick LaChance, Chris LaChance, Eric Boles, Tyler Kitchel, and Delano McAllister returned after an impressive 1994 season and led the team throughout the season. Throughout the many problems of the year, both Coach Byars and the rest of the team remained hopeful for a great season.

This year marks one of the most important in a high school career. Classes are tougher than ever and to make matters even worse, this year's grades are judged the hardest by colleges. Juniors get the joy of taking the PSAT's and preparing for college entrance exams. However, this long third year isn't all bad. These official upperclassmen are enjoying leadership positions in clubs and organizations, memberships in varsity sports, and vehicles at lunch time. The end of this year brings much excitement for the long awaited moment will finally be near ... Senior Year.

Seniors in High School to Freshmen in College

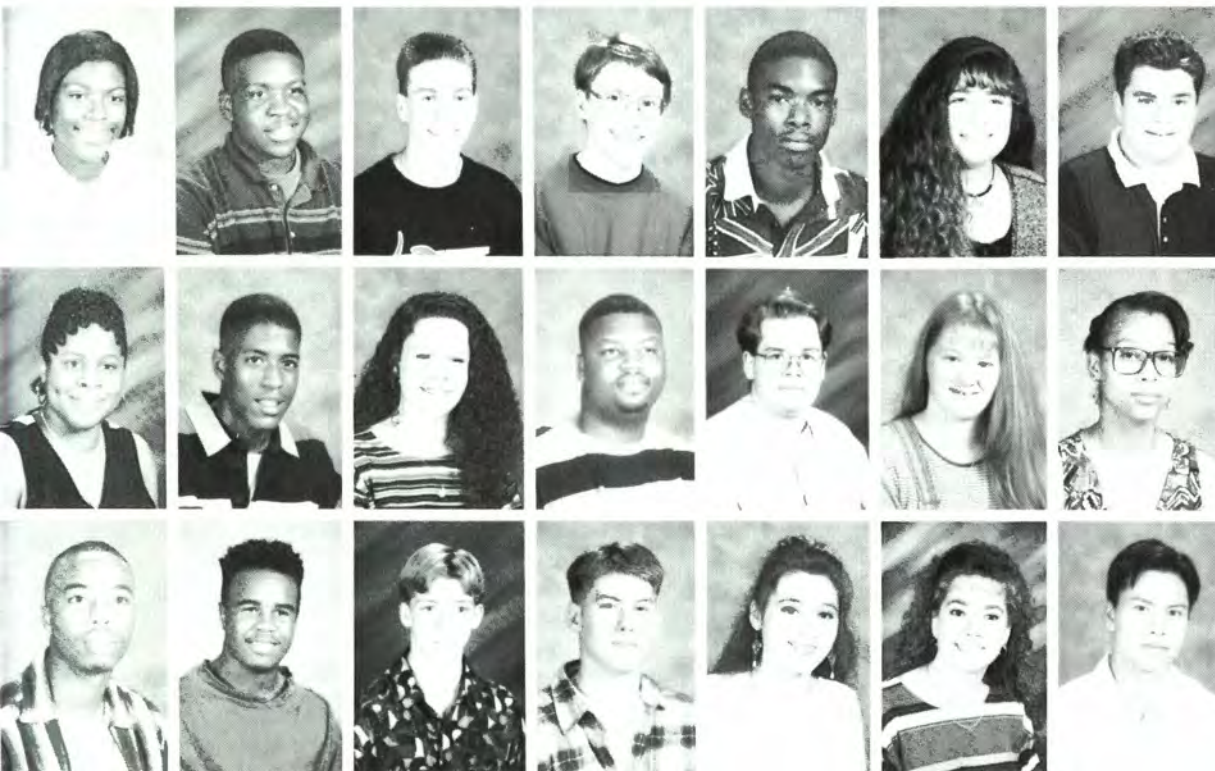

Tara Green studies diligently in Mrs. DeMotts class

Most people think Seniors face their last year in high school as "yah we're almost outta here!" While that holds true for many Seniors, Senior year isn't all fun and games. There are a lot of adjustments and decisions to be made before they pack up and head off to college. Some primary concerns that this year's Seniors have about adjusting to college are learning how to study, living without their parents, getting good grades and money. The adjustment that many Seniors will find easy to adapt to next Fall include: Sleeping in, picking when and what classes to take and campus life. And the biggest choices Seniors will make during their last year of range from what college to go to to what color to wear to prom. Even with all of the adjustments, concerns and waiting to be made, Big Red Seniors are revved up and ready for college next Fall.

LEFTIES

Karen Howard struggles to write in her physics desk.

How to pick out a left hander. The people who have to turn sideways in the physics room to write in the desks. Well all left handers better watch out because they are twice as likely as a right hander to have an injury requiring medical attention. The main reason is because the world is just not made for southpaws. These people are forced to learn to throw, catch, cut, write in three ring binders, and even eat in a funny position or with their opposite hand. Why aren't more things made for the left hander? Mostly because only 5% to 10% of the adult population is left handed. So all the left handers of the world will just have to learn to be ambidextrous and be careful.

Expenses for Seniors their Senior Year

Jill Burke feeds her Mustang $17.00 worth of gas per week!

Being a Senior in high school has always been said to be "one of the best years of your life." Well for some it is, for others the best is yet to come, but whatever your outlook is, the facts show that Senior year is EXPENSIVE!! And is it ever Some of the expenses are

- Class Ring: $150.00 to 300.00
- Senior Pictures: $250.00 to 400.00
- Gas: $10.00 (per week)
- Car Insurance: $300.00 to 500.00 (every 6 months)
- Test Fees: ACT, $16.00 SAT, $21.00
- Application Fees: $20.00 to 35.00 (per application)
- Yearbook: $30.00
- Prom: $300. to 500.00 (for girls)
- $150.00 to 250.00 (for guys)
- Senior Trip: $500.00 to ? (depending on location)
- Graduation Announcements: $50.00 to ? (depending on # ect.)
- Open house: $200.00 to $500.00

And these are just AVERAGES! This doesn't include lunch money, school clothes, school supplies or any cash for out of school fun. It all adds up to ALOT of money but also ALOT of fun!

This group knows that prom can be pricey.

SOAP OPERAS

Two words: Soap Operas. Call anyone over the summer and you can bet one of the topics of conversation will be the soaps. What's the addiction? Almost everyone—even the most addicted—find the soaps to be predictable and unrealistic. So what is it? Is it that the soaps are more exciting than normal people's boring lives? According to some, the only reason they watch is because soaps are the only shows on during the day. Others say they watch because soaps leave you hanging and make you want to find out what happened. What's the real reason? I don't think we'll ever know.

The Purpose of Homeroom

Mr. Carpenter is busy preparing his lesson plan during homeroom.

What is the purpose of homeroom? Some students wonder if it has a purpose at all. Some students use homeroom to finish homework. Others use the time to catch up with their friends. Most students feel that homeroom is time for teachers to walk around and drink coffee, or just that extra 15 minutes that they could have stayed in bed. Teachers use this time to socialize with each other, hold club meetings, or organize their lessons for the day. Homeroom is only a waste of time if students and teachers don't use it productively.

Sean Caswell and Aaron Fuller, use their homeroom time to goof around.

SOPHOMORES

The second year of high school comes with much expectation. The first days are better because the building is familiar and you know more people. The year also brings drivers' ed and perhaps later curfews. However, this year requires more academic effort as subjects are harder and teachers tougher. But the best thing a sophomore could tell you about their second year of high school is that they get more respect because they're no longer freshmen.

"The best thing about being a sophomore is you're not a little freshman anymore." — Becky Plavnick

FAMILY TIES

Almost everyone has to deal with a younger or older sibling every day at home, but imagine having to deal with them every day at school as well. For many students at Sexton this is a reality, and most don't find it that bad. Since Sexton is so big, many said they never see their older or younger sibling. The biggest problem cited was being confused with your brother or sister. For the younger siblings it was "Are you so-and-so's brother/sister?" Another problem is competitiveness. For siblings in the same class or on the same team this is especially a problem. But on the upside, you can always get a ride from an older sibling, and you'll always have someone to defend your feelings.

Part Time Jobs

Katie Rieder spent much of her summer vacation working two jobs. She went back and forth from Hallmark to Dairy Queen.

Many student's main concern is money. Some earn an allowance at home, but for those of us who don't, there are part time jobs. Most students work in food service, clothing stores, or other retail businesses. Unfortunately, no matter where we work, we usually must settle for $4.25 an hour. Whether we are saving for college, a car, or just need spending money, a part time job is usually the only option.

FIRST DRIVING EXPERIENCES

The Driver Ed. car waiting for another victim

Learning how to drive can be both frightening and embarrassing. Senior Myra Baldwin talks about her frightening experience of being stuck on 127 with a broken down car and having to walk five miles in the rain. But what's even more frightening is that first time in the drivers ed. car, when all eyes are on you and their arms are clinged to the doors. There are also embarrassing moments in driving. Junior Chris Tyler failed to check his blind spots and ran a truck off the road. Allison Argo who is also a Junior had turned around to get a piece of gum from her friend who was sitting in the back seat and rearended the lady in front of her.

Life is filled with crazy driving experiences but you gotta look at them as just the building blocks of becoming a good driver.

One way streets sometimes make driving difficult.

HAIRSTYLES

Sam Risbridger goes for the punk look

There seems to be a difference among hairstyles this year. Instead of the girls crying over their hair every morning it's more or less the guys. Females this year are going for the natural look and just wearing their hair plain but on the other hand, the males are doing just about anything from braids to dying it purple. I even saw a couple of guys with pigtails! For instance, Junior Sam Risbridger wears his hair in dread locks and says he can't get them out unless he cuts them out. Quite a sacrifice I'd say!

So whether your hair is plain or purple, just don't forget to wash it!!

Alison Ponlat says it only takes a blowdryer and a brush to do her hair.

MONEY

Junior Matthew Pfaff said he likes spending his money "Anywhere and any how as long as it's legal."

Everyone wants it. But not everyone has it. And when we have it, we spend it as fast as it comes. So the question is how and where do we spend it when we have it?

Freshman Elisha Hudson said she likes spending her money at "Stores, school games and on movies."

Summer Sports

For many students summer is a time to sleep in and hang out with friends. For others it's a time to improve athletic skills. Many of our students traveled to various places and others stayed in Lansing to participate in athletic events Freshmen Lacresha Roberts participated in the Gus Macker Tournaments held in Downtown Lansing. Junior Chris Tyler traveled to France where he took part in a Freestyle Wrestling Tournament, (placing 3rd). When it comes to sports Sexton students are very gifted.

Junior Chris Tyler participated in a Freestyle Wrestling Tournament in France, over the summer.

When freshmen walk into the building for the first time they face a whole new set of rules and expectations. Freshmen have upper classmen looking down on them and they have to learn to deal with high school level classes and teachers that refuse to baby them. Freshmen do however find some advantages for being in high school. They like the idea of having an hour for lunch and being able to leave campus. Even though they are the youngest in the school and the topic of many jokes, freshmen like being able to make friends with upper classmen. Overall, freshmen are excited to be in a new school with more responsibility and more opportunities to have fun.

"I like being a freshman because I'm finally out of middle school but I still have three more years to have fun in high school."
Danielle Sanchez

Foreign Exchange Students

Think about how lost you feel when your German teacher starts talking to you in German. Then imagine thousands of people, teachers, students, friends speaking in German all around you. This is what it feels like to be a foreign exchange student.

Besides language there are many other adjustments to be made such as moving around. In many countries the teachers move to the classes, the students don't move. In Brazil, after ninth grade students are allowed to smoke. "I hate the weather. It is too cold!" - Renata Bosquetti, Brazil.

Being a foreign exchange student has many challenges but offers many rewards.

FAVORITE FOODS

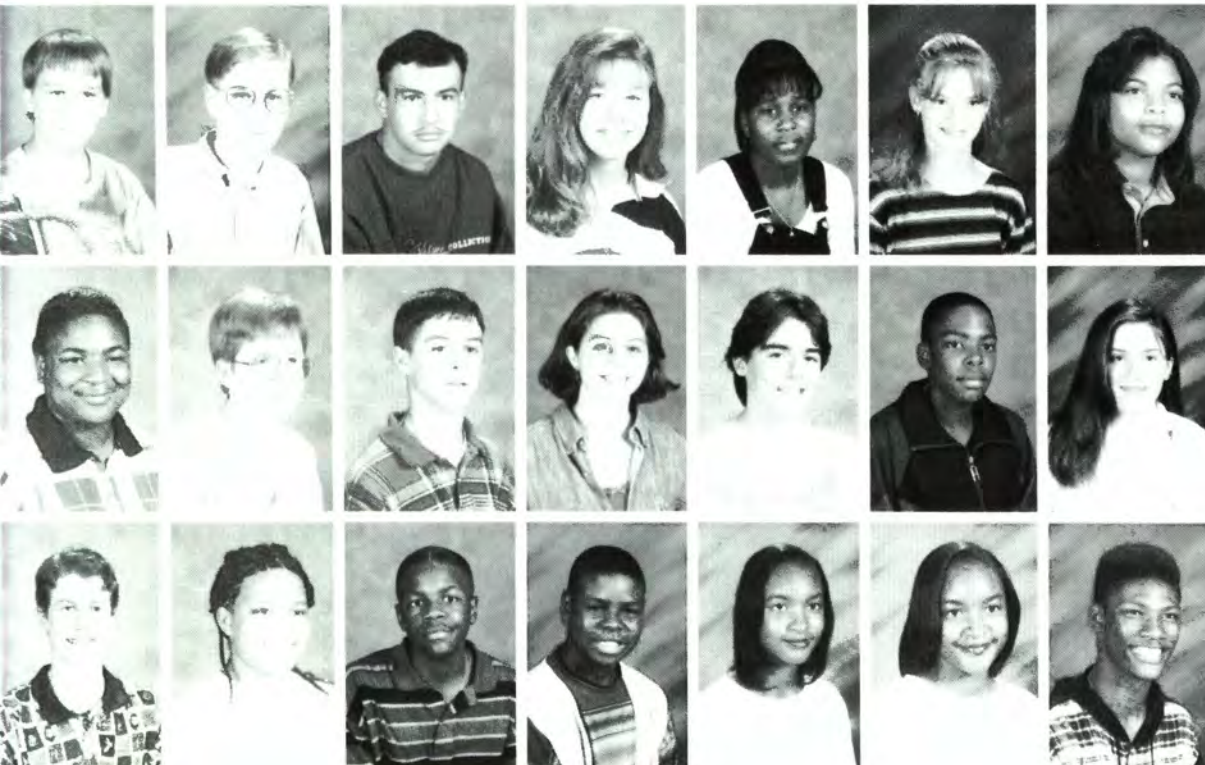

Amanda Adkins, Lilia Briones, and Faith Farhat dish up some authentic food at the Hispanic festival.

You know you have one, something that you eat every time you get a chance. Maybe, like Mike Beckworth, it's your dad's BBQ ribs. Or maybe you go for the instant mashed potatoes and Stove-Top. Some people like expensive foods like filet mignon and prime rib. Others just like pizza and tacos. Candy, of course, is the overall favorite. So enjoy those favorite foods.

Some of the most popular candy bars are Twix, Snickers, Kit-Kat, Butterfinger, and Reese's.

A Change In Height

Seniors Tom Carr and Cindi Fohey are proud of their height.

Everyone is different. No two people are exactly alike. It's our differences that make us unique. Height is a difference that sets us apart from everyone else. In some cases it's who we are.

Friends Chad Stevens, Craig Wasnich, and Jonathan Muzzall share the same height.

Summer Vacation

Amanda Richards and Shanna Simon both went on vacation this summer.

For most of us, summer vacation means sleeping in, lying around, and just doing nothing. But for a few Sexton students, it can be a little different. Some people, like junior Adrienne Pontz, worked all summer. Others went to sports camps, or on vacation. Chris Tyler did a little of both, wrestling all over the world. But whether you stayed in Lansing or traveled across the country, summer vacation makes us "unique but one."

Heather Bliese, Tom Carr, Amada Reyes, Amada Fuentes, and Katie McKane spent the summer together at band camp.

Friends

Seniors Mark Johnston and Katie Rahl have been friends for years.

Even though Webster's Dictionary defines school as "a place where instruction is given" for most of us school means friends. And whether you're talking, hanging out, or even fighting, school wouldn't be the same without them. "Friends make you look forward to your classes," says freshman Josh Beutler. It doesn't matter if you've had the same friends since kindergarten, or if you've just made some new ones. Friends help make up who you are.

Balancing Work and Studies

Shawli catches up on her z's

Balancing your part time job and your studies may be hard but most working students manage. If it means staying up all night and sacrificing your social life people do it. Whether they sleep at school or don't sleep at all. Some people do their homework at school during lunch or during other classes and some go straight home after school and start studying.

Although the work world and school world are uncompromising, students have found many creative ways of coping.

Lindsey works on her homework.

HOW EMBARRASSING!

Do you remember your most embarrassing moment? Did you say something stupid, or walk into a pole? Did your shirt fly up, or did you get stuck somewhere? Whatever the incident, chances are you wished you could drop through the floor. A few Sexton students were brave enough to share their experiences. So try not to laugh ... too much.

"I was waiting for my dad to pick me up last year, and a car pulled up. It looked just like my dad's, so I got in and shut the door. The only problem was, it wasn't really my dad's car."

— Kristen Dama

"I was at Meijer's and I got my pants pulled down."

— Kevi VanStratten

"In Florida last year my mom smacked our cute waiter's hand when he tried to clear my plate because I didn't eat my vegetables. She told the waiter, 'Don't come back until she's done.'"

— Adrienne Pontz

"Some seniors put my underwear up on the flagpole at camp."

— Matt Turner

"At Pleasure Island my underwear fell out of my bag and my male teacher picked them up and asked me, 'Are these yours?'"

— Shimica Gauldin

Uniquely Sharpening

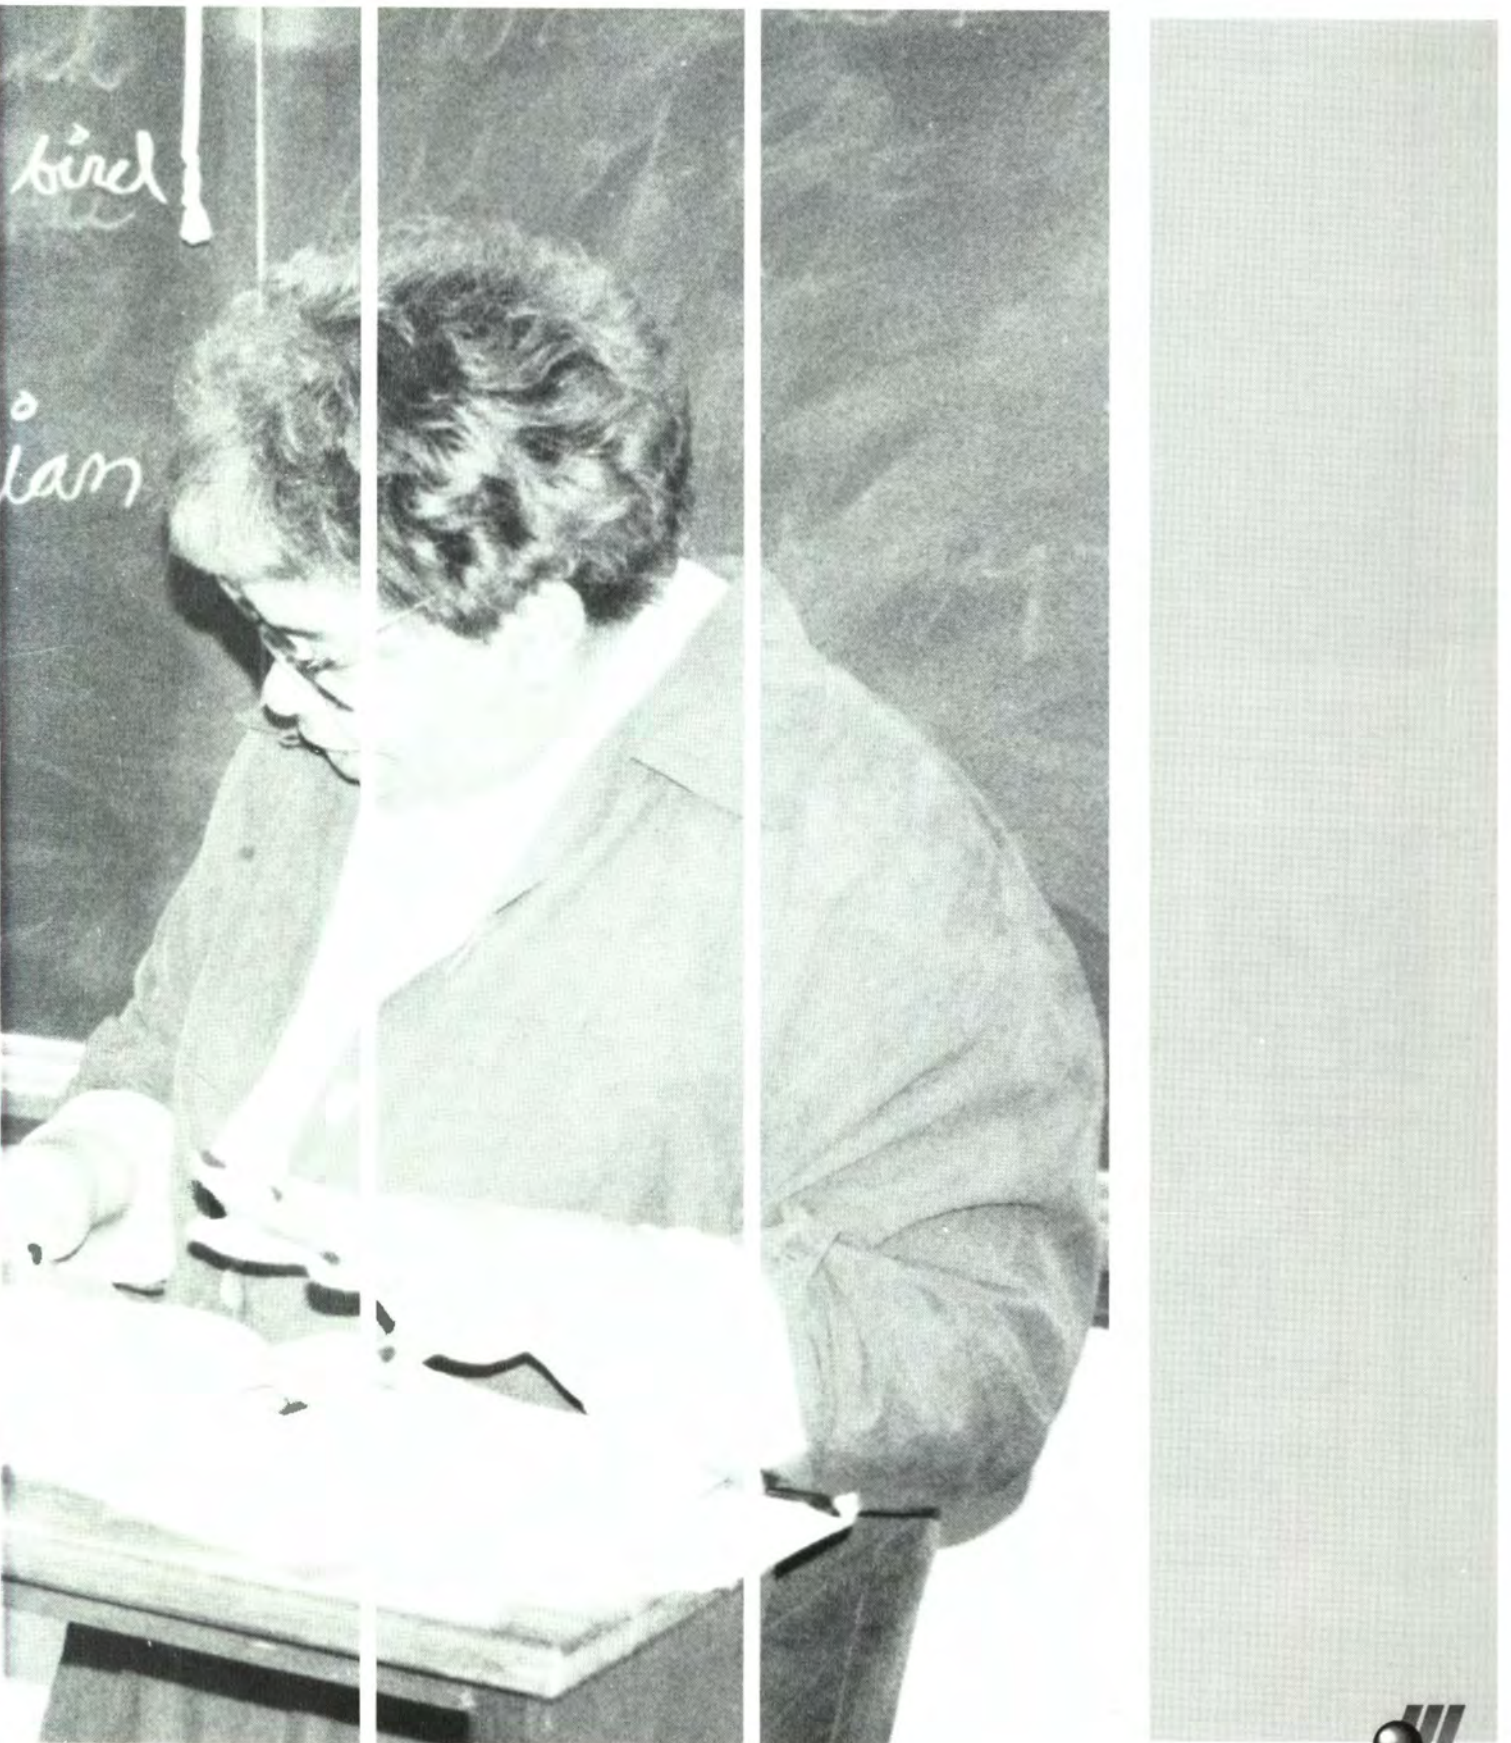

Whenever we think about Sexton, certain things come to mind. Friends, football games, and clubs just make up a few. Sometimes, though, one of the most important parts of Sexton is overlooked — the faculty. The Sexton Staff are what make our school stand out from all the rest. Whether they are giving up their lunch hour to help us with those few math problems that just won't work, cheering us on at sporting events, or taking an interest in our day-to-day problems, the Big Red faculty goes above and beyond what's expected of them. As we head toward graduation, college, and beyond, the Sexton teachers, counselors, secretaries, and administrators deserve credit for the individuals we have become.

"Teaching is a joy because I'm aware that the most important people here are the students. Without students, school would have no purpose."

I REMEMBER ...

Every teacher has a story to tell about an awful teaching experience. No matter how good the classes or the school, something always goes wrong. A few teachers had some particularly bad stories to tell.

GUESS WHO TURNED 50!

You might have seen the black crepe paper strung throughout Room 203. Or maybe you saw the pile of gag gifts and cards in the office. If so, you caught a glimpse of the celebrations for Ms. Black and Mr. Glynn's 50th birthdays. After teaching for a combined total of 57 years, the Sexton staff decided to show their "appreciation" by helping to celebrate the birthdays. Happy Birthday to Dale Glynn and Charlie Black.

Ms. Black survived the "Over the Hill" poster taped to her wall.

Mr. Glynn tried to hide his birthday.

SAD TO SEE YOU GO

Sexton will not only be saying goodbye to the class of '95 but to a great teacher as well. Dr. Diana Dawson Mitchell, of 24 year Lansing School District tenure, will be retiring in June. Although Mrs. Mitchell loves teaching her schedule needs a breather. She's an English professor at MSU, president of the Assembly for Literature of the Adolescent of the National Council of Teachers of English, advisor of the Scope magazine, and the list goes on. Mrs. Mitchell has numerous article, chapters in books, co-authored a test book and currently is the editor and regular writer of a column in the English journal. Besides sleeping in, Mrs. Mitchell plans to put much of her energy into the Michigan Council of Teachers of English executive board and journal. Best wishes for a great retirement!

JUNE, JULY, AND AUGUST

When the bell rings at the end of the school year, some Sexton teachers go on to more interesting pastimes. Mr. Winchell spends time at Maranatha Bible Missionary Conference on Lake Michigan. Mr. Hershey studies and travels in Europe. Although the staff is glad to have a chance to pursue their hobbies, most teachers agree that it's good to be back when school starts in the fall.

LEARNING THE ROPES

When school started this fall, not only the freshmen were new. Several teachers also had to learn the ropes. Leonard Baldori, Randy Heck, John MacMullen, and Jennifer Ochoa were new faces on the Big Red staff. Although adjusting is difficult, soon Sexton starts to feel like home.

AN OLD-FASHIONED HOBBY

Ms. Chapman, the Lansing School District social worker, has what you might consider an unusual pastime. She is the proud owner of an antique car, and spends the summer taking her friends for rides in it. The car with its authentic rumble seat, is truly an original.

High school is a time of sports, clubs, and academics, but it's also a time to let loose and have fun. These are the best years of our lives, and we are definitely taking advantage of them. Our spirit shows in the way we dress, act and cheer. The Student Life pages show that while we are all unique, we're one in Sexton spirit.

MARCHING BAND

Sexton's Marching Band, under the direction of Tom Jones, received lots of cheers at football games this fall for their "Band Dance" which included the "butterfly" and the "tootsie roll." They performed really well and brought out lots of school spirit, even impressing the visiting teams fans. The field commanders, Melissa Bowman and Robert McConnell, helped direct the band along with Kin Hoye and Darren LaPrise, the student teachers. All in all, this band had a great year.

Pom-pons sparkle during halftime at the Everett game.

Although you may have seen them performing with the band during football season, they are the latest addition to the basketball scene. They are the pom-pons! Despite the fact that the pom-pon squad is made up of mainly underclassmen, the squad has added life and spirit to the football and now basketball halftimes. Coach Molly Nois encouraged the team to be lively and peppy. So if you are one of those people who make refreshment runs during halftime, next season take the time to watch this tremendous group of performers strut their stuff!

Pom-pons worked hard to bring their dance together by show time.

The Self-Contained Block is an unique classroom experience. Students enrolled have some difficulty coping with the demands of a regular school day. The small class group meets for only four class periods a day, and does not change rooms. Some goals of the class are to improve attendance, develop better social and study skills, and improve overall attitudes toward school and life. Students learn to identify their strengths and weaknesses, and to better use and improve these qualities.

Besides these special goals students also work toward completing regular academic curriculum. First semester highlights include: planning and implementing holiday parties, cooking, baking, and a trip to Camp Highfield. where students were challenged by physical tasks requiring cooperation, responsibility, and risk taking.

Instillers of School Spirit

Have you ever wondered what such things as the Basketball free throw (from half court), classes singing the fight song, guy cheerleaders, pie in the face, and our favorite the dance contest have in common? They were all organized and run by the Pep Rally Committee. The Pep Rally Committee is a group of students from clubs such as the Varsity Club, Student Government and the Forensics team that come together to organize the pep rallies for the student body. By having the pep rallies they try to support and recognize sports, encourage attendance at our athletic events, and let us know school isn't always as boring as it seems. At each pep rally the Pep Rally Committee works hard to make it look easy. But it takes hard work and dedication to pull it all off. The Pep Rally Committee has tried to bring variety to the rallies by allowing various students to announce and run events. These include Matthew Branson, Omari Boone, Eric Grave, Andrew Valez, Agiola Miller, and Eric Sanders. Katherine Rieder and Audra Siebert have been in charge of one full assembly instead of the primary announcers Rosene Cobbs and Shannon Urbon. But just because they're not up front doesn't mean they're not important. Renee Czape has worked diligently behind the scenes to keep things organized and running smoothly. also with the help from the Cheerleaders, Pep Club, Poms, and the Band the Pep Rally Committee has brought Sexton a variety of activities at each and every pep rally. And it doesn't stop with the clubs named, the Pep Rally Committee is willing to work with anyone and any club that would like to be a part of the pep rallies. So the next time you attend a pep rally remember to have fun and relax because the Pep Rally Committee has everything under control.

WHAT A BLESSING!

I consider it a real privilege to teach at J.W. Sexton High School.

I have been blessed with a great yearbook staff headed by Cindi Fohey and Melissa Bowman. We get great support from our principals, secretaries, custodians, and teachers.

This year our Bible Study Club went to the City Rescue Mission and served the evening meal to the homeless. My Global Studies classes sent food and toys to needy families.

Often times when we watch the news on television or read the newspapers, we get a bad impression of the youth today. But, being around them daily, I can assure you that there are some great and caring people in Lansing, Michigan.

The following pages will give you an idea of what good sports and good people they are.

D.E. Winchell

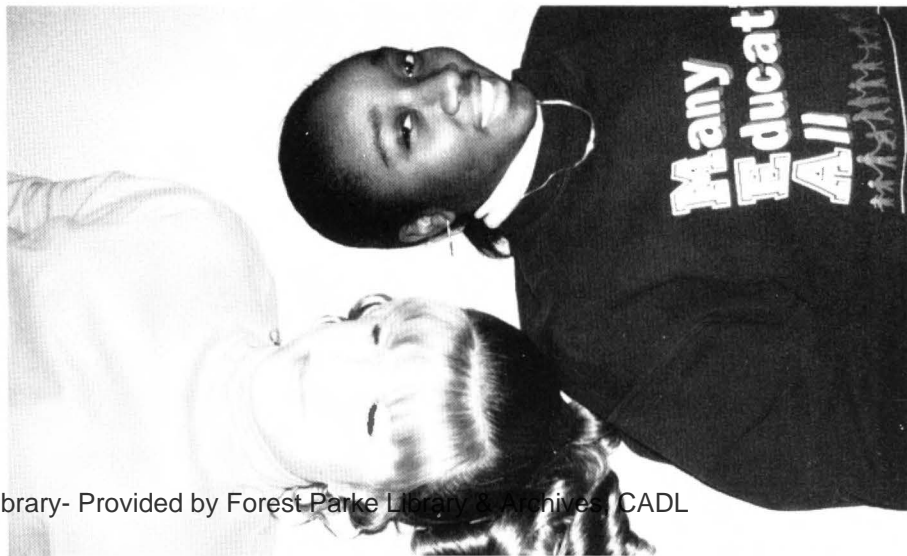

Cindi and Melissa put in long hours designing and directing others in pursuit of an outstanding yearbook.

Cindi checked every page carefully to make sure that every word was spelled correctly.

Melissa checks over proofs before they are sent in.

Things get a little topsy-turvy as the deadlines approach.

We have the three best secretaries in the state — Phyllis, Leanna, and Julie.

Fifth hour Global Studies show some of the food and toys they collected for the needy.

John, Robbie, Cameron, and Eric showed what good sports they were at the pep rally.

The Bible Study Club showed the "Love of Jesus" by serving meals at the Lansing City Rescue Mission and by praying for our school and each other.

Poor Matt was the only male on the year-book staff.

Mom and Dad

Dear Whitney,
 You are everything a sister is supposed to be: stubborn, annoying, helpful and caring. Thanks for listening to me fuss about things and even putting up with my pet peeves and mood swings. Sometimes I wish I could take you with me when I go away to school, but I know that isn't possible, besides it's time for me to move on in life. Stay the same (except try not to be so lazy.) Put God first in your life and everything you do will be a success. I love you always. 'Lissa B.

Well girl, I've known you for 10 years, but we just met 6 years ago. What's up with that?!? It's been great hanging out lately. Thanx for getting me through the "rough times" this year. Good luck in everything you do, and when I'm back to visit you from Delaware you'll have to catch me up on things.

Tribute to Melissa Bowman

Melissa, when you feel life's pressures and don't feel you can take another step, remember who our source of strength is, and that you can renew your strength, which helps us to rise above life's distractions and difficulties. Even strong people get tired at times but don't forget who is in control.

"Even the youth shall faint and be weary and the young men shall utterly fall, but they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength, they shall mount up with wings as an eagle; they shall run and not be weary and they shall walk and not faint." Isaiah 40: 30-31

Like an eagle has great wings and soars in flight.

You are always able to rise to the occasion.

Like an eagle is swift and sits high.

You have set goals for yourself and always reach for the top.

Like an eagle has keen vision.

You see and read between the lines.

Melissa, I am proud to call you my niece. So proud of all your accomplishments thus far. I wish you the best life has to offer.

Congratulations!

classes of the Oracle Staff!

One of the hardest things to do is to choose a theme for the yearbook. We wanted something that would be fun, creative, and easy to carry throughout the entire book. After thinking about Sexton as a whole, we decided an appropriate theme would be on dealing with the diversity of the school — its uniqueness.

We would like to thank all those students and friends who helped us to make our deadlines. We would also like to thank the staff, especially Anne, Erin, and Kristen, for all their effort and hard work. It was a great year. Good luck to the 1996 staff members. We'll be thinking about you.
