1982 RAMPAGES, HOLT HIGH SCHOOL, HOLT, MICHIGAN DEDICATED TO . . .

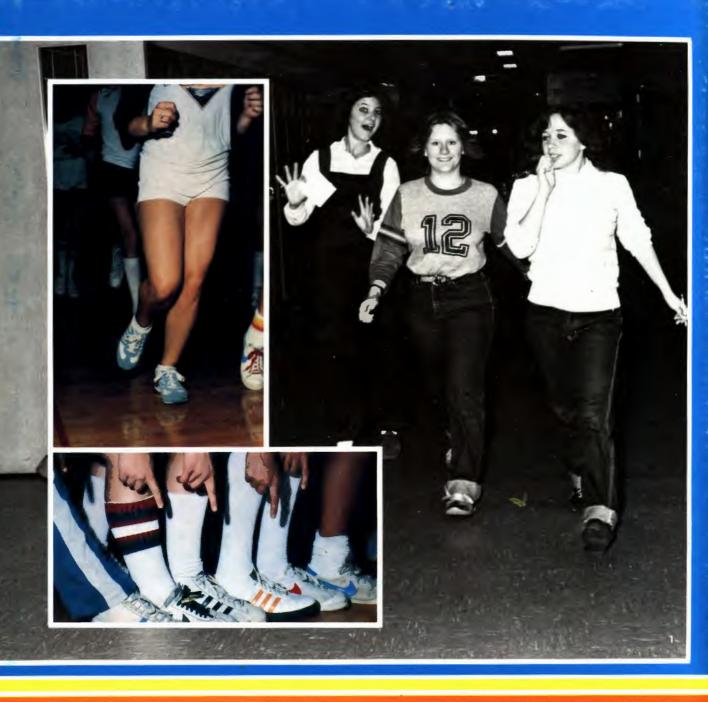

Proudly, the 1981-82 Rampages staff dedicates this book to Mrs. Vonalea Kitzman as a tribute to her time and efforts contributed to Holt Public Schools.

For 19 years Mrs. Kitzman has been a devoted teacher and caring person in Holt's classrooms. She majored in social sciences and minored in history and English at Michigan State University while earning her Bachelor of Arts degree. Along with teaching social sciences, she has been actively involved in Holt's German exchange program touring Germany as a chaperone for the group in 1979.

Residing on Jefferson Street in Holt, Mrs. Kitzman lives with two of her three sons. In her limited spare time, she enjoys reading, gardening, chopping wood and doing crossword puzzles with Mr. Rudd.

WHAT'S THE RUSH?

A day in the life of a high school student was hectic and hurried, with hardly a dull moment. John Q. average student always had one more test to study for and one more paper to write, and he was always running late. Being a student meant being constantly on the go and never having enough time to get everything done. Each day brought more responsibilities, more challenge, and more homework than ever. He had to walk in a hurry, learn in a hurry and grow up in a hurry.

Friday was always a week away and the weekends were never long enough. High school days were supposed to be the best of times but the student was always rushing around preparing for next hour, for Saturday or for next summer. He hardly ever stopped to just enjoy being young. An outsider looking in on the hustle and bustle in the halls between classes and the mad dash to the lunchroom might have been inclined to stop and ask "Just what's the rush?"

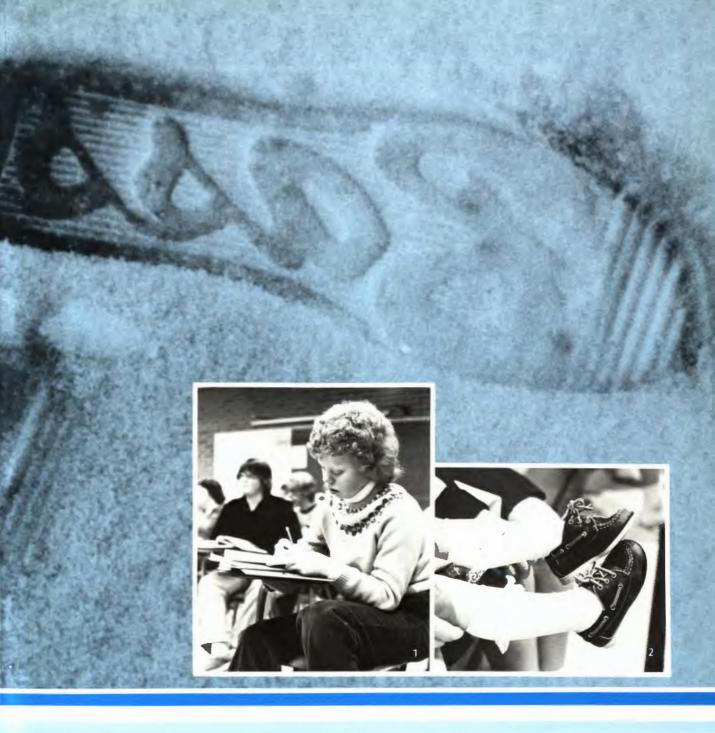

- 1. Football players have a double meaning for the word "rush" and this player does it well.
- 2. After a day of hurrying to and from classes, the average student has to keep running just to catch the bus.

OLD FAVORITES HERE TO STAY

Keeping up with the ever-changing trends in fashion was an important part of high school life. The first week of school was much like a fashion show with the main objective being to out-dazzle and out-dress the other students. Although the female students dominated the fashion scene, with their plaid walking shorts and tropical print shirts, some of the guys joined in too, showing off their pastel Izods and sockless deck shoes. Amidst the trends and fads, blue jeans and sneakers prevailed as the #1 student "look." As for the teacher, many took out their old teaching clothes as they did their old lesson plans, same as last year, but with a new twist. They were amazed to see students wearing the same styles that they themselves had discovered years ago. Shoes were a big part of the fashion scene too, but unfortunately, many of the students who accented their outfits with stylish new "school shoes" faced the second week of school with tender tootsies. Some of the experienced students escaped the agony of de-feet by wearing last year's models. The older shoes were slightly worn and somewhat outdated, but what they lacked in style, they made up for in comfort.

- 2. Even the littlest Rams wear deck shoes.

TAKING FRIENDS IN STRIDE

In school, making friends with classmates was almost as important as passing psychology. Sharing growing pains, the giggles and the hassles from grown-ups with kids the same age was what friendship was all about. The best times of high school were spent with friends. They were always there to smooth over the rough spots, to laugh with and cry with, to share happiness and sadness with. Only a friend would tell you when your clothes didn't match or when your hair was sticking up, and only a friend could make you smile when you felt like crying.

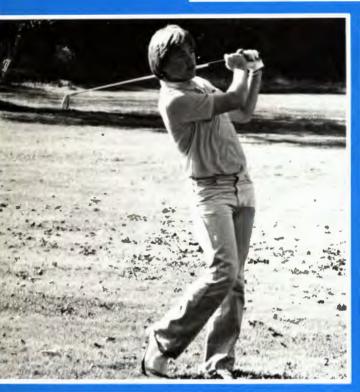

Still, fellow students weren't the only friends made in school. A few students were fortunate enough to find a friend and counselor in a teacher. Of course, it required breaking the them-and-us barrier between students and faculty, but those who did, knew it was worth the effort. A teacher could lend a valuable piece of advise or give the encouragement to reach a goal. The teacher-student relationships weren't the same as other friendships, but they were just as special.

CHANGING TIMES FOR ATHLETES

Holt High's Athletic Department was the site of considerable change. Jack Crawford was appointed the new Athletic Director, and Holt went class "A." The higher quality of competition in class "A" presented problems for many of the teams in district and state competitions. However, most of the coaches agreed that in the long run, the change would improve the quality of competition at Holt.

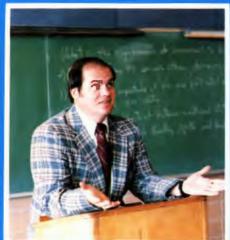

1981 was also a changing, turbulent year for sports and athletes throughout the country. The summer's baseball strike was a landmark event which shook the world and greatly influenced the way professional sports were viewed by the public. The strike clearly showed that prosports had become businesses. The players were among the highest paid workers in the world, but the greed for more money may have destroyed the wholesomeness and tradition of the game. In December, "Magic Johnson" of the Los Angles Lakers, the highest paid athlete in history, with a twenty-five year contract at one million a year, also shocked the industry. He had his coach fired after presenting a him-or-me ultimatum to the Lakers' owners!

BEATING THE BOOKWORK BLAHS

One of the drawbacks of going to school was going to class, because classes were usually boring. Sure, gym was fun, and lunch was good for a few laughs, but when you came right down to it, going to school was about as much fun as going to the dentist. The bombardment of lectures and busy work was enough to get any student into a rut, expecially right before winter break! The hours seemed to drag on, and sometimes, you were just certain that the clock hadn't moved a minute.

Fortunately though, almost everyone survived the bookwork blahs without any permanent damage. No matter how boring school got, a person could find hope in knowing that sooner or later, the weekend had to come, and two days free of teachers (but full of homework) were enough to recover from even the worst of weeks. The weekends were a source of inspiration and a light at the end of the tunnel for students and teachers. Those short Saturdays and Sundays were just enough of a break to keep everyone going, with books and pencils in hand!

WE HATE TO EAT AND RUN, BUT

Students spent most of the day on the rush and lunch was certainly no exception. With only thirty minutes for a lunch break, the student who enjoyed socializing or eating out faced quite a challenge. The school cafeteria added a whole new meaning to the term "fast-food." Surviving the lunch rush with time to spare wasn't entirely impossible, but it did require a little creativity and a lot of practice. Some students spent their spare time doing homework or lounging in the lobby, while others played "see-food" and "who can burp the loudest."

Most of the successful students devised a strategic plan for budgeting their time. The true masters could get to McDonalds and back before the warning bell rang. Of course, this required that lunch be eaten while driving at high speeds to beat the clock, but some students lived dangerously. The others stuck to cafeteria food, facing plenty of challenge in just getting the food down and keeping it down!

ROCKING-N-ROLLING KEPT US GOING

Any teacher with a senior class could testify that rowdiness went right along with reading, writing and arithmetic. Spirit Week and Homecoming (the rowdiest times of the year) brought out a little craziness and a lot of spirit in everyone. Everybody who was anybody was rocking, rolling and getting rowdy for five straight days of outrageous fun. People roamed the halls in anything from sleepers and sunglasses to top hats and togas. They bobbed for apples, passed the lifesavers and donned themselves in brown and gold in quest of the Spirit Week Victory. Homecoming was a special time of the year, but the rowdiness remained even when Spirit

Rowdiness is an attitude and most kids knew that waiting for the bell to ring at the end of sixth hour on a Friday was as good a time as any to get fired up. No special excuse was needed to get rowdy, just a few good students who weren't afraid to live it up!

HISTORY IN THE MAKING

Stones' Tour Makes Big Money

For twenty years, the Rolling Stones have claimed to be the greatest rock and roll band on the earth, and after their twelveweek summer tour, which grossed over 127 million in ticket sales and souvenirs, they would appear to be right. With the exception of the Beatles, no band has ever been received by the American public with as much excitement and enthusiasm as the Stones.

The tour, which was billed as the Stones' last, was seen by an estimated two million fans and was probably the biggest money maker in the history of rock. During their two-day show at the Pontiac Silverdome, the Stones brought in the largest receipts ever recorded in Michigan. The group made over 2.2 million dollars of which they kept 70%. That was about 1.5 million for a two-day show! If the Stones aren't the greatest rock and roll band on the earth, they certainly are the richest.

Sadat Dies

The political world felt the terrible loss of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. His assassination dealt a heavy blow to prospects of peace in the Middle East. It confirmed widespread fears of rampant terrorism throughout the world. Terrorists held many countries in the grip of alarm and concern. They seemed to indicate that any person possessing power became marked.

Strikers Fired

When the professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization went on strike, the Reagan administration took a tougher stand than was expected. The firing of every striker was an unusual show of strength, and demonstrated to the country that the government was not to be taken lightly on serious matters. The incident set a standard for how future domestic situations were to be handled.

Electric Fun

Video games hit the public with a bang, and millions of quarters met their fate at the hands of Defenders, Missile Command, Asteroids, Space Invaders and other popular arcade amusements. Combining reflexes and hand-eye coordination, these electronic games provided a new and challenging alternative to conventional pinball. Eventually, the games were adapted to television sets, and thousands of people bought the in-home systems.

Cinema Hits

Despite the economic problems, the movie industry continued to produce giant hits like Raiders of the Lost Ark, Reds and Taps. The Rocky Horror Picture Show remained popular with the late night crazies and the "Cheap Flick" was still a good excuse to stay out late. Most weekends saw the local theaters flooded with cinema-goers and movie addicts, willing to blow their money on old movies and tons of stale popcorn.

The Cube; Fun And Frustrating

1981-82 saw people of all kinds fiddling with the immensely popular Rubik's Cube. Certainly not made for the easily frustrated, the Cube became one of the hottest selling Items on the market. Nearly ever household in America owned this ingenious novelty, and contests were held all over the country to determine who could solve "The Cube" in the least amount of time.

Reagan Elected

n the 1980 presidential election, America voted in Ronald Reagan is the new Commander-In-Chief. Reagan's campaign promises ncluded an increase in military pending, severe budget cutbacks and an attempt at balancing the national budget. At the time of is innauguration, few people could forsee how "severe" the judget changes would be. In 1981 Reagan got his first shot at ulfilling his promises, with the trafting of the new budget. On is National Address, he expanded on his "trickle-down" heory and advised Americans to pull themselves up by their poostraps." Reagan's success remains to be seen, but he has dready proven that his term will e an eventful one.

Solidarity

Solidarity has been called the fingle most important news item of 1981. Led by Lech Walesa, the Solidarity independent trade union made demands of socialand economic reform on the Polish government. The government, as rebuttal measures, imposed martial law and declared a state of national emergency. Solidartly was crushed. Still, the ideas will remain for many years, as Solidarity will remain a landmark attempt at industrial independence in the communist block.

Victory For ERA

The ERA movement recorded overwhelming victory in the battle of the sexes with the appointment of Sandra O'Conner to the Supreme Court. O'Conner is, of course, the first woman to gain a seat on the high court and holds the most powerful position ever held by an American woman jurist. O'Conner's triumph is "just the beginning."

England's Royal Wedding

The marriage of Lady Diana Spencer to Prince Charles of Wales will probably go down in history as the wedding of the century. The two were married with all the pomp and splendor due to the future King and Queen of England. The ceremony came complete with a royal carriage, fireworks and a wedding dress that resembled something from a Cinderella movie. However, the whole ordeal of the three million dollar wedding was received by the public with mixed emotions. From one perspective, the wedding was viewed as a dazzling display of old English tradition, but to the many millions of proverty stricken English subjects, the wedding represented an enormous waste of money in the already hurting English economy.

The Big Breakup

After seven years of fighting, the Justice Department finally succeeded in breaking up one of the largest monopolies in American history - Ma Bell. otherwise known as the American Telegram and Telegraph Co. The final court rulings forced AT&T to divest over two thirds of its assets. The breakup of Ma Bell will probably have two different effects. First, phone bills will go up throughout the country. Second, technological advancements will be made at a faster pace due to added competition. Overall, the settling of the anti-trust case against the Bell system promises to have profound effects on America's economical landscape.

Catastrophe

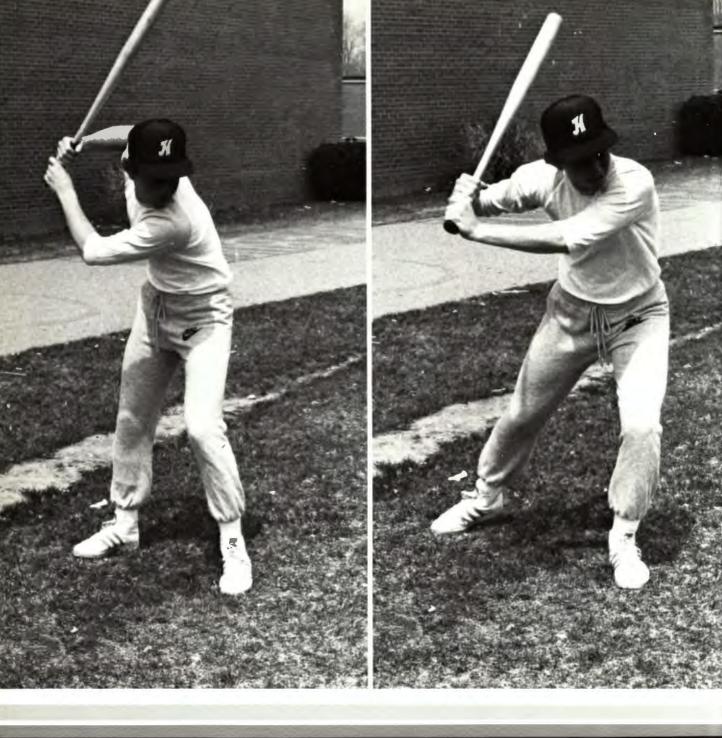

The first fatal crash of an American airplane in two years came with the disaster of Air Florida's Flight 90, a Boeing 737 bound for Tampa. The plane crashed into the Potomac River, killing all but 5 of the 76 people on board, and consequently, opening up a new debate on the safety of airports located within a large city. Initial investigations point to ice on the wings as the main contributing factor. However, it will take many months to know for sure exactly what happened.

High School sports were heavily influenced in 1981 by two opposing forces: a national trend toward physical fitness and drastic budget cutbacks throughout the country. The fitness movement had an encouraging effect on school sports drawing larger crowds. Cuts in government funding forced some schools to eliminate sports from their curricula, leaving students fearful of an "all work and no play" atmosphere.

Fortunately, Holt weathered the budget blows well and maintained the same quality sports program. Students continued to participate in a wide variety of CAC and intramural sports. Highlights of the year included the JV football team's undefeated record, the gymnastic team's win over East Lansing, the boys' tennis team's victory at the Holt Invitational and, of course, the IM basketball championship game.

New to the sports scene were the Matmaids, otherwise known as the POW Club (Promote Our Wrestlers). The team of twenty girls promoted the Varsity and Junior Varsity squads. The girls worked during activity periods, after school and on Saturdays making posters with slogans like "Lets Get Physical," "Positive Tilt" and "Shoot For States". They worked at invitationals keeping score, working clocks and running score cards. The girls were just as proud of the trophies and medals as the guys were!

In every sport there were victories and losses, along with individual and team goals. Some of the goals were reached and others weren't, but the memories from the struggles and attempts were worthwhile. Girls on the tennis team will remember sharing blankets and hot chocolate at cold practices while girls on the swim team will remember singing "Ook-alela" on the bus. Sports gave students a chance to compete, learn group cooperation and individual self-worth.

TAKIN' OFF

SLOW START, STRONG FINISH

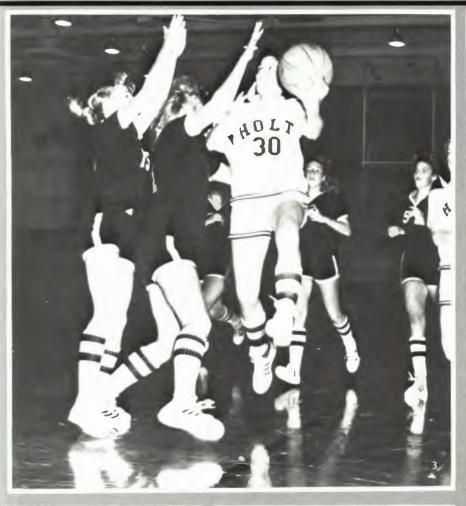

The Holt Rams Varsity Football Team, under the direction of Head Coach Denny Bongard, ended the 1981 season with an impressive 7-2 record. After a sluggish 1-2 start, the team recovered to win six consecutive games and earn a second place finish in the CAC.

The key to their success lay within a stingy defense that allowed only 53 points for the entire season. Team standouts junior Doug Stover and seniors Dennis Hull, Mark Leyrer and Tom Zajac received All-CAC honors, while Leyrer and Zajac were also chosen to be on the All-Area first and second teams respectively. Senior Gordy Magee did them all one step better with his nomination to the All-State football team. Homecoming held a special meaning for everyone involved this year because the Lorne Park Spartans from Ontario, Canada came to play the Rams in the first international game of its kind. Although the final score had Holt on top 35-6, the sportsmanship displayed proved both teams winners.

"This was a very satisfying season. Tremendous team leadership and competitive spirit was displayed by the team. They could have easily folded but didn't." stated Coach Bongard.

"The team grew in many phases and hopefully they had enough positive experience to make the year a successful one." — Coach Guenther

STRONG DETERMINATION

The Girls' Varsity basketball team is noted for having a successful squad; this year's team was no exception. Although the team was young with little previous varsity experience, the team worked hard with determination and enthusiasm and improved as the season progressed. The attitude of the squad was positive towards sportsmanship and playing together. Coached by Ms. Lila Guenther, the hoopers ended their season with a 4-8 record and a sixth place finish in the CAC. The team was led by seniors Lisa Howell, Marikay Westerhoff, and Laura Counterman, with added talent from juniors Pam Kelly, Jane Conklin, and Dori Essenburg.

WE'RE # 1

Team: "We are Number one, say we are number one! Dan Knechtel: "Say what?" Team: "We are number one, say we are number one!" Dan: "Say what?" Team: "We are number one" That was the favorite chant of the 1981 Junior Varsity Football team. It was quite appropriate considering their 9-0 record. Holt outscored opponents 249-40. Leading scorer and MVP sophomore Kip Pentecost rushed for 1039 y=:ds, 11 touchdowns and an average of 10.6 yards per carry. Sophomore quarterback Tom McFarland was the second leading rusher with 384 yards. Sophomore Dan Knechtel led receivers with 15 completions for 354 yards and three touchdowns.

"The biggest thing was our defense. At times we were bending but we never broke." said Coach Scotty Shimnoski, Tom McFarland led the tacklers with 69. Second was sophomore Jim Park with 66. Team captains sophomores Keven Wethy and Marty Schnepp had a hard time getting the team fired up for every game. One exception was the Sexton game. "We were a good team matched up against a good team and we emerged a great team," Shimnoski said.

Most improved player sophomore Kyle Duckalow, along with many others, helped the team tremendously with hard work and enthusiasm. Receiving the coachs' award was Marty Schnepp. He along with sophomores Tim Pant, John Peterson, Mike Niles, Arron West, John Smyth, and Mike Kristin opened holes all season to get the backs started. Coaches Del Corv and Shimnoski developed the skills the players will need on future varsity teams.

After coming off a record of 5-12, Coach Bobby Simmons thought the girls played with a lot of hustle and enthusiasm. Although their efforts didn't add up on the boards, each member displayed a positive attitude and team effort. "We didn't come close to last year's record, but we had fun trying." added player Aimee Golden.

The girls were young and the experienced were few. However, together their talents and skills were combined to form a strong team.

Coach Jerry Gillett feels that "it was an interesting season," and "we had a few very good athletes, but not enough depth."

With twelve years of coaching the Boys' Cross Country teams, Mr. Gillett stated that, "although it was not a good season, it was an interesting one." The guys' record was 2-6. They placed fifth in CAC and came in twelfth at Regionals.

Third year letter winner Todd Long finished 14th in the individual championship race at the state meet. Other letter winners were seniors Jim Ellis and Loren Howard, and juniors Mike Stone and Dave Powers.

HOLT'S GIRLS RUN WITH STYLE

Dear Runners,

Well, here it is, another fine season gone by. Seems like we just started, and now it's time to "hang 'em up."

Seniors will surely be missed, in different and special ways, as they were the backbone of the team, all the way down to Jackie. Congratulations to Tammy and Shelly for making it to State Finals. Shelly certainly will be missed for her leadership and being number one or two for the last four years. I will always remember her great performance in the "1980 State Meet" leading us to a fifth place team finish, and a school record at the Mason Invitational. I know she worked hard this summer, even though the doctor set her back, she came through with flying colors, winning medals and being number one most of the year. We certainly had a great battle for number three runner all year, good competition between Connie, Shirley and Melissa. Also, Wendy and Jerri came through as our number five runners, when we needed help.

I know our times were not always great, but remember all the rain and soggy courses made for slow times. Even at the Sexton dual, our low point of the year, it rained like "H". But we got it turned around at the Eastern Invitational, our high point, and back on the positive side. I was proud as punch for the "Gut" performances in the Grand Ledge Dual, Regionals and CAC meets. We finally got "TOUGH". I experimented with a little more speed work this year, but still think "LSD" worked just as well.

I'll miss the Ice Cream Shop. Should have done it more. Great for togetherness and friendships. Plus the ice cream isn't bad either. Well, it's back to the drawing board looking for new recruits. Also, Rachel, I haven't forgotten you. "Keep on trucking" "er running" we're gonna need you next year.

Thanks to all for the fine season. Yours truly, Wilbert Griffin, Coach

GOLFERS FOURTH AT REGIONALS

The sky is clear, the sun is shining and all eyes are focused on the first man to tee off. The tee shot on the first hole is probably one of the hardest and most important shots in golf. A good tee shot could intimidate an opponent, while a poor shot could shake the player's self confidence and possibly ruin an entire round. A good player must learn to deal with the pressure without choking — the ultimate crime.

Seniors Tom Niles and Gordon Evey led the varsity team with consistent performances throughout the season. Juniors Mark Kowalski and Gary Carlson and sophomore Matt Doran also won varsity letters. The team finished the season with a strong fourth place at regional competition, despite a disappointing sixth place finish at the conference match. All of the team members agreed that although this season was fun, next season will probably be more successful.

FAST FISH

Morning practices, cold water, hot water and grueling weightlifting were hardships endured by eleven girls. The end result: best times, broken records and lasting friendships. This clearly describes the Girls' Varsity Swim Team.

Records were set by sophomore Kerri Smith in the 100 yard breastroke with a time of 1:16.66 and by senior captain Gloria Granger in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle with times of :25.48 and :55.20 respectively. Although depth was a problem, they still managed an overall record of 4:7 and a 4th place in the CAC. While many swimmers had times fast enough to qualify for the class B swim meet, Granger was the only girl to qualify for the class A meet. She was 13th in the 50 and 15th in the 100 yard freestyle. Senior Liz Lind commented on the season, "I would definitely not have swam last year except for the closeness and compatibility of the team."

Placing in the consolations in individual events at the CAC meet were: Lisa Shanks (200 and 500 yard freestyle), Kerri Smith (50 yard freestyle and 100 yard breastroke), Terri Wright (diving), MarjAnn VanDyke (100 yard freestyle), Hope Nichols (500 yard freestyle) and Kim Kovera (100 yard butterfly). Placing in finals were: Hope Nichols (200 yard freestyle), Kim Kovera (500 yard freestyle) and Gloria Granger (50 and 100 yard freestyle). The 200 medley relay of Shanks, Smith, Johnson and Lind placed 5th and the 400 freestyle relay of Granger, VanDyke, Nichols and Kovera placed 2nd.

ROWDY RAMS!

The 1981 Varsity football cheerleaders started practicing early in the summer to get ready for the United States Cheerleaders Association Summer Camp at Ohio State University. Although only four of the eight cheerleaders made the trip they succeeded in taking third place out of the many larger squads. The week was highlighted when Senior Lisa Richter was voted first place individualist on her pep, appearance and personality. The squad also worked hard to raise spirit and pep through-out the football season.

It wasn't hard for the Junior Varsity cheerleaders to keep up the spirit for the 1981 JV football team. They practiced their cheers and chants through the week and performed their best. The JV cheerleaders attended the USCA National Championships this past summer at the Lansing Civic Center and placed fourth in the Open Division.

"The girls did a nice job this season, but more important, they learned the value of leadership, team support and getting along with others." said Coach Cathy Weaver.

CLOSE MEETS

The boys' Varsity swim team's 5-6 season record hardly reflected the quality of swimming at the meets. Three of their losses were decided by the last relay, and many others were close. The competition throughout the CAC was fierce, and with several veteran swimmers on the team, area rivalries were equally intense. The CAC meet was the highlight of the season. It was the object of countless hours of practice and pain, and when the time came, it was the place for settling all disputes. At the meet, the atmosphere was filled with tension and a nervous energy unique to athletic contests. Some of the swimmers buckled under the pressure, but others emerged victorious.

One such individual was senior Brian Guenther. He walked away from the conference meet with the back-stroke championship and finished the season with varsity records in the 50, 100 and 200 freestyles and in the 100 backstroke. Still, he was not alone in his achievements. Senior Tom Sherman turned in an outstanding performance, placing second in the individual medley and fourth in the breaststroke. He set varsity records in both events. Other Holt finishers included sophomores Doug Farrell and Craig Chapman, junior Scott Marsh and seniors Brad Reynolds, Frank Laurich and Jeff Ward. Junior Kim Eberly was allowed to compete in diving for the boys' team after missing the girls' season because of an injury. Eberly proved to be a valuable asset to the team. Her fifth place finish at the CAC's added an interesting twist to the meet and earned her a varsity record.

TOUGH SHOT

This year's basketball record was a disappointment to many. However there were no plans for a winning season, but instead a year to learn, grow and rebuild. They did show good team work and enthusiasm even at a point when hope was far from sight. Those who participated, being able to use their skills, felt the season was worthwhile dispite the many let downs. This was the year to give credit to those who gave their all to support the school. Scott Auvenshine stated "It was a long and disappointing season but parts of it were worthwhile."

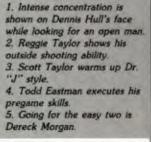

"This year's Varsity Basketball team worked very hard and were competitive all year. I enjoyed working with them." stated Coach Al Inkala.

WORK PAYS

Ram wrestlers had something to be proud of with a first place finish in the CAC tournament, a 5-2 dual meet record and first place finish in three tournaments. Team depth played an important role in the wrestlers' success during the year. Out of the 33 wrestlers who had varsity experience 29 received letter awards (18 of which will be returning). A strong team also has strong individuals. Team captain and MVP senior Mark Leyrer had an outstanding season as well as a great high school career. He became one of very few wrestlers to ever win over 100 matches (108). In this season alone he achieved a 40-2 record and scored a school record 265 points. He achieved the goal of every high school wrestler, the state championship. Seniors Sam Ross and Mike Atkinson ended their high school careers with fine seasons also. Ross took first in the league and was a regional qualifier. Atkinson was a regional qualifier and won three tournaments throughout the season. Other seniors who put forth great efforts were Scott Nor-ton, Dan Hull and Rick Komm. Junior Jeff Scofield placed fourth in CAC. Junior Mike Tulip had an 11-5 record up until he was injured and could not complete the season. Second places in the league meet belonged to juniors Mark Mason and Albert Lyons, It was tough to make it all the way to the state finals even for seniors let along a sophomore. Chris Leyrer and John Bradford each placed third at the district and regional meets to qualify for the State's. Two other sophomores who did a fine job were Ted McMullen and Marty Schnepp. Senior manager, Kathy O'Neill, did an excellent job throughout her high school years. She worked on 42 dual meets and 45 tournaments. Kathy made many contributions and the entire team was very grateful.

"Our focus this year was to improve the program, win the games we were supposed to and learn to play, as well as score off the defense. We also wanted to play basketball with our heads as well as our bodies," said Coach Inkala.

GOAL MET

The boys JV Basketball team played as well as could be expected. They seemed to accomplish many of the goals focused on at the beginning of the season. As in every year, the JV squad tried to prepare themselves to play on the Varsity team in the following years, which they accomplished quite easily. The team was not without prevailing talent. Starters Tom McFarland and Pete Oade were both advanced after the fourth game to the varsity squad with Pete Oade continuing at the varsity level.

PUSHING

The junior varsity wrestlers did an excellent job in their competition this year as well as backing up the varsity wrestlers. When the varsity wrestlers were sick or injured, the JV's filled their place. They worked hard during practice improving themselves and pushing the varsity to the limit.

For the first time, the team competed at the Wayne Memorial JV Tournament. Wrestlers placing first were: Sophomores Jim Shannon and Tom Moreno, Juniors Rick Brown, Matt Swab and Bill Walls. Juniors Mike Jablonski, Bob Green, John Lyman, Rod Jackson and Dennis Campball also did a fine job at the tournament.

Senior lettermen on the JV squad were Kurt Boegner, Kevin Epling, Rob Gardner and Roger Gilmore. Recipient of the coaches award was Mike Thompson.

Champion

The ball started rolling this year with the forming of teams, team names, coaches, uniforms, schedule and nicknames. Then the battle began! Who would take IM Championships?

The junior and senior high gyms furnished the place for the fun and games. Many spectators kept up with the increasingly popular sport, watching the clock and tabulating the score. Each team had their own unique style of getting the ball through the hoop with lay ups, jump shots, hook shots, dunk shots, luck shots and even granny shots. Most of the hoopers put their energy towards the final championship games.

but the ever so popular question appeared in many minds of fellow IM'ers, "Who got the basketballs?" The missing balls almost kept the trophies in the boxes. But never tear "the games must go on" and they did. In the boys' division the BMF's kept up their winning reputation when they defeated the SOMF's in the final game 58-32. Meanwhile on the other side of the gym, the "No Way Babies" fought for the title against the SOB's in the girls' division taking it 18-10.

PUMPING IRON!

Building muscle, gaining strength and body conditioning have become popular at Holt. If you were to have stopped in at the weight room after school, you would have found numerous students lifting weights to build up their biceps and triceps.

Mr. Danny Bongard headed up the after school program where students could regularly lift weights and could continue through the summer months. The program consisted mostly of football players, but it was open to anyone interested in conditioning and improving their strength.

Three seniors set new records. Jeff Kaiser holds a 315 record for bench pressing, Chris Kime for dyps at 45 and Rick Berry for dead lift at 455.

CHALLENGE

The girls' JV volleyball team performed well this year. Although their season record didn't show their hard work and determination, the girls' attitudes gave their opposing team a hard time. They spiked their way to a 7-9 record while always improving and developing new skills. "I enjoyed the volleyball season this year because we grew closer as a team, working well together even though the record was discouraging," commented Sarah Fredline. "The team has a nucleus for a very fine JV squad for 1983," added coach Marce Wagner.

CAC CHAMPS TUMBLING TO THE TOP

The 81-82 Gymnastic team followed in the footsteps of last year's team, but took a higher qualifying position. Coach Mike Sharples remarked: "Our team goals this year were to win the CAC, qualify for Regionals and most importantly to jell together as a dedicated team. We achieved all of these goals and more. Our best performance of the year was in the CAC championship meet. We didn't do quite as well as we wanted to in Regionals, but taking second only one point out of first place wasn't bad. Our second place finish qualified us for the state competition, the first time Holt has ever gone to State's as a team. Although we didn't do as well as we thought we could have in States the girls put up a tremendous fight and made a respectable showing. Next year we hope to be very strong again having all four of our All-Conference Team members back (DeAnn Dalrymple, Mary Meade, LeeAnn O'Neil and Ilene Wyzywany; the only other gymnast on the All-Conference Team was Jackie Dickenson of East Lansing)."

Other insightful comments by teammembers were: DeAnn Dalrymple felt, "The thing that helped the team win the CAC championship was beating East Lansing." "During the meets the team was most supportive," stated Sue Rourke. Michelle Bos said she, "got satisfaction out of beating the beam."

Betsy Hall said the best thing about cheering during the 81-82 basketball season was "When we won!"

The most embarrassing thing that happened to Linda Wagner, "We just changed the mount before the Everett game. We moved into the mount formation during the game wrong, facing opposite directions.

Then we started laughing and couldn't do the mount!"

"Cheerleading is an excellent sport, you have to put in a lot of hard work and effort!" explained Wendy DeYoung.

LEAVING TRACKS

Since the girls' track team was originated at Holt in 1973, it has been an uphill race to gain strength and speed. Starting with a few ambitious girls, it has grown into a well organized team with spirit, enthusiasm and most of all energy.

Leading the 1981-82 squad were juniors Ronda Beals and Jackie Pentecost, but it was the effort put forth by each girl that kept the entire team running strong.

Keeping the team strong was not easy. Coach Guenther had to push each girl to her limit, getting the best of their ability, to build a strong team backbone. Senior runner Marj VanDyke commented, "If you think you can, you're right. If you think you can't, you're right. I thought I could and found I was right!"

TEAMWORK BRINGS SUCCESS

The 1981-82 Boys' Track Team recorded a fine eight win and three loss season. Relying upon effort and teamwork to replace outstanding individual talent lost through graduation, the Rams proved strong in both duals and triangulars and were competitive in the large meets. They were fourth in the CAC standings and fifth at the conference meet.

Said Junior Todd Long, "Although we lost a lot of valuable seniors last year, a good sophomore group came in. When things weren't going well, we all pulled together and got the job done."

predictable one. At the beginning of the year Holt was picked to take the CAC. Getting off to a bad start, everyone asked, "what's wrong with Holt?". The first few games were confusing and frustrating losses. Towards the end of the season the team got their "stuff" together and started playing team ball. They found the positions people played best at and worked together from there. It was a disappointment for Holt not to be invited to the Diamond Classic, but they went on with confidence to play in the districts. Holt proved themselves well at districts with a first win over Jackson 5-2. Then they went on to defeat Sexton 16-0, but only to fall short of the championship with a loss to Eastern 5-1. Holt's record over all was 12-9.

EXCITING WINS

As the JV softball team wound up a great season, there were many happenings to recall, such as the first game against Waverly. The team was loosing 1-0 and in the fifth inning pulled ahead to win 13-1! Their overall 9-7 season record proved rewarding for both the players and the spectators.

Sophomores Amy Golden, Denise Woll and Celene Grables proved to be strong, competitive and versatile players. Firstbaseman, Celene Grables stated, "I really enjoyed being on the team. It was fun, hard work, but also phsically rewarding."

TALENTED SOPH'S

This year's JV baseball was one of the most talented teams ever, according to Coach Larner. Made up totally of sophomores, they had only a fair season with a 6-9 record. Outstanding players were Dan Knechtel (doing a great job pitching) and Kirk Canarille who later moved up to varsity. The JV team met many goals such as cutting down on errors and improving physically and mentally.

Holt's only two JVs.

their depth and experience to use early in the season, setting a new

Although the team fell short of their ultimate goal of qualifying for the state meet, there were several individual performances to highlight the season. At the two-person-team Varsity Best Ball, Kovera and Hall captured a 3rd place finish and Conklin carded the only eagle of the day. Conklin also earned a very respectable 6th place finish at the CAC match. The most individual achievement though, was recorded by Haddad. After a sluggish start, she came back to surprise many people, turning in the second best score from Holt at the Regionals.

Next season only four players will be returning, leaving the team somewhat shorthanded. Both the players and coaches hope for a big turnout of new players next year.

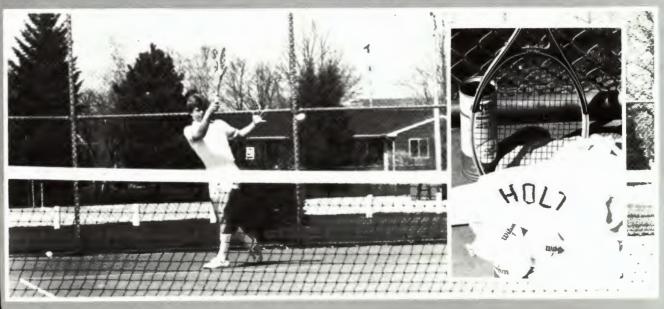

NETTERS PLAY TOUGH SEASON

The 1982 Boys' Varsity Tennis Team, coached by second year Mr. Inkala, ended their season with a 2-7 record. They placed fourth in the CAC meet. The team also took first place in the Holt Invitational as well as eighth place at Regionals. Junior Rob Foster stated "It was a tough season, but we hung together as a team." This year's letter winners were sophomores Brian Pierce and Lee Howell, juniors Gary Carlson, Todd Eastman, Rob Foster and Jeff St. Clair and seniors Don Green, Mike Meggison, Jeff Ward and Tom Niles. All in all it was a tough competitive season for the 13 members of the team.

Life is basically a series of accomplishments, decisions and embarrassments. Throughout school, students were taught to make the right decisions, reach their goals and cope with their embarrasments. The learning process was hard, unbearably slow and at times painful, but necessary. In high school, students spend three short years preparing for life in the real world. Hopefully, they graduate with a well-rounded education and many fond memories of their time spent in school.

Still, not all lessons were learned in the classroom. Students also learned from the all-night study halls, the practical jokes and the parties of their youth. Kids from Holt will especially remember seeing Rick Berry's Blazer parked on the snowbank, being grossed-out at the Ozzy Osbourne concert, getting sunburned in Florida over spring break, seeing nude centerfolds in lockers and hearing "Good day eh?" and "No doubt!" echoing through the halls, plus lots more!

One group of students will remember the cars they owned in school most of all. These kids are mainly guys between 16 and 18 years old, earning minimum wage at the local hamburger joint. They'll remember spending every penny they had on that late model souped up car to make it the fastest, best looking car around. For them, the sound of squealing tires and a smooth engine was the ultimate high. Of course, some guys will also remember paying for their fun with expensive speeding tickets, but they probably agree that it was worth every penny.

Other students will remember getting drenched on April Fools Day, being sprayed with a fire extinguisher and seeing a fish head in the drinking fountain over Winter Homecoming. Kids will remember having tons of Western Civilization homework as sophomores, American History tests as juniors and Physics labs as seniors. But most of all, they'll remember having lots of fun as students. In retrospect, the summers spent at the drive-in, the doughnut runs and the trips to Rocky Horror Picture Show will be the moments that shape their memories of high school.

SOPHOMORES: THAT WAS THEN: THIS IS NOW

The Junior High was fun, But now the work has begun.

Once the year has started, And football games were charted,

We soon grew to know, The high school high and

And after news got out, Of what Mr. Messner was all about,

We began to understand, The responsibilities that were on hand.

And now that the year is gone,
We know where we belong.

JUNIORS

What happened to us? Where's our spunck, Our spirit, Our pride? As sophomores we were ready To challenge the world. Full of adventure, Proud to be free And in charge at last. Then wham! We're juniors, And something is missing. We're lost in the crowd, And quickly being left behind. Junioritis is the disease, Severe boredom is the result. The cure: Our senior

It seemed like only yesterday the class of '82 walked unknowingly into the high school as sophomores. We found we had to wait for many things, and we waited most anxiously and sometimes impatiently to be seniors and to participate in all the senior activities. But before we realized it, we had chosen as our

THE BEST OF TIMES

Our motto had us reminiscing about the days gone by and dreaming about the times to come, but it constantly kept us living our todays to the fullest for they soon became THE BEST OF TIMES.

Tonights the night we'll make history,
Honey you and I.
And I'll take any risk
to tie back the hands of time, and stay with you here tonight.

We'll make this a world for two.
Our memories of yesterday will last a lifetime.
We'll take the best, forget the rest,
and someday we'll find,
These are the best of times.

The headlines read these are the worst of times, I do believe it's true. I feel so helpless, like a boat against the tide, I wish the summer winds could bring back Paradise. But I know, if the world turned upside down, baby I know, you'd always be around.

SENIOR EXCITEMENT

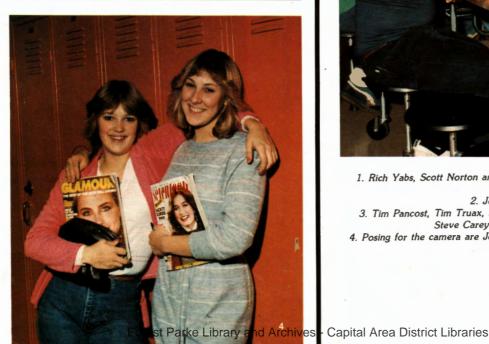

REMEMBER US

10, 9, 8, 7 ... The counting started long before the official countdown was posted. The days were numbered and seniors watched the figures on the wall decline while the excitement mounted. All the seemingly unimportant details had to be completed before the 300 eager students could be released into the world.

The class of '82 left their mark on Holt in many ways as every class before them. But they carried with them the memories of the friends, parties and good times that they experienced along their journey through Holt.

1. Rich Yabs, Scott Norton and Terry Wythe work out in third hour weight training class. 2. Jerri Marsh bunks out in the clinic. 3. Tim Pancost, Tim Truax, Neil Munson, Bob Prapotnick and Steve Carey enjoy the break between classes. 4. Posing for the camera are JoAnn Lundmark and Lisa Shanks.

Joining clubs and organizations gave students the opportunity to meet new people, serve the community and have fun. The clubs at school were as varied as the individuals who joined them, ranging from chess and choir to drama and debate. There was something for every taste, and almost any student could find a group that he/she had something in common with. For lots of students, working on a group project for a school organization was a productive way to spend spare time.

Club activities included working on fund raisers, sponsoring dances and assisting teachers. One of the largest projects of the year was the Dance-a-thon held for State Trooper Craig Scott's family. The dance lasted 21 hours and raised three thousand dollars for the cause. Another project, sponsored by ASHHS, was a rock concert featuring the Teen Angels. Principal Paul Jolly commented afterwards that the good conduct of the students and the overall success of the concert may make future activities of that type possible.

Performing Arts groups participated in school and community projects throughout the year. The choir sang at the Capitol for the first time ever, staged the musical "Brigadoon" and gave concerts regularly through the year. The Drama Club performed many plays, including "Pillow Talk," "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" and "Night of January the 16th." Each performance came complete with surprises, as Myra Grant discovered when she was asked to play Patty in "Charlie Brown" with only a week's notice, (after Lynette Lay dislocated her leg in gymnastics.)

As always, the shows went on and the performing groups continued to entertain. The marching band marched and the cheerleaders cheered during football season, while the pep band played and the pom pon girls performed during basketball season. Still other groups, like the STAR Club (Students Taking Active Roles) gave students the opportunity to do volunteer work for the community. But, whatever the group or organization, joining a club meant fun and accomplishment.

Under the direction of Mr. Ron Allen, the choir performed well in their Thanksgiving, Christmas, Winter and Spring concerts. "The choir has been the highlight of my high school years," stated senior Bridget Galvin. Working with a smaller number of students, Mr. Allen disappointedly admits, "this year's choir is the smallest I've had in ten years."

The glee club, also quite small this year, managed to grow to fifteen members with recruiting efforts and encouragement from Mr. Allen. Many of the girls said that they enjoyed the opportunity to sing all kinds of music. Sophomore Julie Barnes stated that, "I like to sing very much and the glee club wakes me up and brightens my day."

GOOD-BY SENIORS

Dropping your cane, turning the wrong direction, having your hat knocked off, twirling your skirt up a little too high—these are some of the exciting (and embarrassing) things that happened during RamSinger performances. They practiced twice a week under the direction of Ron Allen and the choreography of Tami Hofstra. "RamSingers is like a little family. Everyone makes it enjoyable," stated junior Marty Phreed. The RamSingers performed for many senior citizen homes, churches and other small clubs and organizations. They entertained audiences to the beat of Todd Self's drums and Mr. Allen's piano playing.

The Glee Club started off this year's Spring Vocal Concert with such songs as "Big Spender" and selections from the Broadway musical "Annie". The 1981-82 RamSingers sang and danced to five songs and the Choir sang to old time hits "Five Foot Two, Eyes of Blue", "Hello Dolly" and many others. Of all the songs sung at the concert "Those Were The Days" will probably be remembered the most, especially by the seniors. Senior Karen Phreed explains that "I'm really going to miss Choir after I graduate. I've gotten so used to the concerts and musicals these past few years and now all that is going to end." As in past years Director Ron Allen gave an award to one boy and one girl who were outstanding members of the Choir. This year's winners were senior Ed Mau and junior Delle Carnahan.

THE RAMS COME MARCHING IN

The Holt Ram Marching Band performed at home football games, various parades and Michigan State Band Day. The band's choice of music and half-time routines added something special to each football game. Under the skillful baton of Mr. Winters and Mr. McMurtrey, the band practiced during first hour and on Wednesday evenings to perfect their shows.

A new twist was added to the band this year with the addition of one more drum major. Having two drum majors made it easier for the band to stay together musically and it also reinforced the discipline within the band. In addition to the drum majors, the majorettes and "Flash Flags" also participated in the halftime activities.

MUSIC FOR PEP AND PERFORMANCE

The Holt High School Concert Band demonstrated their musical abilities many times through the 1981-82 school year. Performing at three annual concerts plus a band festival in Okemos gave the band opportunities to compete as well as to entertain. In Okemos, the band received a division II rating. 15 members of the concert band also competed at the Solo and Ensemble Festival obtaining fine ratings from the judges.

The 1981-82 pep band had a year full of good music and small audiences. Pep band member Mike Thompson said, "I really appreciated the couple of people that acknowledged us." Home game performances and concerts during homecoming were attempts to get the simple recognition they deserved. "Even though the practices were long, I had a great time," stated bell player Delle Carnahan. Perhaps in the future people will find a way to show the pep band that they were worth listening to.

WE GOT THE BEAT

Sharp uniforms and a flashlight in each hand were the new touches to this year's pompon squad. The selling of stuffed animals, M & M's and bakesales completely covered the entire $700 cost of the new uniforms. Co-Captains Becky Simpson and Penny Chapin invented the flashlight routine. Performed twice at the winter Homecoming basketball games, the unique flashlight routine sent synchronized light patterns throughout the interior of the junior high gym.

Other pompon performances were given at each home basketball game and at the school pep assemblies. Practicing two to three hours, twice a week, the squad of fifteen dedicated girls were able to hold the interest and gain the admiration of the crowds.

NEW GOALS SET

With many changes and a lot of organization, the 1981-1982 Rampages staff worked hard to make an interesting yearbook.

The class had an experienced staff to guide them. Both senior Chris Kovera and senior Karen Cole attended a summer workshop at Alma College and brought back many fresh ideas. The special effects used in the book were signi-color in the opening section, a full color senior section, a four-color graphic cover and endsheets. An emphasis was placed on making each section different from the other sections and making each page unique.

To achieve this task, six section editors were chosen from the returning staff to design and oversee their sections. Section editors Chris Kovera and senior Jeannine Milbourn were chosen as co-editors of the book.

Because of increased publication costs, much effort was put into selling ads. Senior Shelly Karns and sophomore Cindy Carey made additional contacts to finalize sales and layout ads. With advertising from local businesses, the yearbook dance and the selling of posters, the goal of $3,000.00 was reached.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

DEVELOPES LEADERSHIP

Junior Debbie Major wanted to join NHS because she felt "By belonging to the National Honor Society I believe that I am taking an active role in school and community affairs. It is also an honor to have been chosen to represent Holt High School in a national group." The National Honor Society's main purpose as a select group was to strive for leadership, fellowship and service. The events they sponsored during the year were a dance, the sale of candycanes in December and the American Red Cross Blood Drive in February.

EXPERIENCE!

The Capitol Area Career Center and Co-op programs were two ways to come into contact with the working world and obtain valuable job experience. With the bleak 1981-82 employment situation and no immediate improvement forseeable, students hoped to find their extra career preparation a helpful asset.

Dr. Oegema, CACC co-ordinator said, "It is an excellent opportunity for students looking for vocational training." According to Co-op instructor Mr. Ernst, "The combination of inschool activities and on the job experience helps the Co-op student head toward a postgraduate career goal."

In both cases, CACC and Co-op provided an educational experience with different occupations, a chance to delve further into selecting a future career and most importantly, a competitive edge that was essential to landing a job in a very tough job market.

ASHHS ROCKING

How did the students of Holt High School fight the mid-winter blahs? To break up the monotony, ASHHS sponsored an 'in school' rock and roll concert. January 21st, students were excused from fifth and sixth hours to enjoy music provided by the "Teen Angels" of Detroit. They played music from the Beatle and Motown eras. Principal Paul Jolly commended the students on their fine behavior and stated that future assemblies of this kind would be considered.

Along with sponsoring a concert, the Associated Students of Holt High School made homecomings run smoothly, scheduled 'Rocky Ram' appearances and organized the class elections.

GOOD

Being new students in a big school, the sophomores had a lot going against them. Of course, as expected, they survived. Thanks to their class officers, they managed to gather some involvement in one major fund raiser. They sold foam 'ram fan' hands second semester. Kim Kruger commented on her position, "It was fun and interesting overall a good experience."

BETTER

It was a busy year for the junior class. Their main responsibility was to sponsor the Junior-Senior Prom. Along with collecting the profit from the Fall Homecoming, they had fund raisers throughout the year to help cover the expenses. Mike Stone felt, "it has been a pleasure working with the many fine people in student government."

BEST

The seniors started working early in the year to raise money for the senior trip, senior breakfast and other senior activities. Along with carwashes, they sponsored the semiformal Christmas dance and had a home party bazaar which was unique to this area. By winning the Fall Homecoming, the seniors proved that they had their act together. Over thirty people were counted present at float building. Shelly McIntyre said, "I felt honored to be president of such a great class."

EASING THE DAILY LOAD

Organization was the key to a job well done. Assistance from high school students was the solution for many faculty members. Dedicated students helped to ease the load in both the senior high school and at neighboring Sycamore Elementary School. Most assistants were both, capable and assertive, picking up many of the staff's daily duties. Clerical duties such as typing, photo copying, delivering passes and filing were necessary work performed for the classroom teachers and for the front office staff. As a result, teachers were left with more time for other curriculum tasks.

Miss Jean Johnson saw a new dimension in the assistant program. "I wish more students who want to be leaders were interested in becoming PE teachers. That is what the program is for — to see if one would like to be a future instructor".

CLUB ASSISTS NEWCOMERS

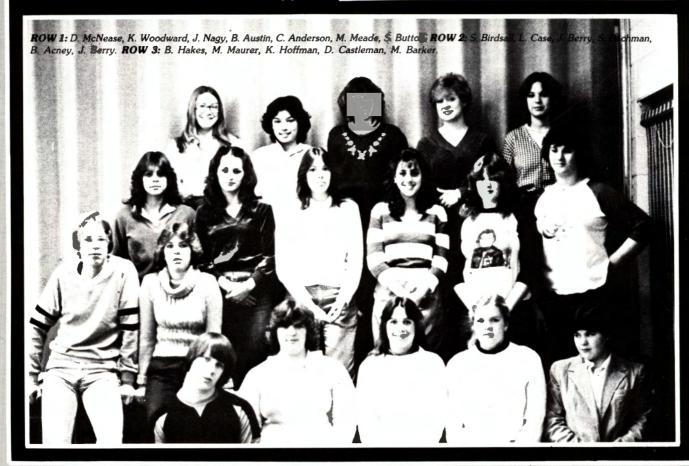

Students who came from other schools felt a little out of place. The Newcomers' Club was considered a relief from all the pressures of being new. Having new teachers, new classmates, new requirements and a new school is a lot to take on all at once. They needed someone to show them a little guidance and someone to help them adjust and cope with their new surroundings. They were under a lot of pressure to be accepted by their peers and to be given a chance to prove themselves.

The 1981-82 Newcomers' Club consisted of approximately 73 students, there were members from all over the US, and even a few from other countries. Coming from Grand Rapids in her senior year, Cathie Anderson stated, "The Newcomers Club got you off to a good start by making you feel as though you were part of the crowd!"

ETHNIC ENTERTAINMENT

Being in French or Spanish class gave students a chance to participate in the French or Spanish Clubs. "Belonging to a foreign language club is an opportunity for kids to get together and have some fun," said Spanish teacher Juanita Grew. An example of Spanish Club activities was a November trip to Ramon's Mexican Restaurant.

French Club advisor Norman Garnett stated, "The French Club promotes the French culture, language, and helps students in their understanding of different people." A highlight of the French Club agenda was the second annual French crèpe dinner. As usual, the French Club had a large membership of seventy students.

A Lot Of Talk

"To expand minds by researching and discussing current issues" was the purpose of the debate team, according to advisor, Mrs. Ann Kast. The topic discussed was increasing educational standards. Senior David Rowe said participants strived to, "think promptly, learn how to research and overcome the fear of public speaking."

Mrs. Judy Frank stated that the purpose of the forensics team was to allow students, "to compete in speech and drama activities."

Various categories included:
humorous, impromptu, dramatic interpretation and sales speaking.
After the events were assigned in January, it was evident that they worked hard to prepare for competition. In March they took top honors at districts. Senior Diana Bayles stated that she enjoyed forensics because it "built selfesteem and gave an opportunity to become involved with people from other schools."

Advisor Mrs. Frank discusses options available to the forensics members at their first meeting.

A LATE START

"Due to lack of enrollment in journalism classes, the 1982 Rapper began production midway through the year. In a class of fourteen, only four were returning staff members. With the help of the 'mostly sophomore' additions, the Rapper staff managed to improve their writing skills and interviewing techniques," commented editor junior Debbie Major.

The staff originally planned to publish six issues; unfortunately, due to lack of experience, fewer issues were distributed. Junior Michelle Lezan stated, "I missed not reading the school paper on a regular basis and I hope that there are more issues next year."

HAVE ANY SPARE TIME?

What do you do with your spare time? The class of '77 got the idea to form a club of volunteers who served the community in their spare time, currently called the STAR club. Volunteers spent time at channel 23 telethons, assisting senior citizens, helping horseback riders at the Beekman Center and collecting food baskets at Christmas time. Volunteering time could be a rewarding experience. Sophomore Kendra Folleth said, "You're doing something constructive by helping people and you gain experience in something you normally would not be associated with."

VISIT THE LOFT

The Loft took a stand with the banning of sweet candy, but business was kept up with the purchase of a new vending machine. To keep the wrappers off the school grounds and to boost sales, the Loft managers devised the game of saving the wrappers from "Tom's" products. Wrappers were worth one cent each and could be exchanged for a T-shirt.

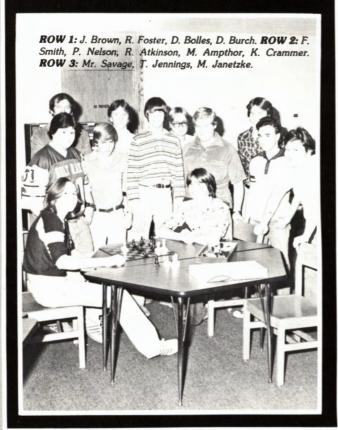

The Loft was not all fun. "It served as a classroom where students interested in learning about business fields could take charge," commented head manager Monika Clark. Although it was work, with inventory, stocking and ordering, "The leadership, responsibility and feeling of proprietorship are a few of the areas that prepared the students for all future endeavors," stated advisor Scotty Shimnoski.

NEW CHESS CLUB SAVAGE LEADER

Chess is a very old game dating back to 455 A.D. in North India. It is indeed a measure of the fascination with chess that it has captivated so many, over a long period of time, without monetary incentive. Benjamin Franklin wrote, "It is so interesting in itself, as not to need the view of gain to induce engaging in it; and thence it is never played for money." This is a slight exaggeration, to be sure, but believe it or not some students here at Holt felt the same way as Ben Franklin. Holt High School did not have a chess club, so this year interested students went to Mr. Bill Savage with their desire to play; henceforth came the 1981-82 Chess Club. Mr. Savage in collaboration with Mike Williams (co-sponsor) and Andrew York (resource person) set up practices and meets. The goals for this year's team were: possible exploration of computer chess, re-establishment of the game of chess in the area (for interscholastic competition) and the establishment of a permanent club here at Holt. When asked what the motto or firm belief of the Chess Club was Mr. Savage simply responded, "Don't accept bad checks!"

AIDES BOOKING

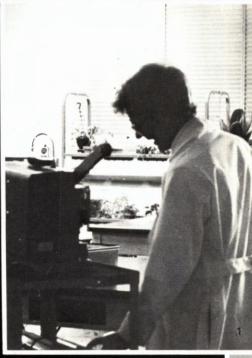

TO KEEP LIBRARY MOVING

"Most people have no idea of the number of crises we (the library staff) handle during a typical school day. So many people stereotype a library as boring and dull," said media specialist Kathy Furtaw, "but you only have to work in the library a few days to realize that astounding events happen in the library constantly." To keep up with all that happened, thirty students worked as library or audiovisual aides each semester. Their jobs ranged from checking books in and out to setting up auditorium lighting for band and vocal concerts. When compared with some of the other area schools, the media aides had more responsibility at Holt. "The work is tough, but the teachers make it worthwhile," said senior Theresa Ranger.

The John W. Chi library kept getting better. More services were provided; more books were being used, new items were added every year and more and more students used the center for studying. "Its encouraging to see students learn how to do their own research," said Mrs. Furtaw. "By their senior year, most students seem to know how to use the library effectively."

In school teachers were loved, hated, respected and resented. They taught and guided for better or worse, withstanding everything from flash floods and stray mice to missing attendance records. Like students, their lives consisted of work and play, although few students stopped to realize that the teachers were people too!

The teachers, like students, had their own lives of achievements, struggles and surprises. A most pleasant surprise came to Mrs. Furtaw and Mrs. Heilman. They received an overdue book which had been stolen from the library about twenty years ago. A letter accompanied the book, apologizing, and enclosed were the overdue fees! Mrs. Beauchine and Mrs. Lamphier had a less appealing surprise after the remodeling of human ecology rooms. Apparently, the construction work had disturbed a family of mice, which began to appear regularly in both teacher's classrooms, causing screams, shrieks and general chaos. Eventually, the rodents went exploring and could be seen popping up everywhere. The "mice scare" ended when an exterminator was hired to spray the entire building.

Teachers were involved in school related activities outside of the classroom. They doubled as coaches, sponsors and chaperones for countless numbers of underestimated, but not underappreciated, hours. Other teachers got involved in purely recreational extracurricular activities, like joining the after-school

Aerobic dancing class. But along with handing out homework and exams, the teachers shared experiences with their students. For those students who chose to interact with their teachers, school became a bit more worthwhile.

FACING A NEW CHALLENGE

When Walter Pawlowski announced his intention to retire at the conclusion of the 1980-81 school year, I decided his position as Athletic Director was one that I would like to fill. Sports has been a major interest of mine for as long as I can remember and I felt that this position was one that would involve me in an area I enjoy.

Mr. Pawlowski saw our school grow from Class C in the 1950's to Class A at the present and was instrumental in the growth of the program and the inception of female sports to a point where we now sponsor nine sports for boys and nine for girls.

The duties of an athletic director include scheduling, making arrangements for home events, hiring officials, budgeting for the ordering uniforms, equipment and supplies, arranging for transportation of teams, hiring and evaluating coaches and taking and making numerous phone calls.

As we progress through the 80's we are faced with economic conditions that put a crimp on our budgets in all areas. Trying to maintain a well-rounded athletic program becomes increasingly difficult. The people of Holt and Dimondale have always been supportive of our schools and we are hopeful that will continue and keep Holt competitive in athletics.

- Mr. Jack Crawford

FUTURE DIRECTIONS

This is my ninth year in Holt. I find it a unique area in that the community has stayed very close to schools and has never lost the enthusiasm in watching our school grow. This is evident in a lot of ways, but most notably in our community's high interest in following our athletic teams.

Our goal, however, is not only to be known as an athletic power, but also as an academic power. Our definition of power is not directed at producing more merit scholars, but rather the quality of programs for all our students. We are pleased with the direction of our academic planning.

I am sure you are aware of some of our recent physical plant changes. Our new Library, dedicated in 1978, is making a major impact on research and study skills. Development of our new Industrial Education Program, Guidance Career Information Center, Home Economics wing and Computer Center, are all excellent

A really quality faculty is continually updating curriculum and

Our ultimate goal is that each individual develop their full potential and gain sufficient skill and knowledge to participate effectively in

However, another dimension of education I feel is of equal importance to the three R's, and the learning of factual data, is to teach a sense of values to all students. They should learn not only how to think, but also learn how to sift out those things worth thinking about. Learning sheer facts is not all there is to education. The "meat and potatoes" of our educational system is to give students a living fund of knowledge in which they can generate ideas, grasp relationships, make judgements, appraise values and make good decisions about themselves.

This is one of the reasons why we are teaching courses in Futuristics, Sociology, Psychology and Humanities. We have placed an emphasis on extra-curricular activities such as our National Honor Society Red Cross Blood Drive in which we have had, for the part few years, more student participation than any other metropolitan area school. We instituted the STAR Club (Students Taking Active Roles.) We have over 100 students working with charitable organizations and tutorial programs, and they have expressed a genuine caring for our senior citizens through marathons and other fund raising activities. This type of movement, I believe, getting students to think about others rather than themselves, has been a significant factor in developing a class high school and will have its ultimate impact upon our community, High school years are a time of rapid change. They are also a time during which the major decisions of life are made. Students will decide to whom and for what they will commit their lives. And, the map maker for this trip through life is the parent, the teacher and the community.

Our mutual responsibility is to develop students who will not ask for easy lives, but rather to be stronger men and women. That they never pray for tasks equal to their powers, but powers equal to their tasks.

Holt High School is a good school enroute to becoming a great

It is our hope that Holt High School will always make the Alumni proud that they are graduates and that we can continue to develop students that make outstanding contributions to our community.

- Mr. Paul Jolly

TAKING CARE OF TODAY

There are many responsibilities HHS secretaries face. Some of these responsibilities are: helping students and parents with various problems and requests, answering phone calls and catering to the needs of the faculty members and students whenever possible.

According to Ms. Brand as the year "82" came around "Each year is more or less a repitition of the previous year, trying to supply the students with all they will need and getting everyone settled in." Although each year is unique in itself, as time passes on the duties of the secretaries become more similar to those of the previous year.

Taking on a more difficult task this past year, our Administrative Aide, Mrs. Donna Barens, has a very responsible and demanding job.

Mrs. Barens accounts for the senior high attendance and takes the Official 4th Friday Count. She also works with the teaching staff in relation to student attendance and pursues programs and projects to combat vandalism, smoking, littering and other school related problems.

LOOKING AT TOMORROW

Assistant Principal Dave Messner is always a step ahead of the situation by planning his year one semester in advance. Last year, according to Mr. Messner, the biggest problem faced was defiance of authority. Vandalism was the smallest problem, showing students are taking more pride in their school. Having the duty of disciplining students, Mr. Messner believes the best method is to persuade the students to accept responsibility for their own actions.

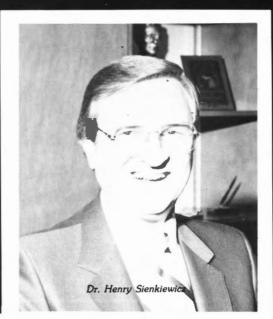

This year Mr. Messner's concentration was focused toward careers. On October 20, 1981 there was a Teachers In-Service Day. A program was planned for the faculty by Mr. Messner with the assistance of Counselor Mrs. Caryn Wells, concerning Career Education for HHS students. In past years, Career Day has been only one day. This year it was known as Career Week, involving the community, teachers, and vocational resource people. Mr. Messner also worked with the Single Survival Classes, planning a unit on "Career Shadowing." (This is spending a day at a business of your career choice).

In addition to being the school disciplinarian, it appeared that Mr. Messner also stressed the future of HHS students and the career opportunities facing them.

CHIEF SAYS:

"In large part, because Holt High School provides so many opportunities for students, it has the good fortune of enjoying an excellent reputation. First and foremost, the high school provides our students with an outstanding curriculum which is broad in scope and wide in range of educational possibilities, both academically and vocationally. Further, there are a great many co-curricular activities from the arts to athletics. Taking advantage of those opportunities both in the curricular and co-curricular areas is what makes the high school experience so unique. It is also the reason why so many Holt High School graduates look back so proudly and fondly on their high school years.'

Who mass transported our students? Who kept the cafeteria lines moving? Who unjammed our lockers? Who delivered our athletes to the hands of their opponents? The bus drivers, kitchen staff and custodians were the helpful people who made the school year more pleasant and possible. Where would we be without these services?

The bus drivers were usually there on time. Without them how could anyone have made it out to the career center? The kitchen staff made the hot meals. They also took care of the snack bar and kept the lines moving properly. The custodians kept the halls clean and safe. They were either changing locker combinations or repairing them. They kept us moving through the year of 1982.

NEW LOOK

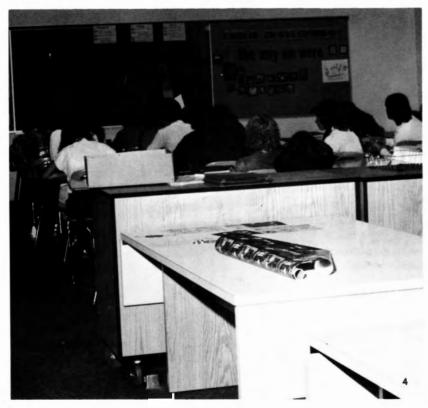

"While the newly remodeled Human Ecology department was a pleasing sight, the real beneficiaries of its modern equipment and new interior were the students taking courses in the curriculum. Since classes taught in the department emphasize man's interaction with his environment, students' attitudes were sure to reflect the attractive updated facility. The updating was badly needed, since it was the first major change since 1957," said Mrs. Nancy Lamphier.

Financed by a bond issue passed for improving existing buildings, the remodeling was completed by September of 1981. Human Ecology teachers Mrs. Sally Beauchine and Mrs. Lamphier were also excited about the new learning environment.

Mr. Jolly commented on the change saying Mrs. Lamphier and Mrs. Beauchine, being strong competent teachers, needed the right teaching tools and the revision helped them make the department stronger and even more effective.

- 1. The updated equipment in Mrs. Beauchine's cooking area made demonstrating new techniques easier.
- 4. The atmosphere in Mrs. Lamphier's room helped make her students more attentive.

COMPUTERS IN NEAR FUTURE

The future has fast become the present. A computer programing course has been added to Holt's Math Department. Computer teacher Mr. Mike Lehman believes "that computers are not only here to stay, but they are growing and entering into almost every field." Excited about the new Micro-computer course offering, Lehman felt the students' interest was extremely high and that more sections will need to be added next year. "The concept of the class is just basic programing which wasn't too hard for high school students to understand", continues Lehman.

A career in a computer related field is definitely an area for a student to consider. Hopefully this class helped them make that decision. Betty Jones commented, "I enjoyed the class very much and I felt I really learned something that will help me in the future. If you take them step by step, the programs weren't that difficult." Pam Shewchuck added, "I believe Micro-computer programing class will prepare me to work with computers in the future. One day our society will be a computer based one, and I want to be ready for it!"

Joe Dionise in his Micro Computer class puts on his thinking cap to punch his program into the computer.

DEVELOP POTENTIAL

It was nearly impossible to get through Holt High without having received a "nifty white hall pass" from the Counseling Center. "The purpose of the Holt High School Guidance and Counseling Program was to provide services which helped students discover and develop their potential to the fullest," said Head Counselor Dr. Oegema.

The responsibilities of the counselors to the students were to assist them in understanding themselves and their opportunities in a specific career. The counselors duties also include record keeping, testing, research, teacher advisory and consultation with students. Many students felt that without the help and information provided by Dr. Oegema, Mrs. York and Ms. Wells, organizing their high school years would have been much more difficult.

TWO CHALLENGES

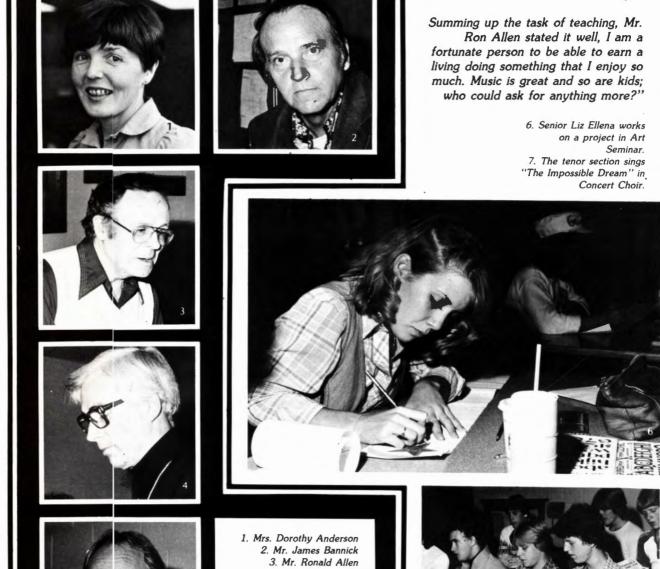

Everyone wants to drive, right? Well, courtesy of Mr. Mutch, most sophomores and juniors had an excellent opportunity on school time to earn their driving permit. Driving on the range and on the road prepared each student for the biggest challenge of all the day of the state examination. Once that hurdle was leaped, it was all downhill. Then it was just a 30-day wait and the coveted license arrived. From Mr. Mutch's viewpoint (seated in the cab of his radio-equipped pickup truck) "Most of the classes this year will hopefully deliver many quality drivers."

Aside from taking on the responsibility of five other classes, some adventurous students chose to study the Spanish or the French language.

Along with learning a new language and culture, special relationships were formed between the students and teachers. The teachers have seen many students excell to their limit for up to four years, and have seen others give up. Ms. Grew said, "If students can get through the first two years (the 'must learn grammar years'), they can have fun using the language in a variety of ways — visiting a foreign country or talking with friends about things they don't want others to understand. The challenge is in getting through those first two years!"

TOMORROW

Social Studies helps students of today cope with tomorrow. The emphasis is on how to think, study, learn and develop a general knowledge for the future. According to Mr. Jerry Gillett, "The future will be very challenging. For those that can compete, life will be interesting. For those that cannot compete, life will be difficult." Mr. Bill Savage feels, "If we are to maintain a mastery over our environment, we must combine the precision of our technology with the perspective which the social studies offers. Otherwise we will enter the twenty-first century with blinders on."

TAKING CARE OF BUSINESS

IBM typewriters, transcribers, calculators, cash registers and duplicators were just some of the different types of equipment used in business. They were used in Holt's Secretarial, Clerical and Distributive Education programs. Taught were the skills and training that students will use immediately on the job or in college. Senior Monika Clark, a cashier at Ponderosa Steak House, commented, "You definitely use all your skills gained in class plus many more you learn on the job."

ISAAC?

It's Super Alien And Company? In School Application of Abductory Cruelity? I See An Ant Crawling?

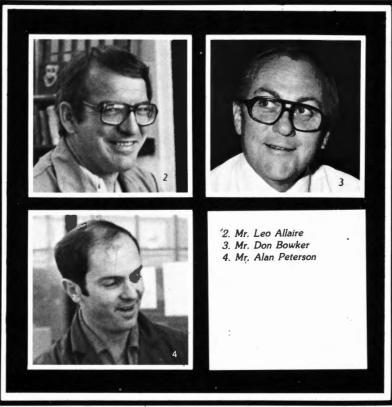

What does ISAAC stand for? The true meaning is Industrial Studies in Areas of Allied Careers. A student can select from woods, graphics, plastics, power mechanics, electronics, drafting and hot and cold metals to start off on a career or just to fix and construct things. In the area of technical and architectural drawing, drafting teacher Mr. Don Bowker had some students who graduated with enough knowledge to get a job and many others who went on for further college training. Although many students take only one semester of ISAAC and make the beginning projects, there are serious students like Senior Steve Slee who has gone past the normal class room curriculum. "I am working in the foundry and have been making supplimentry tools like flasks, metal pour and patterns." Slee said. ISAAC is one of the departments in Holt where attending class can be educational as well as fun.

CURIOSITY

Einstein once said, "Curiosity is a delicate little plant which, aside from stimulation stands mainly in need of freedom." "Our department tries to provide the students with the stimulation they need and the opportunity for freedom which will allow their curiosity to grow and develop so that one day they may become more independent." Explained Chairperson Mrs. Neureither.

"I attempt to be and act as a curious person and so make it an intergral part of my teaching style," stated physics teacher Mr. Rudd. "We answer questions which appear to have no answers in order to see the results of our conclusions," he added.

Mr. Burgess believed in a stimulating physical and mental environment. His biology classroom was a "living" example of his philosophy. He allows occasional projects to satisfy curiosity.

New to the Science department were the new chemistry teacher, Mr. Ayotte, and Mr. Rudd's Stress and Relaxation training techniques. Both of these gave the department a new look and made the year a little different.

FITNESS!

Four count jumping jacks ... football ... sweat suits and white t-shirts borrowing deoderant ... basketball with Shipman ... racing to the blow dryers ... five minutes to dress four minutes around the gym - all these and more lead up to a year in PE class. Along with football, volleyball and swimming were tennis, golf, weightlifting and track. Miss Jean Johnson, Mrs. Lila Guenther and Mr. Dave Shipman taught us the things we had to know to pass the class. To be a success in physical education we were taught how to get along with others in team sports and individual sports and to accept responsibility for our own actions, wrong or right. According to Mr. Shipman, "Attempting to do as well as you can in physical education and approaching physical fitness as a life long part of living," was the most important thing he tried to teach the students.

- 4. Free-time basketball in PE class is more exerting than it looks.
- 5. Kim Vaughn and Misty Baker work together with the weightlifting equipment.

SUPPORT FOUND

"The library is the core of every student's education," stated Mrs. Furtaw. "I've seen many improvements in my two years at Holt. I feel more students and teachers are using the John W. Chi Library." With the more serious duties, our media specialist has her lighter moments. "I've been asked 'Where can I buy a wolf cub?' 'Do you have any styrofoam cups we can use?' 'Who should I take to the prom?' 'Where's the big yellow book I used last year?' (with 14,000 books in the library). The most common question was, "I need a book for a book review. Do you have something short and easy?" Until this day, a few questions are still unanswered. One is "Why is it when you shake cold pop and tap it three or four times, it will not spray?"

The Reading Center had a change in staff and location. "Title I" was the official name for the project. Federal money was set aside for helping students with any type of reading problems. Teachers referred students to Mrs. Sergrist, the new part-time reading staff worker, and she in turn tested their reading ability to determine the help they needed. Located in the east end of the 300 hallway, students could find this help daily from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

Changes were also made in the staffing and location of the Adjusted Studies program. An additional part-time special education teacher, Mrs. Berkey, was welcomed to the high school. She and Mrs. Bailey gave individual support to their students, helped them organize their work, planned schedules, explained career opportunities and counseled personal problems or crises.

NEW YEAR

NEW ASSIGNMENTS

The Communication Arts Department is the largest department in HHS. More students passed through the Communication Arts Department than any other department in the school.

Here were some comments made by some of the Communication Arts teachers: "I enjoy teaching writing because I get to see real progress during the course of the year. Those students who are willing to work hard at writing feel good about themselves when they've completed the class, and that makes me happy," stated Mrs. Marietta. Mrs. Kast added, "I really enjoy reading creative writing papers. My students come up with some very interesting ideas!"

What values did the teachers feel their students received from taking their classes? "I hope that they realized the vast treasure to be found through literature and the benefit good writing can be to them now and in the future," said department chairperson Mrs. Lynch and "Learning to listen and follow directions" concluded Mrs. Fleishman.

8. Mrs. Frank takes her job seriously, even on Halloween.

Homecoming, Fine Arts Day and the German Exchange Program have been popular activities at Holt for many years. They have brought interest to students and teachers alike. However, the 1981-82 year added some new twists to the old favorites. Fall Homecoming has always been one of the most popular times of the year for students, with float building and the football game heading the list of events. This year the big game was against a team from Lorne Parks. The addition of the Canadian team to the structure. The Drama Club performed and student art homecoming format was very successful. Of course, the fact that Holt emerged victorious at the game only added to the excitement!

Fine Arts Day, a longtime favorite at the school, brought a bit of sunshine to an otherwise dreary winter. The event was expanded and renamed "Community Arts In Action Day." The idea of involving the community was introduced to the traditional exhibit works were displayed as in previous years, but the addition of works by local artists and performers was all new. The community talent show featured students, teachers, alumni and Holt residents. The response to the exhibit and the show was very positive. Everyone enjoyed the larger and more interesting festival. Unlike previous years, the first week of the three week foreign exchange program fell over spring break at Holt. Many of the German students got to travel with their host families and see many parts of America, from Northern Michigan to North Carolina. Late in the vacation week, the girls were brought together for a pool-n-pizza party at the school. The vacation period gave the girls lots of free time, away from busy classes, to just relax and have fun. However, the exchange was educational too. The German girls attended classes after vacation and studied the Holt School system. They left with new friends and a greater understanding of American families and schools.

HOMECOMING DIARY 1981

A WEEK OF EXCITEMENT, SUNGLASSES AND RAIN

Monday, October 12: Many weird combinations of color were present on "Clash Day". It looked like a convention for thousands of clothes manufacturers and everyone wore one of everything.

Tuesday, October 13: Holt High went "punk"!

Two Ties and Sunglasses Day was a chance for everyone to get a little wild. But who were the wild ones? Hidden behind dark lenses, they were hard to recognize.

Wednesday, October 14: "Alert-Alert Alert Holt High School is being invaded by alien creatures. Wearing masks and sporting aluminum suits, these creatures are reported armed with disk shooting pistols!"

Thursday, October 15: It was the traditional Homecoming Brown and Gold Day. It sure felt like "Holt" with everyone displaying our great school colors.

Friday, October 16: Theme Day was the best day of Homecoming Week. It gave each class a chance to really compete. The day started early in the morning putting up hall signs.

Experiencing their first Homecoming, the Sophomores dressed-up for Halloween. Their "spirits" were high as they were out to spook the upperclassmen.

The Juniors celebrated Valentine's Day. Almost everywhere you looked a little junior cupid ran around sporting red tights.

With hats and noisemakers (courtesy of Jeanette Mulvany) the Senior Class again dominated Homecoming. Celebrating both New Years and their Senior Year, the 1981 Homecoming was very special.

COME WITH US TO WEST GERMANY

Once again a successful German Exchange program punctuated the two weeks following the spring break. Fifteen Holt students hosted fifteen students of the Elsa Brandstrom Gymnasium from Munich, West Germany. Accompanied by their chaperon, Karin Feldman, the girls visited Greenfield Village, toured Detroit's Rennaissance Center and the campus of Michigan State University and visited the capitol building. During the threeweek program they were well-received by Holt students and many friendships were formed. "Saying goodbye will almost be as hard for us as saying goodbye to our real families," said exchange student Traudi Noske.

Reciprocating the German students' visit twelve Holt students, along with Mr. and Mrs. Kressler, spent three weeks of their summer in Munich touring castles and cathedrals and visiting with the German students that Holt hosted.

GUILTY OR INNOCENT?

"Have you reached a verdict?" was the question posed to twelve playgoers on November 20 and 21 at the fall All School Play, "The Night of January 16th" by Ann Rand. To bring the spectators into the action, a twelve member jury was selected from the audience. Through the sets and the general atmosphere, director Jewel Ratzlaff succeeded in creating the feeling of a genuine courtroom.

The purpose of the trial was to determine whether the death of a great philanthropist was the result of murder or suicide. On opening night the defendant, Karen Andre (junior Delle Carnahan) was unanimously voted guilty of murder, and on closing night, not guilty. Senior Tony Yuhasz commented, "The play was a real challenge because we never had experience with a courtroom drama before. It was also interesting because of the number of underclassmen who participated."

A FEAST OF FINE PERFORMANCE

1982 was the year of the first annual Community Arts in Action Day; it involved the community of Holt as well as the high school. Events began at 4:00 and lasted into the evening. Throughout the day an art exhibit featured the works of many area artists in addition to those of Holt students, and demonstrations were given in mural painting, fly tying and potter's wheel.

Following the musical, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" a pancake dinner was held in the cafeteria, much to the appreciation of those who were planning to spend the entire afternoon at Fine Arts Day.

Later in the evening a community talent show featured local talent ranging from Holt alumni to State Representative Debbie Stabenow and included performing art from operatic singing to dance. Mr. David Messner, coordinator of Fine Arts Day, stated, "We were pleased with the turnout of participants and spectators."

A highlight of the afternoon was the Holt High School Players' presentation of the musical comedy, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" in the Pernert Auditorium. Mrs. Jewel Ratzlaff, director of the play, said, "Charlie Brown is such an exhilerating, fun show that it gave the cast as well as the audience a real boost."

FUN AND GAMES

I heard that a stranger walked into Holt High School on February 15, 1982 and saw a mass of students wearing T-Shirts. The stranger wondered whether Holt students ever dressed up. Returning the next day he saw, to his amazement, students wearing clothing inside out and even backwards. "What an odd school," the stranger thought. Compelled to come back, he returned Wednesday. He saw students wearing different kinds of hats and buttons galore. On Thursday, nothing appeared unusual, but wait, everywhere he looked different shades of brown and gold passed by. The stranger, knowing this school was odd, just had to come back Friday. He was totally confused! The hallways housed groups of students hanging posters. There were doctors together, designer jeans together, and preppies together. Approaching a young girl dressed in Calvin Kleins, the stranger asked for an explanation. "Why, it's Winter Homecoming week," replied the girl. And so it was and a very exciting one at that.

The overall Winter Homecoming competition was won by the spirited seniors. They took first place in making hall signs and first place with their skit. Seniors also won many of the lunchtime games. Sophomores won the loud mouth contest and the Mellow Yellow competition (thanks to Dave McNease who guzzled faster than past winners Doug Stover and Gordy Magee).

The Homecoming Pep Assembly had a new twist. It was held in the auditorium instead of the gym. Packing both the auditorium and the balcony, the rowdy crowd was led on by Speaker Bridget Galvin, the Pep Band and the cheerleading squads. Joy Morales was on hand to announce the lunchtime game winners and Kathy O'Neill praised the wrestlers on their winning season. Mr. Dan Ernst judged the loud mouth contest as he has done for many years. This Homecoming was one to be remembered by all, especially the seniors because it was their last.

WINTER HOMECOMING SPIRITS

The excitement of homecoming week was a build-up for the homecoming game, the coronation of King Dennis Hull and Queen Karen Cole and the homecoming dance. even though the Rams lost to Everett the enthusiasm wasn't dampened. The Pep Band kept spirits high while the Pom Pon Squad dazzled spectators with a new routine.

"We worked extra hard to make this performance a memorable one from the reaction of the crowd, all of our hard work paid off," sophomore Pom Pon Squad member JoDee Ihrcke commented.

Between the JV and Varsity basketball games, the 1982 Winter Homecoming Court was introduced. Announced as princes and princesses were: Tom Sherman and Carol Shier, Leonard Diamond and Lisa Howell. The other court members were: Gordy Magee and Shelly McIntyre, Sam Ross and Linda Wagner, Tom Abdo and Michelle Bos, Mark McFarland and Karen Phreed.

Weicomed in by the lights and music of The Entertainment System, the king, queen and court continued to reign throughout the homecoming dance. The week's activities came to an end while students danced the night away!

MIRACLES DO HAPPEN

There was a considerable amount of dancing (choreographed by seniors Mary Houghton, Janette Mulvany, Tami Hofstra, junior Cathy Hadwin and sophomore Lynette Lay) in the 1982 musical "Brigadoon". "A lot of long, hard disciplined hours went into the musical, especially the dancing, but it was really worth it!" stated junior Gregg Moore. Director Ronald Allen presented "Brigadoon" Fridays April 23 and 30, and Saturdays April 24 and May 1. Set in the Highlands of Scotland, 'Brigadoon' was full of suspense, mystery, witches, miracles and LOVE! For added attraction Scottish skirts were purchased and Mr. Drew Cambell, and actual Scotsman, played the bagpipes and Scottish accents . were practically perfect.

PILLOW TALK TALKS BACK

Talk! Talk! Talk! The phone was the most used prop on hand for the spring play "Pillow Talk." Director Jewel Ratzlaff gave the advice "Energy! Let energy flow in all your actions and let's make this play the best!" and "Pillow Talk" was a huge success. Once again, Myra Grant and Thom Foy dazzled audiences with their fine acting abilities. There were large turnouts both nights, March 5th and 6th, with no major turmoil before or during either performance.

Mrs. Ratzlaff said this will probably be the last play she directs at Holt High. Said Thom Foy "There is a cosmic force in this Universe that pulls all things into a common one and disipates them out to the immediate world; and this force is called Jewel Ratzlaff!" She will be missed greatly, especially by all the students who have been in her plays. Mike Ortiz commented, "Mrs. Ratzlaff was the special kind of person that cared for other peoples' achievements — especially in the aspect of acting. She really made life one big state."

NATURALLY TALENTEL

Bridget Galvin and Tony Yuhasz, voted best dramatists, had for all their high school years been actively involved in every all-school play production. Both had held many roles from small parts to lead roles — and had skillfully succeeded.

Their wide range of talents had more than sufficiently intrigued audiences for years. Having worked with capable high school directors, they were able to utilize skilled advice and guidance to bring out their natural talents.

Bridget Galvin, who began acting when she was six, planned on making it big in show biz! She dreamed of becoming rich and knowing she got that way because of her talent. She hoped to go on to Wayne State University and major in theatre, minor in theatrical teaching and end up a real "smart cookie!"

Tony Yuhasz was not only blessed with the talent of serious acting, but comedy as well. He proved this in "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown" (in which he had the lead), "Thurber Carnival", and as a mad doctor in "Here Come The Brides". He enrolled in LCC for the spring term of his senior year and planned to attend Michigan Technological University in the fall and study either chemical or computer engineering. "I hope to one day become an engineer or be independently wealthy, whichever comes first. As for my life-long goals, I plan to grow old, SLOWLY!

MEMORIES

The 1982 Junior/Senior Prom was a memorable event that everyone enjoyed. It was a time to remember all the enjoyable and happy times that have been shared throughout the year.

The Longs Banquet Center created a perfect atmosphere and May 21st was the perfect night. Miss Grew and the Junior Class were responsible for making this prom a success. It was also successful because the band UNIVERSE played great music all night long. "The atmosphere, the tuxes and gowns all were gorgeous!" senior Tami Hofstra commented.

EFFORTS RECOGNIZED

On May 25 students were recognized for excelling in various academic and leadership areas. Because the students weren't told of their awards before the program, the evening held an element of surprise. "It was nice watching everyone's reactions to their awards," commented Senior Laura Strickling. Senior Liz Lind stated, "I became aware of the varied programs that students participated in."

Mr. Norman Garnett said that he enjoyed the evening because "I love to see the parents. I feel that it rewards them for all the time they spent raising their new adults." The evening ended with the dedication of the yearbook to Mrs. Vonalea Kitzman.

SPRING ATHLETES RECOGNIZED

The Spring Sports Awards Assembly successfully gave recognition to our teams and to many individuals with singular awards. Lisa Howell received the John Reid Scholarship while Mary Kay won the Walt Pawloski Award, both for $200 dollars. Liz Lind won the Sportsmanship Award for displaying good sportsmanship and having been active in more than one sport. Lisa Howell and Mark Leyrer both received athlete of the year. A group of 95 students received their senior plaques: The assembly turned out to be a happy time for everyone, especially the enthusiastic seniors.

JOBS VIEWED

So what do you want to be when you grow up?
Sounds childish but as students got closer to graduation their minds were directed more towards the future. As the third annual Career Day got under way, students were exposed to 59 career choices and talked with professionals from their top three career choices. Ms. Mary Jackson of the Federal Aviation Administration talked about flight control, and stated, "Many questions were asked the students seemed really positive." This appeared to be the reaction of most of the 63 professionals. Although Keith Cummings of WILS who talked about radio, stated "It might be better if there was just one longer to give students a deeper awareness of one career.

In addition to the talks, the speakers were served a well planned luncheon by the meal management classes. They designed the menu and the food was bought by teacher Mrs. Sally Beauchine. She said, "Things went very well and I was very pleased with how everything turned out."

A LEGACY IN PAINT

1982 might have been called the year of the mural. In the name of greater visual appeal, a door in the art room, the long blank wall of the library hallway and the old tree mural in the lobby were assaulted with acrylic paints and brushes wielded by Art Seminar students. Thanks to senior Hazel Stevens a once dull door in Mrs. Anderson's room now proclaims "Fine Arts." The long library hall was emblazoned with a colourful "Holt Rams" by several Art Seminar students under the leadership of Hazel Stevens, and senior John Ignatowski portrayed Mr. Allen's grand piano in the auditorium lobby. Art teacher Mrs. Anderson stated, "The murals are more than creative artworks. They represent a year of time and commitment. It is difficult for high school students to return day after day to a task so massive. Now, we can benefit from their perseverance."

REWARDED FOR HIGH GRADES

On two special nights in May, senior students of Holt High School were honored for their academic achievements.

May 3, the top ten students and their families enjoyed a banquet at the Holt United Methodist Church. The Holt Kiwanis Club sponsored the dinner along with donating books in the their honor to the John W. Chi Library. Representative Ernest Nash provided a guest speaker and certificates of recognition on his behalf.

May 17, seniors with a cumulative grade point average of 3.5 or better gathered at the junior high school. The Board of Education sponsored a catered meal. After the dinner, Dr. Philip J. Gannon, president of Lansing Community College made a presentation on a new exchange program in Japan. At the conclusion of the program students received framed certificates of achievement.

GOOD FOOD FOR THOUGHT

The senior breakfast marked the final school day for the graduation class. The meal was prepared by parents of students and was followed by commencement practice on the football field. Laura Counterman delivered a short prayer before the meal and principal Paul Jolly spoke briefly on the meaning of graduation. Overall, the event was successful, with good food and good company to celebrate graduation.

- 1. Chowing down is much better than attending first hour.
- 2. Senior parents serve Bob Root.
- 3. Seniors finish up and prepare for commencement practice.
- 4. Gordon Sinclair, Daniel Harmon and Belinda Garcia enjoy a delicious breakfast.

ADVENTURE

Tradition breakers. The class of '82 successfully ventured to Cedar Point, Friday, May 28, on their senior trip with no breakdowns or major illnesses.

Upon arrival, each group of excited adventurous seniors went their own way.

Screaming down the "Gemini" and standing in endless lines were not uncommon. The freezing 4:00 rain momentarily slowed them down, cooled them off and refreshed them to take on the rest of the day. The most talked about rides were the "White Water Landing" and of course the ever popular rollercoasters.

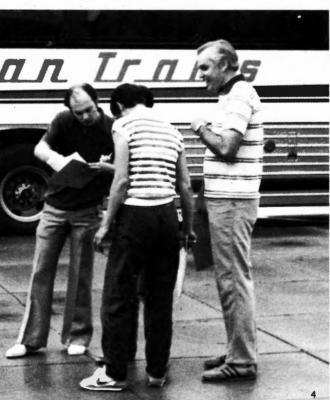

The rowdy bus ride home brought to a conclusion a long, tiring day — a day that will be remembered as a day of having fun with friends.

- 1. A talented bunch of game player's show of their prizes. (Tim Truax, John Holms, Phil Baker, Ed Mau, Todd Self, Mike Thompson)
- 2. Hanging loose at Cedar Point! (Chris Kime, Kurt Boegner, Mark Corr, Rich Yabs, Dennis Hull, Ed Weaver)
- 3. Sam Ross, Mike Atkinson and Mike Pell pause before attempting the corkscrew.
- 4. Mr. A. Peterson and Mrs. C. Jagutis meet Steve Martin at
- 5. Seniors get rowdy on the bus ride home.

GRADUATION:

At 4:00 Sunday, June 6 many seniors and their families sacrificed their fun-in-the-sun time to attend the Baccalaureate service at the high school auditorium. What made the service special was student participation. They contributed by singing, reading and praying. Dr. Myron K. Williams delivered an inspiring message, "Dare to be Danial". Williams encouraged students to select goals and stand up for their beliefs.

On the windy evening of Thursday, June 10, the graduating class of 1982 gathered together for the last time on Troost Field to receive their long awaited diplomas. The commencement speakers seniors Shelly McIntyre, Denise Jennings and Joe Dionese recollected old school memories and spoke of the future bringing both tears and smiles to the audience. Dr. Robert Foy, president of the Board of Education, presented the diplomas, and tassels were moved from right to left. The event ended with a traditional tossing of hats and then the graduates marched off the field, leaving high school days and echoes of Pomp and Circumstance behind.

- 1. Members of the choir sing "Kum Ba Ya" and "The Lord's Prayer."
- 2. Singing "Out On My Own" are Karen Phreed and LeeAnn Pence.
- 3. Eager to graduate are Gordon Evey and Cindi Taggart.
- 4. Denise Jennings delivers a touching speech addressed to both parents and seniors.
- 5. Graduates from the class of 1982.

GROWING UP - MOVING ON

As toddlers they learned nursery rhymes and how to spell their names. From Mother Goose to Doctor Seuss, childhood life was fun and games.

Then as they grew, they started school which wasn't quite so bad, there were "spelling bees" and "ABC's" to educate the lads.

Of course, learning math was kinda hard and grammar was confusing, but the recess days and Christmas plays made school for kids amusing.

They giggled their way to junior high, jumping rope and playing "coodies", but there they had more serious work with responsibilities and duties.

The childhood games like hopscotch were replaced by school athletics, and the students learned the importance of enriching their academics.

Algebra and IPS seemed awfully tough at first, and the homework and the headaches just had to be the worst!

Still, junior high wasn't all that bad, with the work came lots of play.

The bell would ring at 2:20 ending school, but starting the day.

Eventually, came high school, the final move to make, the students faced the task of scheduling — which classes should they take?

They were cast into a frightening new world, and no matter how they tried, adjusting wasn't easy — they were still just kids inside.

Oh the trauma of that first date and of taking drivers ed, were enough to scare 'most anyone but some fun things lay ahead.

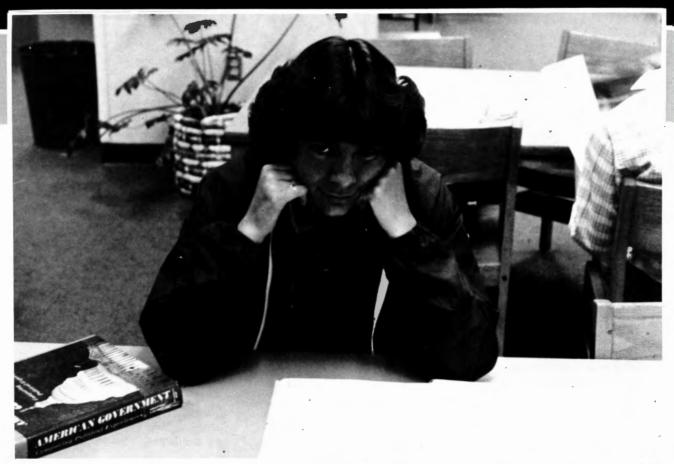

There were football games and dances to chase away the schoolwork blues and on summer nights when school was out the kids just loved to cruise.

From fall to spring the hours dragged, but the summers went by fast, before they really expected it, the high school years had past.

Graduation marked the grand finale, the end of their secondary training, but real learning comes from living, and every end is a new beginning.

1981 will go down in history as being a bad year for business. Inflation continued to soar, while unemployment reached an all-time high. Prices skyrocketed and the average American income was hard hit. The state of the national economy effected Holt, calling for several changes in the school budget. Perhaps the most noticeable effect of the economy could be seen by students in the cafeteria lunch line. Hot lunch prices went up again, from 60¢ to 95¢ in one year.

Educational institutions of all kinds were hurt by cutbacks in federal aid. Surveys given to seniors at Holt showed that less students would be attending college in the fall because of high costs, and more college bound students planned to attend community colleges to save money. With the cost of tuition on the upswing and financial aid taking a sharp decrease, it appeared that a college education was fast becoming a luxury for the rich.

ADS ADS ADS ADS ADS ADS ADS ADS ADS ADS

Publications and Journalism classes, both dependent on advertising income to publish the yearbook and school paper, saw a decline in profits due to businesses having to "spend less money". The overall result of the ad situation may ultimately be more expensive yearbooks and newspapers for the future students.

Despite the many problems caused by the economic crunch, 1981-82 did have it's high point. Gas prices dropped below a dollar for the first time in two years. While prices expected to rise again soon, any break from inflation was welcome.

Students asked questions ranging from "will I be able to find a job after graduation?" to "will school lunches go up again?" Economy is an unpredictable topic. 1983 will have to answer the questions of today.

Class A state champion, Mark Leyrer is with Holt Coach Rocky Shaft. Leyrer won his first place in the 167 lb. weight division and was the only wrestler from Holt to capture a state championship.

At the 1981 State Track Meet, Bill Stone's mile time of 4:12.6 qualified him for All American recognition. In March of 1982, Stone returned to Holt for an all school assembly where principal Paul Jolly presented the award.

LOOKING BACK

When looking back on high school days, some things will come to mind, to remind us of the fun we had years ago, in younger times.

There were food fights in the lunchroom and lounging in the halls, but doing doughnuts in the parking lot was the most fun of all.

We went to pep assemblies and watched the sophomore skits, they always tried their hardest but their plays were just the pits!

Oh, all those classroom hours, all the stuff we had to do, and all the boring lectures that we had to listen to these things we'll remember, forever and a day, cause these make up the memories that never fade away.
